EMPEROR'S PHYSICIAN TO ATTEND RASPUTIN.

Woman Would-be Assassin Regrets Not Killing Him.

Anxious to Put End to Evils Wrought by Mystic Lay Monk.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 15.—The Emperor of Russia's court physician, Professor Serglus Petrovitch Federoff, and the empress lady in waiting, Mlle. Virubova, started today for Tyumen, Siberia, according to the Courier, to attend the mystic lay monk and imperial confident, Gregory Rasputin, who is suffering from a wound inflicted on him by a woman who tried to kill him.

In a newspaper interview today, Guseva, the would-be assassin, who is in jail, said she had long meditated killing Rasputin and thus "putting an end to the awful evil wrought by him in Russia by his impostures under the guise of a prophet." She declared "he had shaken Christianity, was sowing temptation, and was blasphemously mocking the most holy feelings of true believers," and she added that: "He enjoyed absolute immunity, and had openly and without conscience ruined the lives of young girls."

Guseva concluded: "I, as a simple Christian, could not suffer his abuse of the church. I wanted to kill him last year. I went to Yalta, but could not approach him, because he was so closely surrounded by aristocratic women followers. I regret that I failed to kill him. All the same, he will not live. The Russian people will not endure such a disgrace."

Rasputin, in an interview said: "It is all that cursed Heliodorus, abbott of Tsaritsyn, but to the confusion of himself and all my enemies I will live and they will have nooses put around their necks."

Heliodorus was a great rival of Rasputin in the Russian capital, whence he was recently banished owing to Rasputin's influence with the emperor.

Rasputin is recovering from his wound.

WHITNEY'S ENTRIES WIN.

Two Secure First Place and One Placed Second at New Market.

NEW MARKET, England, July 15.—Harry Payne Whitney had a good day with his horses at today's races here, two of them winning and one being placed second. His four-year-old Harmonicon won the principal event, the July handicap of $2,500 over a distance of six furlongs, and his two-year-old Sandusky carried of the two-year-old selling plate of $750 over a distance of five furlongs, while his three-year-old Sandman ran second in the Swaffham welter handicap of $1,000 over a distance of one mile. All were bred in the United States.

FORCED TO ABANDON.

Wolffe Starts on Tenth Attempt to Swim English Channel.

BOULOGNE, July 15.—Jabel Wolffe, English abateur long distance swimmer, was forced by a rising wind and sea to abandon his attempt to swim across the English channel today. It was his tenth attempt. He entered the water at 4 o'clock in the morning at Cape Grisnez and had reached midchannel at 10:05. A caried pigeon sent up by his companions brought the information that Wolffe was then swimming strongly.

WAGE INCREASE REFUSED.

Box Makers at Two Plants in Lawrence Strike.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 15.—Forty box makers employed by the D. W. Pingree Lumber Company and 30 employes of George W. Dinsmore went out on a strike today when their demand for an 8 per cent increase in wages was refused. The box makers at the Lawrence Lumber Company, who have made a similar demand, remained at work, as there was no one in authority at the plant to refuse or grant the increase, the manager being out of town. The present scale is $12.10 per week.

FOR SALEM'S UNEMPLOYED.

Textile Mills and Shoe Factories May Offer Them Work.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Two hundred of the thousands of men and women thrown out of employment after the fire at Salem, Mass., may find work in textile mills and shoe factories in other sections of New England, according to information received today at the Department of Commerce. Secretary Wilson sent telegrams of inquiry yesterday throughout the eastern states asking about openings for Salem's unemployed.

NEW LOW RECORD REACHED.

Urgent Selling of New Haven Attended by Unsettlement Elsewhere.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Urgent selling of New Haven shares, which declined to a new low record on the Stock Exchange at 49¾ at mid-day, was attended by a considerable unsettlement elsewhere in the stock market. Offerings of New Haven came most in 100 and 200 share lots, suggesting that the liquidation came mainly from small investors who had become disheartened as a result of the report of the Interstate Commerce Commission concerning the former management of the property.

Commission houses, with New England connections, where New Haven shares were for years listed as a sound investment, were among the principal sellers today, but the movement, according to rumor, was materially assisted by bear selling from Boston.

FEDERALS BEGIN TO LEAVE GUAYAMAS.

Embarkation of Horses and Cattle First Steps Taken.

Will Result in Opening Southern Pacific Shops at Empalm.

ON BOARD U. S. S. CALIFORNIA, Mazatlan, Mexico, July 15, via San Diego, July 15.—Evacuation of Guaymas by the Mexican Federal forces was begun today with the arrival of steamer Benito Juarez, according to reports made to Rear Admiral Howard. The first step preliminary to the general exodus of Federals began with the embarkation of horses and cattle.

Conferences between the Federal and Constitutionalist generals at Guaymas, relative to the exchange of prisoners, continued throughout the day and the arrangements have been practically completed, the Federal commander reserving the right to certain exceptions when the transfers are made.

The California and destroyer Preble departed today for La Paz, Lower California, where it is expected that the Federals and insurgents will agree on the joint support of Carranza.

Colonel Gomez, a Zapata officer who has been taking charge of Acapulco in the name of the Constitutionalists, has promised protection to all foreigners. His forces there consist of 2,000 men. This evacuation of Guaymas by the Federals will have the effect of reopening the large Southern Pacific railroad shops at Empalme, on the outskirts, and in the restoration of through service between Nogales, Arizona and Tepic.

HUERTA MAY LEAVE TODAY.

Some Believe is Preparing a Final Desperate Stand.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—With Huerta's family and several close friends in flight today from Mexico City, the resignation of the dictator is expected to take place at any time by the State Department and members of the diplomatic corps in Washington. Despatches from Mexico City state that Huerta and his minister of war, General Blanquet, may follow their families to Vera Cruz today.

In some quarters however, the view is expressed that Huerta may hold out longer and that the departure of his relatives only means that he is preparing to make a final desperate stand against the advancing Constitutionalists, commanding his troops in person. Some administration officials say they are not convinced that Huerta is ready to quit, while Querido Mohenoy, former minister of commerce in the Federal cabinet, is quoted as declaring that "Huerta will not leave Mexico so easily as is generally thought."

Nevertheless, diplomats in Washington are directing their efforts to avert fighting in the Federal capital and arranging some means of transferring power to the Constitutionalists without further loss of life.

Carranza's forces continued preparation today to press their campaign against Mexico City. Villa's army, gathered in Chihuahua, is ready for the movement southward, while General Obregon's forces, flushed with their recent victory at Guadalajara, soon will be in condition, it is said, to resume their campaign.

That the Constitutionalists will be in Mexico City within a few weeks, regardless of the action of the Huerta government is the belief expressed by some officials.

No word of the movement or intentions of General Huerta was contained in the early official despatches today. The only official communication from Mexico City was a message from the Brazilian legation there, the contents of which had evidently been censored until nothing but a mere list of routine formal announcements was made.

TAKE SUPPLIES FOR CAMPAIGN.

Constitutionalist Troop Trains Leave Monterey for the South.

MONTERREY, Mexico, July 15.—Forty Constitutionalist troop trains left here yesterday for the south, with men and supplies for use in the campaigns against San Luis Potosi and Aguas Calientes. General Pablo Gonzales, commander of the division of the northeast, is expected to leave Saltillo today to take personal command in the attacks.

In a statement issued by General Carranze yesterday, the "first chief" recites that he will not treat with the Federals except in the event of their unconditional surrender. A request from American mine owners and others of Sonora that they be allowed to pay back taxes in Hermosillo has been granted by General Carranza. Under the Mexican law the holders of mining property who fail to pay taxes lose title to the land.

CRUDE OIL REDUCED.

Corning and Ragland Unchanged at Opening of Market.

PITTSBURGH, July 15.—Further reduction in the price of crude oil was announced here at the opening of the market today. Pennsylvania crude $1.50, Mercer black $1.27, New Castle $1.27, Cabell $1.32, Somerset $1.02. The reduction in Pennsylvania was five cents a barrel and other grades three cents. Corning and Ragland were unchanged at $1 and 70 cents, respectively.

REFINED PETROLEUM LOWER.

Standard Oil Company of New York Reduces All Grades.

NEW YORK, July 15.—The Standard Oil Company of New York today announced a reduction of 15 points on all grades of refined petroleum for export, making cases 10.75 cents per gallon, tanks 4.75c and refined at New York and Philadelphia 8.25c.

SHAMROCK IV TO LEAVE THIS WEEK.

Designer Says She Has Done All Required of Her.

Crew to Take Turns Luxuriating on the Erin on the Trip Across.

GOSPORT, England, July 15.—Everything is ready for the departure July 18 for the United States of Shamrock IV, Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger for the America's cup. Her compasses have been adjusted, her kedge rig fitted, and steam yacht Erin, also belonging to Sir Thomas, is waiting to convoy her across the Atlantic.

"Shamrock IV has done all that has been asked of her," is the final word of Charles E. Nicholson, the designer. He admits, however, that the trial boat was in no way satisfactory as the type of opponent which would enable yachtsmen accurately to gauge Shamrock IV's chances of lifting the America's cup.

Underwriters at Lloyds are not so optimistic as Mr. Nicholson concerning the Shamrock IV's chances. Their estimate today was, roughly, 3 to 1 against the challenger. In other words, they are issuing policies at a premium of 25 per cent to pay the total loss, if Shamrock IV should prove successful. A similar task in connection with an aeroplane flight across the Atlantic during the present year is being covered at eight per cent. The crew of the Shamrock IV, numbering more than 30 men, is to be divided during the voyage across, half of the sailors luxuriating on board the Erin as far as the Azores and then relieving their shipments for the remainder of the journey.

CLOSE RESULTS EXPECTED.

Vote on Nomination of Jones to Reserve Board Likely Last of Week.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—After a night of constant effort to line up administration Senators for President Wilson's nomination of Thomas D. Jones of Chicago for the federal reserve board, the whips reported to the White House today that a vote probably would not be reached before Friday or Saturday, and the results, while a victory for the President, would be very close.

Six Democratic Senators were reported at the White House as unalterably opposed to the confirmation. Senators regarded as doubtful went to the White House for conferences with the President. Officials said the President was taking no part in the preliminary fight for a vote in open session.

LEGISLATION DISCUSSED.

Grand Lodge of Elks to Consider Adding Music to Ritual of the Order.

DENVER, Col., July 15.—The official decks swept clean of contests for offices and the 1915 reunion date and place selected, the golden jubilee session of the Grand Lodge, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks entered upon the discussion of legislation today. One of the most radical innovations the grand lodge has been asked to consider is that of adding vocal music to the ritual of the order. The Minneapolis Glee Club, a subordinate lodge, is sponsor for the innovation. For an hour yesterday, in the heat of the election contests, the grand lodge deviated from its program and listened to a song accompaniment to the ritual presented by the Minneapolis singers.

GENERAL HOLIDAY IN ST. JOHN.

City Celebrates Landing of the Duke of Connaught.

ST. JOHN, Newfoundland, July 15.—Today was observed as a general holiday here in honor of the landing of the Duke of Connaught, governor general of Canada, after his voyage on warship Essex along the coasts of Newfoundland. All vessels in port were decorated and in the city flags were flying everywhere. It was arranged that the duke should be received by the governor of Newfoundland, Sir Walter Davidson, Premier Sir Edward Morris, and members of the cabinet, pastors of churches and foreign consuls.

A visit to the King George V Institute, devoted to the interests of seamen and fishermen, was to be followed by a review of cadet brigades on St. George's field. The duke also planned to open Bowring Park, an eight-acre tract given to the city by a large fishing firm, and to lay the corner stone of a tuberculosis sanatorium.

TWO MILITANTS ARRESTED.

Right Hon. Thomas Wood Struck With Heavy Horse Whips.

LONDON, July 15.—Two militant suffragettes today made a violent attack on the Right Hon. Thomas McKinnon Wood, secretary of state for Scotland, as he was leaving his residence. The women were armed with heavy horse whips, with which they struck Mr. Wood several times across the shoulders. Both were arrested.

ROOSEVELT AT HEADQUARTERS.

To Lunch at Colony Club With Prominent Women Workers.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Colonel Roosevelt came to New York today for his weekly visit to Progressive national headquarters. A number of state Progressive leaders again met the colonel and pressed him to reconsider his determination not to run for governor of New York. The colonel had a luncheon engagement at the Colony Club with a group of women identified with the social service work of the Progressive party.

REVIEW OF HOSPITAL YEAR.

Resources Severely Tested and Increasing Emergency of Some Specific Needs.

Corporation Holds Forty-First Annual Meeting, Hears Reports and Elects Officers.

The corporation of the Newport Hospital held its forty-first annual meeting Tuesday afternoon, when the annual reports of the trustees and other officers were presented, and the following officers were elected for the year:

President—William P. Buffum.
Vice President—James A. Swan.
Secretary—Henry G. Wilks.
Treasurer—Thomas B. Congdon.
Auditing Committee—Thomas P. Peckham, Edwin S. Burdick.
Trustees, for three years—James Andrews Swan, Bradford Norman, Dr. Charles A. Brackett.

Mr. William P. Buffum, president of the Hospital, read the following annual report of the board of trustees:

The board of trustees of the Newport Hospital herewith respectfully present to the corporation their forty-first annual report.

In a review of the Hospital year ending May 31, 1914, the most noteworthy and striking features are: The continuance of the large number of patients treated, the year being practically a repetition of the last as to the amount of work done; an increase of more than $7,000 in current expenses, an increase in the amount received from paying patients nearly sufficient to meet this increase; a period of many weeks during which the resources of the Hospital were severely tested, through being suddenly called on to care for a large number of typhoid patients, and the increasing emergency of some specific needs of the Hospital.

We say that the amount of work done is as great as that of last year, although from the statistical report it will be seen that the number of patients has been 1,302 as against 1,381 of last year. But the number of patients in the contagious wards has been only 288 against 509 last year, so that outside the contagious wards there has been an increase of 42 patients. Taking into account the fact that the patients in the contagious wards require on an average less care than those in other departments, it is fair to say that the work of the year has not varied materially in amount from that of the preceding year. This is worthy of mention when it is remembered that last year we reported a gain over the preceding year of about 30 per cent, and some doubt was felt as to this increase being kept up. At present there is every indication that it will be.

The current expenses have been $59,539.95 or $7,447.92 more than last year. Fortunately the receipts have also increased, being $56,166.86 or $5,677.03 more than last year, leaving a deficit of $3,373.09. The most important item of increase in our income has been in the amount received for paying patients, this being $30,626.81 or $5,855.46 more than last year. There is also due and unpaid for the care of private patients more than $2,000. If this had been received the deficit would have been less than last year. There has been expended for free treatment during the year $21,465.22.

Newport suffered more than any other part of the state from the outbreak of typhoid fever among those who attended the Perry Centennial exercises at Put-in-Bay. Twenty-three cases were reported in rapid succession and every patient was at once admitted to the Hospital. The other patients in the Littlefield ward were temporarily removed to the Carey ward, and all the typhoid patients except those in private rooms were placed there. Many of these patients were very ill and the strength of our nursing staff was severely taxed for many weeks. The number of patients thus cared for far exceeded the normal capacity of the Hospital, but the work was accepted as a part of our obligation to the public, and we think the results justified our action. Only one died, and there was no spreading of the epidemic in the city. Were it not for the prompt removal of all cases to the Hospital, it is hardly possible that a considerable spread of the disease could have been avoided especially in the families of those infected, but not a single such case occurred.

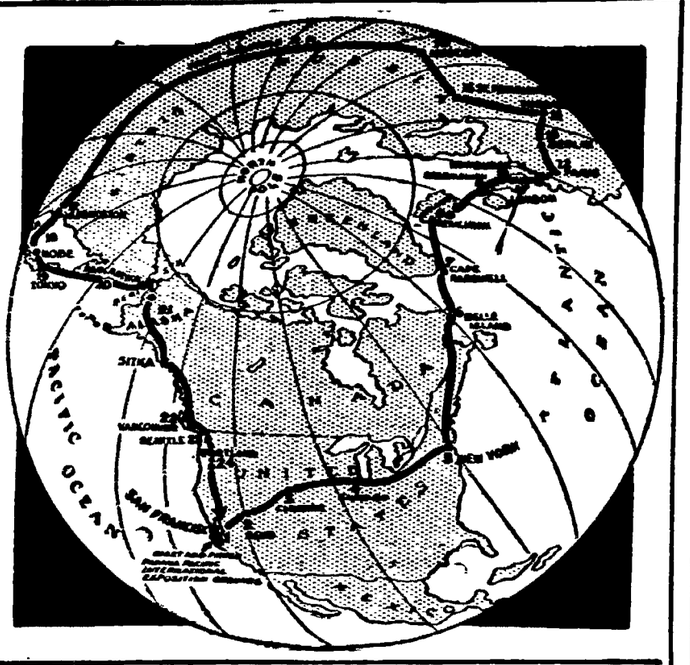

There are certain definite needs of the Hospital which have been urgent for several years, and which the experience of the past year has made more evident than ever. We have spoken of these in former reports, but their importance makes it imperative that they should be kept constantly in mind. The kitchen, diet kitchen and nurses' dining room are far too small, and the accommodations for employes are not sufficient for the number of servants now necessary, and many of these have to lodge outside the Hospital, a practice which greatly interferes with the satisfactory conduct of this department. An equally urgent need and one perhaps more glaringly work is an adequate X-ray equipment, bearing on our medical and surgical work is an adequate X-ray eulpment. Our present apparatus was considered good in its day, but is now not only obsolete but worn out and nearly useless. X-ray apparatus is considered a necessity in all hospitals, and we cannot do justice to our patients without it.

The outpatient departments all show an increased attendance. The orthopedic department, which has completed its first full year's work, reports the largest number of patients, having treated 597 during the year. The total number treated in the three departments, eye, ear, nose and throat, and orthopedic is 1,529.

The district nursing service has now become very extensive. During the year, 9,553 visits were made, an increase over the preceding year of 1,201. We wish to again express to the Women's Aid Association our appreciation of their generosity in continuing to assume the financial responsibility for this work. The social service department, also supported by this Association, has continued its efficient work and has now become an indispensable adjunct of the Hospital.

We have renewed the contract with the city of Newport for the care of its sick on slightly modified terms. We receive 50 cents per day for each patient till the maximum sum of $7,500.00 has been paid, after which all city patients are treated free of charge; the number of cases of scarlet fever not to exceed 30, or of diphtheria 20, at one time. This contract involves a considerable financial loss to the hospital, which we are willing to assume provided we are able to do so. It is evident, however, that its renewal from year to year must in each case depend upon the amount of work it will involve, and the demands upon our resources for

AIRSHIPS WILL RACE AROUND THE GLOBE FROM SAN FRANCISCO IN 1915.

AERONAUTS from all the civilized nations of the globe with every standard type of air craft driven by motors will participate in an aerial race around the world, which will be a feature of the sporting events to be held during the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco in 1915.

The race will start from the grounds of the Exposition in May, 1915, and will end there. Three hundred thousand dollars has been hung up in prizes for this stupendous world girdling contest. A number of the world's greatest aviators have signified their intention of entering the races. The recent flight of Stoeffler, ending at Mulhausen, Germany, in which he covered 1,375 miles, convinces aviators that long flights are a matter of adequate supply stations. The above photograph shows the route around the world and the various supply stations.

A MINE OF CURIOSITIES.

the old wooden ship Minnesota, of the United States navy, which the guide said was in Japan when the ports of the Hermit Nation were opened to the world, at the request of Commodore M. C. Perry of Newport. Still more of a change is seen in a large framed photograph of Admiral J. G. Walker's "white squadron." The Chicago is large in the foreground, the Yorktown, Boston and Atlanta trailing off into the dim distance.

A large difference is noted in coming to some pictures (oils) of moonlight on the ocean, one being of a calm, another of a violent sea. One of the best is of an old square-rigger in a partial moonlight. There is a graphic painting of an old-time bark of 1850, rated highly by critics of its day. Here is ship "Yankee Doodle" in a storm at sea, and here a vessel bottom upwards, with men clinging to her keel. One of the strikingly lighted oils is of the old whaling bark (1824) Tamerlane of New Bedford, battling with a squall; and there sails the long, rakish, handsome white clipper ship Paul Jones of Portsmouth, built as late as 1877 and burned 10 years later on the Australian coast.

Under a bright blue sky, is a yacht scene of 1889, with the steamboat and old square-rigger in the distance for an effective background. A view of the packet ship Isaac Webb, Captain James M. Bryer, is not only a good bit of ocean painting but also recalls old Newport people. Here is the fastest ocean steamer of her day (1889), the City of Paris, 582 feet long; and here the big four-masted ship Frederick Billings, one of the finest in the world.

Off Boston Light in a snowstorm (1869) is so graphic that one might imagine he tasted the mingled snow and brine. The sea is running so high that the little tugboat seems in danger of being thrown up into the yards of the James E. Brett. The peculiar light is noticeable. In a very different sort of battle the old United States is seen with the dismantled Macedonian. There is also a picture of the Constitution.

Local craft and scenes are included, as for instance the old frigate stranded on the Newport beach in 1836, the old whaling bark Mechanic, Captain Thomas Cory, in which Lawton Coggeshall of Newport went whaling in 1855 (and ever after remembered the "wholesome bill of fare").

Two of the largest canvases are the packet ship New World, the biggest wonder of her day (1846) for size and capacity, 1417 tons, and the old ship Horatio, "the ship that could sail when clippers had to heave to," Captain Ben Palmer of Newport sailed her several times to China and back. Ship L. Schepp in a typhoon, August, 1858, is unusually full of life. There are other smaller works, including some good photographs of interest.

A NEW CONTENDER.

Josephine Leads the Stranger in Rhode Island Yacht Club Racing.

There was a new contender in the second day's racing at the Rhode Island Yacht Club house Tuesday. Addison G. Hanan's P class Josephine. She did what she had done before in other places, walked right away with the race, leading the Stranger by 5 minutes 24 seconds, the latter being 2 minutes 59 seconds ahead of the Joyant. In the Q class there was a real race between the Quakeress, sailed by Sam Wetherill of Jamestown, and the Medric II, the former winning by 20 seconds elapsed time. The Rowdy was five minutes behind and the Bess last. The Quakeress received so much allowance that on corrected time she was 16:14 ahead of the Medric. It looks as if B. C. Hirst, Jr., of Jamestown had arrived to sail the Bat, for she led the I class by 4½ minutes, with the Wanderer VII, the Flint boat, second; the Dorothy, the Wood boat, third; the Moose fourth and the Bandit last. In all the classes 26 boats started. The wind held steady and the racing was good.

FOR MEN AT VERA CRUZ.

The Delaware Carries Many Good Things for All the Bluejackets.

When battleship Delaware left Norfolk a few days ago for Mexico she carried more provisions than any other American warship which ever left a home port in time of peace. Besides her own supply, sufficient to feed 1,000 men for 35 days, she had goods for all the ships now at Vera Cruz. These included large quantities of candies, cakes and confections, cigars, cigarettes and corncob pipes, soaps, grape juice, dental creams, brushes and razors.

The provisions in fresh state were 24,000 pounds of Irish potatoes, 1,500 pounds of sweet potatoes, 1,700 pounds of cabbage, 1,530 pounds of beets and 3,000 pounds of onions. Her refrigerators contained 5,100 pounds of beef shoulders, 9,150 pounds of beef quarters, 2,500 pounds of beef rounds, 1,500 pounds of liver, 650 pounds of mutton, 4,500 pounds of pork loin, 1,670 pounds of veal, 2,500 pounds of sugar cured hams, 2,100 dozen eggs, 600 pounds of bologna, 500 pounds of chicken, 800 pounds of turkey, 1,000 pounds of cheese, 600 pounds of luncheon meat, 1,280 pounds of butter, 1,200 pounds of frankfurters and 2,000 pounds of Vienna sausage.

The largest item was flour, of which there were 110,000 pounds on board. Next came sugar, 22,000 pounds being stored away in the provision chambers. Six thousand pounds of coffee and 1,000 pounds of tea was also on board.

CELEBRATING A BIRTHDAY.

A jolly party assembled Tuesday evening to help Mr. Ira Olivea celebrate his eighteenth birthday, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Olivea, on Spring street. In the gathering were the members of the vested choir of the First Methodist Episcopal Church in which Mr. Olivea sings, and other friends. The host was the recipient of a handsome gift from the choir, besides other presents, and a feature of the evening was a large birthday cake, adorned with 18 candles, the gift of Mr. Spooner of the Franklin Bakery. Music and games filled the evening, and ice cream and cake were served. It was not only a jolly party but it had a jolly time.

NO DECISION MADE.

Bids for Furnishings of the Coggeshall School Addition Opened.

Out-of-Town Firm Lowest for Desks and Seats, Titus Company for Whole List.

The committee on the Coggeshall School addition met Tuesday evening, for the second time this week, and opened bids for the furnishings of the building. There were two bids for the entire list of furniture and supplies called for, and three others for furniture proper. No decision was made, as it was understood that the bidders wished to show their desks and chairs so that the committee might know on what they were bidding. This will be done at another meeting, to be held next Tuesday evening. On this showing much will depend. There are some material differences in price, but the showing of the desks and seats may decide that.

On desks and seats, the main part of the furnishings, H. J. Harwood's Sons were the lowest bidders. On the whole list there were but two bidders, Walsh Brothers and the A. C. Titus Company, the former bidding on everything on the list but the shower baths and shades, and not on the latter because the dimensions were not known, and the Titus Company bidding on all but the shower baths. The Titus Company was the lowest of these. As the list shows, many of the articles are not carried by the bidders, but belong more to stationery and school supply places.

Following is a list of the articles called for and the total of the bids made for them. To save space the names of the bidders are abbreviated—W for Walsh Brothers, T for the A. C. REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE.

Mutual Insurance.

We have always maintained that Mutual Insurance should be judged by its weakest link. In other words, that should a conflagration take place where it has the most insured, almost invariably in its home town, it should have enough surplus to look after its losses and plenty besides.

The Holyoke Mutual commenced business in 1843 in Salem, but its business is so well divided through New England that while it suffered a loss of $225,000 in the late conflagration, it will still have left a surplus of $450,000 and had the whole city of Salem burned, the Holyoke would still have had a good surplus.

The Quincy, another Mutual which we can recommend, suffered but $7,500 loss in Salem. Its surplus January 1st, 1914, over all liabilities was $549,809.77.

AMERICANIZING CANADA.

A Silent But Effectual Work Being Done by United States Magazines.

England Can Offer no Substitute But is Still Keeping the Imperial Feeling Alive.

[New York Evening Post.]

It is less than three years since the people of Canada, by rejecting reciprocity and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, defeated our insidious attempt to annex them, but already another American scare is taking shape—at least in the columns of the London Times. That paper has been much concerned with the forces working for the "Americanization" of the Dominion, if not in a political sense, then a cultural sense. A process of "pacific penetration" is under way which may not threaten the absorption of Canada by the United States, but does threaten the integrity of the empire by loosening the bonds of a common outlook and common tastes with the mother country. Is it certain, asks the Times correspondent, that the people of Canada will never be attracted "by the vision of an independent Canadian republic?" American immigration into the western provinces is bringing American tastes and connections. Canadian labor organizations are branches of international organizations with headquarters in the United States. American manufacturers have branch factories in Canada manned largely by American workmen. The newspaper syndicates recognize no forty ninth degree of latitude. English news, intended primarily for consumption in the United States and reflecting the American attitude to English problems, is retailed to Canadian newspapers, on the apparent assumption that Alberta or Saskatchewan feels about the House of Lords or Ulster as Iowa or Massachusetts does.

A striking example of how unconsciously the Canadian journalist drops into un-Imperialist modes of thinking is pointed out in a letter by the head of the Canadian branch of Macmillans:

Much, if not most, of our syndicated material for newspapers comes from New York and Chicago, and only recently a large Winnipeg paper in its Sunday edition had a page story of "How We Develop Our Navy." The account was all concerned with the American navy, and eulogized "Our great Admiral Farragut," for his victory over "the British Navy" in Lake Erie. It may be remarked that a victory by Farragut over the British on Lake Erie rather represents a Canadization of American history.] There are daily syndicated articles in most of our papers, in which "we Americans" and "our starry flag" and "our United States" and "our trouble with Mexico" figure just as freely as, if not more freely than, generalities about Great Britain.

Not to mention the waning of cricket and lacrosse before American base ball.

But, in particular, it is the cheaper American magazines that are undermining Imperialist sentiment in Canada. "For every English weekly or monthly publication one sees here 10 American." The evil effects are not merely sentimental. More pernacious even than the reading matter in the American magazines are the advertising pages, with their highly artistic and psychological appeal. The influx of American magazines thus means an influx of American trade, which in turn binds the two countries more closely together and so completes the vicious circle. One imagines that this American trade invasion comes nearer home to Englishmen than the ultimate peril of Canadian separation. And yet how is the danger to be averted? Favorable postal rates by the British government are advocated as one way of checking the invasion of American periodicals. But it is not likely that anything short of a prohibitive rate on American periodicals would show results. For it is plain that not only is there in Canada a demand for our magazines, but there is in England no rival supply. It has become a commonplace that in Great Britain, for obvious geographical reasons, the newspapers play the part which our own vast distances—and Canada's—have reserved for the weekly and monthly magazines. England has its high-class political and literary reviews of comparatively limited appeal. But its cheap magazines stand far below our own. They concentrate on fiction and diverting matters of a distinctly elementary nature. They are not in the least concerned with the social and political questions which, no matter how free-and-easy their treatment, have nevertheless given our own magazines their enormous vogue. If American magazines were to be excluded from Canada, that country would have to develop a substitute. England has hardly one to offer.

To the extent that the "Americanization" of Canada is a act, the sole cause is not to be found in mere geographical contiguity, thought that, of course, counts greatly. It is the similarity of conditions on either side of the border that works for a similarity in reading tastes. One might keep American magazines out of Canada: one might even keep American farmers out of Canada, and yet tastes and habits of thought would gravitate to the same level on both sides of the boundary. We have spoken of geographical distances. The enormous prairies of western Canada, with a well-scattered farming population, reproduce our own West as a market for the periodical as opposed to the metropolitan newspaper. Canada's farming population is bound to develop—and, for that matter, has already developed—much the same interest as our own in the problem of railroads, and express companies and trusts, and ultimately in the questions of conversation and the relation between government control and private ownership—in other words, those social-political questos to which our own magazines devote so much attention.

And yet it is doubtful if Imperial interests are as seriously endangered in Canada as the Time imagines in its pessimistic moods. The points of contract between us and Canada are many, but, after all, there are differences which might be emphasized. It is not necessary to go into detail. It is enough that Americans, when they enter Canada, especially the older provinces, do feel that there is a difference—a difference in the pace of life, in the higher cultural interests, in the importance of class and caste. These differences from us and resemblances to England are of sufficient vitality to keep the Imperial feeling alive for some time to come.

Two Suits.

The model at the left is of navy blue mohair and worsted mixture, with trimming of black pussy willow taffeta in moire effect. The reticule is also of this moire taffeta and a black hat with a pompom accompanies the costume.

At the right is a suit of mahogany red serge, accompanied by white embroidered silk gloves, buttoned boots and one of the new, tiny sailor hats trimmed on the crown.

FISH PACKING ON LONG WHARF.

fish by the electric express when it was more convenient or quicker to do so, even though the fish had been packed on Long wharf.

Of course the fish taken to cold storage or split are still a matter for shipment, for they are stored or salted to be sold and will almost all be sold away; they must be shipped out by one of the roads and with the exception of what goes by trolley all must go by one of the ways mentioned in Mr. Gardner's notice. Apparently all these fish were landed on the company's property without results to the company, but they will get them yet. These salt mackerel are going in hundred-barrel lots; or even larger, and either by boat or train.

ITS TENTH SEASON.

Newport Social Index a Complete Directory of Newport and Vicinity.

The Newport Social Index makes its appearance for the tenth season. Each year there has been improvement in the book, and this is no exception. The Index is the only complete directory of social matters in Newport and vicinity, and contains a large amount of information concerning the summer residents not only of Newport but of Jamestown and Narragansett Pier. It gives a list of these residents, with their winter addresses, members of their families and their clubs; an alphabetical list of the names of cottages, with their occupants; the officers of Newport summer resident clubs and societies, officers of the army and navy stationed in this vicinity, members of the diplomatic corps located in Newport and vessels of the New York Yacht Club in commission. The Index is handsomely printed on heavy calendared paper and has several pictures of Newport summer residences. It is published, as usual, by the Newport Social Index Association.

APPROACH.

[Gladys Cromwell, in the Century.]

Appareled in a mask of joy till now,
I knew thee not. Asleep, I see thy face
More simply. Sorrow's leisure lets me trace
The nicer lines. Thy sealed lids, thy brow,
Thy lasting posture, purposes avow.
In thy spent form resides a moveless grace.
A pageant was thy life, and in its place
I find a truth to feed and to endow
My heart. Thy wonted mask of joy belied
The meaning death's bare attitude makes clear.
From living gesture thought went often wide.
And I was poor interpreter; but here,
Where it would seem our thoughts anew divide,
The steady silence draws thy spirit near.

FANCIES.

The feminine highbrow
Is so out of style now
No lady would dare to look wise;
She must draw her locks low
And take care not show
Any head rising over her eyes.

The lady whose passion
Enslaves her to fashion
Covers also her cheeks with her hair;
But how she would grumble
And blushingly mumble
If it really and truly grew there!

CRUSADE ON POISON IVY.

So many cases of ivy poisoning have occurred in Summit, N. J., during the past few weeks that residents are planning a fight and trying to organize a society similar to the Hay Fever Association. Every householder will be asked to inspect his property and destroy all poison ivy. Hundreds of people are afflicted. In the south end whole families and neighborhoods have been infected.

FEAR OF REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR GROUNDLESS

Thousands of women now regularly remove every trace of unbeautiful hair growths from their faces and bodies. It is totally unnecessary nowadays to have such disfigurements. While medical science knows of no chemical agent which will eradicate hair permanently without serious injury, it is an established scientific fact that El Rado will remove hair for a very long time; its action is perfectly harmless, simple and thorough. When the hair finally does reappear, it is finer instead of coarser, and can be instantly removed again for a still longer period than at first. A few drops of El Rado, a simple application, and in a moment the hair vanishes—it is dissolved, the skin is left smooth, velvety, and even whiter than before.

El Rado is now practically regarded as an indispensable toilet necessity. Innumerable women use it. You need have no more hesitation, therefore, in calling for it than in asking for a toilet powder. Test El Rado on your arm; prove for yourself that it will do everything claimed. Your money back if you are not entirely satisfied. 50c. and $1.00 size bottles at all leading drug and department stores, or direct from the Pilgrim Mfg. Co., New York. Valuable information sent on request. In this city, El Rado is sold and recommended by:

THE WORK OF THE HOSPITAL.

The annual report of the trustees of the Newport Hospital shows a growing appreciation of its service throughout the community, which is gratifying to friends of the institution. The financial statement indicates a steadily increasing use of the Hospital, and while the expenses are advancing there is a corresponding gain in its revenues, so that the deficit is less than in many former years and would have been considerably smaller if all private patients had paid their bills within the fiscal year.

That the Hospital has expended for free treatment during the year more than $21,000 shows conclusively the benefit of the institution from a humanitarian point of view and its desire to care for all who are brought to its doors, regardless of whether or not they are able to re-pay the service rendered. Each new patient adds one at least to its friends, and there are now few in Newport and the surrounding towns who have not had some occasion to share the benefits which the hospital has afforded to them or their friends, every year adding many to those who realize, from personal experience, what the institution is doing. It is hoped that another year it will be able to run within its revenues, and thus be better fitted to serve the community.

A WOMEN'S AGE.

No one can read the newspapers and not realize that this is indeed a women's age. Every day fresh evidence of this fact is to be found in the pages of the press, as it is shown how wide are the activities and how varied the interests and achievements of women. Much of this new development is due to the women's clubs and the work they have done and are doing to advance their own welfare and to make the world better. Not all of it is to be credited to them, however, for there are many women not attached to clubs who are doing their full share in furthering the interests of the sex.

Some items of recent date, showing things which women's clubs have accomplished, are undertaking or are proposing to do, may be mentioned. Federated women's clubs of New Jersey are preparing to establish a college to train women as artisans and citizens. Club women of Kentucky have been asked by the state secretary of agriculture to co-operate in work for women on farms. Arkansas club women have an endowment fund of $5,000, by which two scholarships are given to the state university each year, one for a boy and one for a girl. Florida club women are asking that state to establish an industrial school for girls. The Thomasville, Ga., Study Club has a committee devoted to the organization and direction of women's clubs for farmers' wives and daughters. Minnesota club women are working for the improvement of country roads. A civic federation has been formed in Greeley, Col., as a result of the activity of the W. T. K. Club. These are certainly enough to indicate clearly that the women's clubs of the country are finding plenty of work to do which is of value, and that they are doing it with an enthusiasm which promises success.

A few things which women have already done show that they are able to accomplish much of importance in community, state and nation. A woman will replace the man head master of the Queen Street Ladies' College, Edinburgh, Scotland, and 26 have applied for the position A school of training for women organizers has been established by the Women's Trade Union League. Half the wage earners in Germany are women, says the official census.

The influence which women are exerting in regard to the study and practice of domestic science is revealed in these items: The teaching of domestic science is compulsory in Indiana. Plans are under way for the construction of a $200,000 school of domestic science in Punxsutawawaney, Pa., funds for its establishment being left by a citizen.

Some other lines in which the activities of women have been exerted with good results are: Illinois women have spent $10,000 in building six Park Ridge cottage homes in Springfield for girls not delinquents. Women of Manchester, N. H., edited an 88 page special women's edition of the Manchester Union and realized $1,700 for the work.

This is indeed a women's age, and for the most part satisfaction is taken by both sexes in the achievements by women all over the world and the widened horizon given them because of their many and varied activities. They are showing that they have capacities equal to those displayed by men, and there is little talk in these days about the weaker sex or intimation of superiority of man over woman. Women deserve to be given credit for all that they are and all they are doing, and it cannot reasonably be questioned that they are doing more for the betterment of the world than in any previous age.

Yet, after all, it is pleasing occasionally to hear about the home life of women and their unchallenged sphere as wives and mothers. Consequently satisfaction is to be gained from the following item of news: More than $5,000 has been raised by school children and social and other organizations for a monument to motherhood in San Francisco.

THE AUTOMOBILE ON THE FARM.

Some time ago an ex-governor of Maryland, known as the farmer governor, declared that the automobile was interfering with agriculture; the farmer was neglecting his fields to go joy-riding with his family. Perhaps that is a good thing. He and his family are having more fun than the farmers of a generation ago did. They are not raising as much food in proportion to the population, and prices are rising, but of course the farmer is not under obligations to stay at home and raise truck for city people if he has the means of going off with his family on an automobile excursion.

From Kansas we hear of farmers who take their families to the circus in automobiles, and no one can go out in the country in the East without seeing farmers' machines chasing each other up and down the roads. The farmers may complain of their hard work and small profits, but a singularly large proportion of them are able to run automobiles, though it must be recognized that some of the road work in the country can be done more economically by machines than by teams. Yet on the whole the fact is that horses are doing the farm work and the automobile is a pleasure vehicle.

Some humorous instances of the rural passion for machines are given by a dealer in Winsted, Conn., who says he had a letter from one farmer who wished to swap a fertilizer spreader for a car, another desired to give a mowing machine in good condition for a car, and a third offered a mule, sound and kind, for a modern car little used.

It is easy to moralize over these instances, and it is quite possible that the fertilizer spreader, the mowing machine and the sound mule are of more use on the farm than the cars would be. Still, we might as well take it for granted that the farmers have other appliances and animals, and that they can afford to trade off some of their second-hand implements and superfluous animals for the fascinating machines which enable them to scoot around the country at from 15 to 40 miles an hour. Farming is a pretty good business, and many of the men who carry it on live very comfortably—as they are well entitled to do.

RESERVE BOARD NOMINATIONS.

The real issue in the question of confirming the President's nominations for the Federal Reserve Board is whether connection with the great business enterprises of the country shall be regarded as a disqualification for office. For 20 years or more the Populistic elements have been aggressive in the Democratic party. Those elements are hostile to banking and big corporations of any sort. Big business is to them a sort of piracy, and rich men are presumptive rascals.

The country has defeated the Populists over and over again; it will defeat them again. If the Democratic party is dominated by them it will go out of power at the first opportunity. The Democrats carried the Congressional election of 1910 mainly because the country was dissatisfied with the moderate reduction made by the Payne-Aldrich tariff. They carried the House elections three times out of four for 20 years between 1874 and 1894; then silverism put the party out of the running for several years. That was in great measure forgotten or overlooked four years ago and it was easy to rally the voters against a very high tariff.

Two years ago the Democrats carried the national election only because the Republicans were divided between Taft and Roosevelt. Now the country has had several months of rather sluggish business and the tariff is not an issue, because it cannot be changed without changing both branches of Congress and the President, and the country is thinking chiefly of the promotion of business.

A Senate committee has rejected the nomination of Mr. Jones because he is a director of the Harvester combine, and the opposition to Mr. Warburg is based on his position in the domain of corporate finance. It will not encourage business to have the Senate reject these two nominations, and a continuance of uncertainty and timidity in business will not help the Democrats in the Congressional elections. In fact, the defeat of these two nominations would be very likely to defeat the Democrats. The country will not keep a Populistic party in power.

Charles Sumner Bird, who has led the Progressive ticket in Massachusetts in two gubernatorial elections, has put his foot down hard, declaring that he will not be a candidate for governor next autumn. Colonel Roosevelt has been asked to try to persuade him to re-consider, but the colonel is in the same position in New York. Neither wishes to run, but the leaders are insistent that they shall. Mr. Bird has proved a popular candidate in Massachusetts and his withdrawal seriously affects the Progressive cause in that state, as Colonel Roosevelt's refusal would do in New York.

According to anticipations, the House of Representatives has abandoned its plan for mileage reform and agreed with the Senate in retaining the present allowance of 20 cents a mile each way, each session, for Senators and Representatives. As the railroads generally charge only two cents a mile for travel, members net a considerable sum, at the rate of 18 cents a mile, for tips, extras and pocket money, in addition to their salaries.

The British House of Lords having finally amended the Irish home rule bill has sent it back to the Commons. Several of the government leaders say the amendments have so changed the character of the bill that the Lords might as well have rejected it. Others are hopeful that an ultimate settlement will be reached.

THE STARCHED COLLAR.

Badge of Civilization Gives Moral Support and Re-Inforces Character.

[Life.]

The papers report that a league has been formed in France to "emancipate man from the starched collar."

Nonsense! Man does not need any such emancipation except on some extra hot days in summer, and then he emancipates himself.

There is more moral support, more re-inforcement of character, in a starched collar than can be had in any other form for the some money. The starched collar is the badge of European civilization. Asia never developed it. Neither did Africa. The Chinese have had civilization for a thousand years, but no starched collar. Where is their civilization now? It has gone to the laundry.

The Hindus are kind to animals and a thoughtful people, but they have never taken to starched collars. Where are they now? Trying to land in British Columbia, trying to stay in South Africa, and being shooed away by collar wearers.

The Persians are on the run. The Japanese, the liveliest people in Asia, when they accepted western civilization, accepted starched collars with both hands. The American negroes wear the tallest and stiffest collars to be had. There is hope for them.

The starched collar is the palladium of respectability. It is the token of the victory over self. Talk about abolishing it is bosh. Abolish trousers if necessary; nations have become great without them; but stick to the collar and stick to the starch.

A FAITHFUL JUDGE.

Justice Lurton's Appointment Had a Touch of Historical Romance.

Justice Lurton was retiring, conscientious and modest. He did his work steadily and thoroughly under adverse circumstances and will be remembered as an efficient and faithful judge. There was a touch of historical romance in his appointment by a Republican Persident. As a youth he had been one of Morgan's raiders, and was taken prisoner when Morgan invaded Indiana and Ohio. His health was poor then, as well as later in life, and his mother got through the lines and personally requested President Lincoln to allow her to take her son home on parole. Lincoln released him from prison. More than 40 years later he was named by a Republican President as a member of the highest federal court.

THE INSECT WORLD.

Aristocrats, Philosophers and "Hoboes" Described by David Fairchild.

Many Peculiar Habits and Remarkable Achievements Noted by Plant Explorer.

[Washington Star.]

The Rip Van Winkles, the Jekylls and Hydes, the aristocrats, the philosophers and the "hoboes" of the insect world are described in a communication to the National Geographic Society by David Fairchild, the plant explorer, who has scoured the world for plants of economic value and introduced them into the United States.

In describing the peculiar habits and remarkable achievements of insects, he says, the champion aeronaut is the king grasshopper, which has the ability to jump 100 times its length. It can also sail for 1,000 miles before the wind. These grasshoppers sometimes go in such numbers that they make a cloud 2,000 square miles in extent. "Its great front lip hides a pair of jaws as effective as a hay chopper, and it has an appetite as voracious as that of a hippopotamus," writes Mr. Fairchild. "A young chick finds itself shut inside the eggshell and must work its way out alone, but the young grasshoppers find themselves—the whole nestful—shut in a hardened case in the ground made by their mother, and it takes a half-dozen of them working together to dislodge the lid which shuts them in.

"The carrying power of the song of the cricket is extraordinary: there are species whose strident notes can be heard for a mile, although their little bodies are scarcely more than an inch in length. The males alone are musical, and it is reasonable to suppose, since the females have ears in their fore legs, that they are singing to their mates and not to mankind. As one listens to their friendly song it is hard to appreciate what fighters they are among themselves, the larger ones even turning cannibals when food is scarce.

"Of all creatures of our houses, the cockroach is the most detested. Housewives may be surprised to learn that a cockroach can live five years and that it takes a year to develop to maturity. The female lays her eggs in a horny capsule like a spectacle case, which she carries about with her until she is ready to deposit it in some suitable place. Later she returns to help her baby cockroaches out of their shells.

"The song of the cicada is the noisiest in the insect world. The 17-year cicada has been called the Rip Van Winkle of the insect world. From its tiny eggs there issues a creature with soft white body and mole-like front legs. It hurries to the ground and disappears beneath its surface sometimes to a depth of 20 feet. For 17 years it digs its way around in absolute darkness and then comes to the surface to join in a marriage revelry of a few brief weeks. It is a full-fledged creature of the air, though incased still in grave clothes of parchment; but it soon splits these up the back, pulls itself out, dries its powerful wings and flies away with the whirr of an aerodrome to live but a few brief weeks.

"The social organization of the ants has been the admiration of human beings from the earlier times, because the interest of the individual is merged so completely into that of the colony. Theirs is an organization of females. The workers are females, the soldiers are females, the nurses are females, and there is one queen mother for them all, who lays all the eggs of the colony. The males of any colony are but mates for the young queens. Together with them they leave the nest on their marriage day and together make their marriage flight, but as soon as this is over they die and the colony gets on easily without them.

"The Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde is so complete between the butterfly and the velvety green worm that it is no wonder that for centuries no connection between the two careers of these creatures was suspected. In general it is true that no moth or butterfly is injurious to plants except in its larval stage, and herein has laid the clever deception which has doubtless protected these gay mating creatures of the air from the systematic attacks of man until quite recent times.

"The spider world has a vagabond which builds no nest or web, being content to use her marvelous silk in the construction only of a sac in which to lay her eggs. It does not grow to be more than half an inch in length, but it is among the most active of all spiders, and in the United States alone there are nearly a score of species of these little soldiers of fortune living nowhere and roaming the damp fields in search of prey."

INDIAN LOVE SONGS.

Reception, Dance by a Number of Young Women and a Band Concert.

Interesting Program for Open-Air Fete for Benefit of the Newport Historical Society.

An interesting program has been arranged for the Indian exhibition and open-air fete for the benefit of the Newport Historical Society, to be held Saturday on the grounds of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Gillespie on Bellevue avenue. There will be a reception from 3 to 6 p. m., the committee in charge being Rev. Roderick Terry, D. D., Mrs. French Vanderbilt and Mrs Gillespie.

Beginning at 4:30 Miss Mabel Simpson will give a series of songs of Indian life and Indian love songs. The first will be "The Weaver," with words by William Felter and music by Thurlow Lieurance. The poem is Indian in nature, with a Crow tobacco dance melody. The planting of tobacco in the spring is a religious ceremony attended by songs. The melody was sung by Felix Bear, In the Cloud and Sitting Earle and recorded by the author in January, 1912, on the Crow reservation near the Custer battlefield. The second selection will be "Love Songs," from the Red Willow Pueblos, with words by Edna Dean Proctor and music by Thurlow Lieurance. The melody is one of the Red Willow ceremonial songs and the words are from an Omaha legend. When the young Indian feels the spring of love dawn he mounts the hill overlooking the valley where the camp is located and calls upon the flute to his love. The love songs are played upon the Indian flute, which is made of two pieces of cedar, glued together with the pitch from the pine tree.

At 5 o'clock there will be a dance by a number of young women, under the direction of Mrs. Lorillard Spencer Jr., and with Miss Sontum as teacher and solo dancer. The young women are Miss Eleanor T. Darlington, Mrs. Roland Dickson of Paris, Mrs. John Borland, Miss Anita Grosvenor, Miss Edith M. Hunter, Miss Annie Powel, Miss Mildred Rives and Miss Elizabeth S. Sands.

From 3 to 6 o'clock there will be a concert by the Seventh band, coast artillery corps, from Fort Adams, under the direction of H. H. Short conductor, the program being as follows:

March, "Tannhauser" R. Wagner
Overture to "Wilhelm Tell," Rossini

DAVIS CUP CONTESTANTS.

McLoughlin, Bundy and Williams Probable, Fourth Man a Puzzler.

Speculation as to the make-up of the Davis Cup team occupied the minds of the tennis stars gathered at Sea Bright Tuesday to take part in the trials, but were prevented from doing so by the rain. All agreed that Maurice E. McLoughlin, of San Francisco, who arrived from the coast, would be the first choice. Thomas C. Bundy, who came along with his old partner in the doubles, is very likely to have a place, too, for it is not probable that McLoughlin will be willing to pair up with any one else for the doubles. It is the intention of the two to play together in several tournaments where their winning means permanent possession of trophies. As they will be playing together until almost the time of the Davis cup matches, the impression prevails that it scarcely would be a wise thing to make any shift in the combination.

R. Norris Williams, 2d., is counted upon as the most probable third man on the team, but the problem over the fourth is the real puzzler. With Williams and McLoughlin playing singles and the two Californians in the doubles, though, there will not be much need for a fourth man. There is a chance that William J. Clothier, who was the national champion in 1906, may show enough of his old form before the date for the selection committee to make its choice to be picked even ahead of Williams. That, of course, is one of the rather wild guesses, and is based largely on the hard time Williams had to beat Merrill Hall in the first round at Sea Bright.

McLoughlin looked a trifle heavier than he did while here last August, but said his game is better than ever. He expressed confidence in the Americans retaining the trophy. Bundy said he is playing the game of his life.

McLoughlin said he was anxious to play match tennis until he is tuned up on the turf. It is not likely that McLoughlin and Bundy will play in the doubles at Sea Bright until Thursday. They are drawn in the second round against Touchard and Washburn.

—"Mutt" Waters of this city caught for New Haven in the Eastern Association game Tuesday afternoon at New Haven, when Hartford won one of the greatest pitching duels ever seen in that city, by the close score of 2-1 after 23 innings of play. Of the 11 hits by New Haven Pope, the short stop, made six, and out of the 69 put-outs by the same team, Miller, the first baseman, had 28. Both teams finished the game with the pitchers who started.

CLARK NEVER CONSULTED.

Speaker's Power Not so Great as That of Majority Leader Underwood.

George Fred Williams Served With Bryan—Borah in Demand for Campaign Speaker.

(Washington correspondence of the News).

WASHINGTON, July 14.—"I wish he would consult the Speaker," was the remark of a prominent Democrat of the House in referring to President Wilson. "He always consults Underwood and other members, but does not seem to realize that the Speaker holds the second position of power in the country."

Probably the President realizes, as many other people have come to realize, that when the Speaker was shorn of his power by the new methods adopted by the Democrats, when they took control of the House, he is not so influential as he was in former years. No doubt the President consults Underwood in preference to Clark because he knows the majority leader is in closer touch with the members of the House than the Speaker. It is the leader who practically names the committees—that is what gives him his control—and Underwood is the kind of a man who can keep control.

George Fred Williams, who, as minister to Greece, has caused talk in and outside of diplomatic circles, was a pronounced anti-Wilson man in the preliminary campaign of 1912, so much so that he prepared extracts from Wilson's speeches and writings to show that Wilson could not be elected. That he was given a foreign appointment was rather surprising, but not to those who remembered that Williams and Bryan entered the House together back in the Fifty-second Congress and became warm friends. Williams was one of the most earnest supporters of Bryan from his first campaign and ever afterward.

The Senate spent several days discussing free seeds when the agricultural bill was under consideration. Finally by a roll call the free seed proposition was eliminated. But the House conferees would not accept the change. And they did not have to stand firm. Almost without question the Senate receded. Free seeds will be distributed as heretofore.

Quite a number of Republicans, candidates for re-election, have been making inquiries about campaign speakers in their districts and find there is a great demand for Senator Borah of Idaho. As these Republicans have talked matters over they are saying it is a pity that Borah is from such a far Western state with comparatively small population. "If he were from Ohio or Indiana or any other big state there would be no question about his looming large as a Presidential quantity," is a remark quite frequently heard.

Soon after the report was noised about that James Hamilton Lewis had determined to drop the "James" and hereafter be known as Hamilton he was called into the cloakroom on the Democratic side.

Big Ollie James arose and, pointing to other members of the group, said, "James Hamilton Lewis, you see before you James Clarke, James O'Gorman, James Martine, James Reed, James Vardaman and James Brady, all members of the Senate while I am James by surname."

"It almost gives me the jimjams," murmured Lewis, but Ollie went on:

"We understand you have discarded the name 'James,' and we call you to account for it. James is an honorable name, borne by many worthy men. The best you can say of Hamilton is that he was the sire of many noted horses, but that is no reason why you should prefer that name to James or shirk your full responsibility as one of the 'Jims' of this honorable body."

Lewis apologized and asserted that he only put the James in the discard once in order to accommodate the length of a card to mark a desk.

No doubt it is much cheaper to maintain armies in Mexico than it would be to maintain the same number of fighting men in other countries, but even in the Mexican way it must take a deal of money. Naturally the question is asked, "Who is financing the warring factions?"

The answer usually has been that large interests in Mexico are behind these factions, but even that is not quite satisfactory. It is doubtful whether the stake can possibly warrant the outlay. A civil war such as has torn Mexico for three years would have bankrupted almost any other country.

When Speaker Reed counted a quorum in the House more than 20 years ago he raised a riot. Now the Speaker counts to determine the presence of a quorum day after day. Vice President Marshall found one day that 48 Senators had voted on a proposition, just one short of a quorum. "We might just as well settle this question now as any other time," he announced and proceeded to count three Senators who had announced their pairs and declined to vote as making a quorum. There was an appeal and a great deal of argument. Then the morning hour expired, and the question was shunted into the limbo of things never decided. But some day Vice President Marshall will establish his precedent on this subject, upsetting all that has gone before.

Congressman Levy of New York is a man of convictions who is not afraid to express them. He was the only man in the Democratic caucus who dared to rise and offer a resolution in opposition to the program of the President. He was bold enough to offer a resolution to adjourn Congress the middle of this month. While nine tenth of the members are with him, they do not so declare themselves.

The dozen or more Senators who are opposing the rivers and harbors bill are putting up a real fight. They mean to defeat the bill by all they can. While the friends of the measure are confident, they are at the same time somewhat disturbed at the persistency of the opponents.

Henry, the Misses Lewisohn, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lewisohn, Judge David Lentritt and a few other personal friends. Mr. and Mrs. Vogel left for the continent later in the day on their honeymoon trip. They intend to return to the United States about the middle of August.

Pugh's Fast Motor Boat to Compete for International Trophy.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Officials of the Motor Boat Club of America today announced that Disturber IV, the fast motor boat owned by Commodore James A. Disturber IV is now on the way from Chicago and is due to arrive in New York Thursday or Friday and she will be put on board Atlantic liner Minnetonka early Saturday morning. Disturber IV is said to be the most powerful boat ever built in America for an international contest. While the boat is equipped with two 12-cylinder engines, a third full engine also goes abroad with her, in order that a full engine or part may be replaced.

PIMPLES ON NECK CHEST AND BACK

Face Was a Sight. Large, Red and Sore. Became Festered. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Recovery Complete.

14 Holmes St., Rockland, Me.—"About a year and a half ago I would occasionally have a small pimple come out on my face and I would scratch it all the time. In doing so I began to have more until about a year later my face was a sight. Then they came on my neck and later on my chest and back. They were large, red and sore and in a very short time became festered.

"I put on two or three things but they did not seem to help me much. One night before going to bed I washed my face in as hot water as I could bear and Cuticura Soap, then applied the Cuticura Ointment. The next morning I felt better. In a month my recovery was complete." (Signed) Paul H. Locke, Apr. 4, 1914.

I sent for samples of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in two weeks my baby was entirely healed of his eczema." (Signed) Mrs. Edw. Schaefer, Jan. 26, 1914.

INNOVATION AT BEACH.

Cabaret Supper to be Served and Music, Singing and Dancing Provided.

Thursday evening is to be a big one at the beach. An innovation is to be tried, a cabaret supper being served from 5 to 8 at a popular price. The tables in the restaurant will be spread for this in true New York form and there will be music, singing and dancing, with cabaret artists brought here for the occasion. It is believed that Newport people will take well to this modern idea as soon as they become fully acquainted with it and the idea of the management is to provide it at prices which can be reached by all.

The palm garden in the space between the convention hall and the dance pavilion will be in full form, as the complete equipment will be in position by this time, making it a "bower of beauty." Here tables will be laid, refreshments served and the cabaret will be continued, this time for the benefit of the patrons of the dance hall. A view of this scene will of course be obtainable from the board walk.

For those who do not patronize the dance there will be the two attractions on the beach, the flying of Ruth Law in the electrically outlined biplane and the exhibiton by the Marriot troupe, on the stage prepared in front of the walk.

ON THE DEATH ROLL.

Chief Machinist's Mate Sullivan Here, Robert H. Gardiner in Wakefield.

Chief Machinist's Mate James F. Sullivan (retired) died at his home on William street early Tuesday evening, after a month of ill health, having spent a year after his retirement in January, 1913, in the naval hospital. He was 55 years of age, a native of Cork, Ireland, and leaves a widow and two sons, Thomas H. and Paul J. Sullivan, who are employed at the Torpedo Station. He was a member of Newport Council, Knights of Columbus. Sunday he was taken with a hemorrhage of the stomach.

His naval career extended over a period of 30 years, beginning in 1883, with three years of service on the Trenton under Rear Admiral R. C. Bradford. His other duty was on the Constellation, torpedo boat Morris, the Raleigh, Buffalo, Columbia, Hull and last on the Montgomery.

Eminent Commander J. Irving Shepley of Washington Commandery, Knights Templar, has received news of the death in Wakefield, of Robert H. Gardiner, a member of that organization. Mr. Gardiner formerly lived in Newport, having joined Washington Commandery in 1891. He had been only an occasional visitor to the body, having been here in June, when the Commandery celebrated its one hundredth anniversary. He had resided in Wakefield for many years.

IN EXCELLENT FORM.

Trojan Players Ready to Face Worcester New England League Club.

The Trojan base ball team expects to give a good account of itself when it faces the Worcester New England League Club Sunday, as it has shown excellent form in its recent games. In Sheehan the Trojans have a pitcher who has faced New England League clubs before, and it took Lowell 12 innings to beat him, 2-1, last season, when Lowell had just won the league championship. This season Sheehan, while pitching for Villa Nova College, defeated the Willmington Tri-State League team, which is in a class higher than the New England League. He was never better than at present, and should do his part toward making Worcester hustle to win.

"Buck" Harris the Trojans' hard working catcher, who by his gingery work keeps the team continually on their toes, has had a good deal of experience, having caught for Brown as well as in the Colonial League. He has a great whip and will work to the limit to secure a win over the leaguers.

Dukette, the first baseman, is a finished base ball player and the easy manner in which he takes care of hard chances shows his ability. He is always encouraging the boys along and keeps the team going at top speed. He has had two years of experience on the Brown team, is a fine hitter and fast on the bases.

"Bill" West is having a great year at second, and is going better than ever before. His work on the bases and at the bat is exceptionally good and few second sackers in semi-professional ranks can act as pivot in double plays as well as the Trojans' captain.

"Jimmy" Murphy, the third sacker, has proved a good man for the hot corner. He is fast on flunts, handles ground ball cleverly and is a rapid man on the bases. He is the comedian of the team and a big favorite with the fans.

"Florry" Harvey is playing a great fielding game and his steadiness is a help to the whole infield. Harvey has a good arm and his fielding and sharp throwing cause many an out at first which other short stops would not make. He has not been hitting up to his usual form, for in the past he has been one of the Trojans' best stickers, but is about due for a brace.

"Billy" Martin, the fast left fielder can catch anything which it is possible to gather in. He makes so many spectacular catches that it has come to be a habit. He is hitting well and is fast on the bases.

"George" Doyle, in centre, is going better with every game. He is a clever fielder and can gather in the hard ones with the best of them. Doyle is hitting in good form and is fast on the bases.

"Dode" Arnold is coming along well in right field and hitting strongly. He can play anywhere on the diamond, and is a handy man for the Trojans.

FISH SITUATION INACTIVE.

The fish situation today is far from active. The Seaconet River Oyster Company which has the only trap outside had just two barrels of fish to ship, the Reliance had five swordfish and the Wood and Mack three. C. B. Anderson has taken out his trap and his men are now busy slivering menhaden, of which he received 180 barrels Tuesday. This slivering will keep the men busy as long as the fish last.

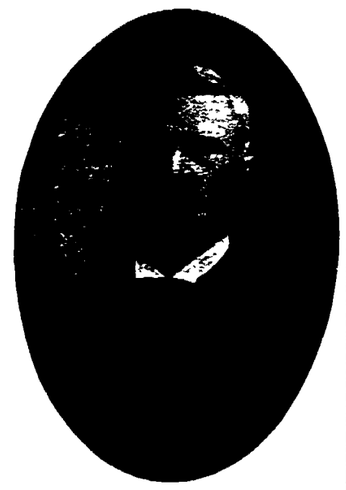

J. O. Proctor has finished his work at Dugan's dock and expects to return, perhaps in August, when he has hopes there will be more mackerel. He has about 500 barrels of salt mackerel stored here, which Mr. Dugan will ship as he orders.

SONS OF TEMPERANCE HERE.

Seventieth Annual Session Opens at the First Baptist Church.

Party to Witness Drill at Training Station—Boy Scouts Guiding Delegates About.

About 100 members and visitors were present at the opening of the seventieth annual session of the Sons of Temperance, National Division of North America, at the First Baptist Church this morning, when the reports of various committees were read and adopted. Representatives were present from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maine, Rhode Island, New

REV. ALFRED NOON,
Most Worthy Patriarch, Sons of Temperance.

Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Ontario. The party will go to the Training Station this afternoon to witness the battalion drill, having received special courtesies in the way of reserved seats.

Most Worthy Patriarch Rev. Alfred Noon of Lunenburg, Mass., was the presiding officer. Other officers present were Fred C. Ward, most worthy associate, from Ontario; Ross Slack, most worthy scribe, from Pennsylvania; M. M. Eavenson, most worthy treasurer, from New Jersey; Rev. R. H. Stavert, most worthy chaplain, from New Brunswick; Nelson Muggah, most worthy conductor, from Nova Scotia, and W P. Pratt, most worthy sentinel, from Maine. The new officer elected was Miss Mary Clegg Suffa, assistant most worthy scribe, from Providence.

The pages, or Newport assistants, were Misses Lena King, Ruth Hildreth, Catherine Kaull, Irma Richardson and Gladys Delangie. Arthur D. Smith was also a page. The Boy Scouts guiding the Sons of Temperance about the city are Julius Prinz, Hanschen Merker, Archie Mitchell, Lawrence Barker, Arthur Olsson, Benton Decker and Allerton Edes.

This evening the delegation will attend at the First Baptist Church the weekly prayer meeting, which will be followed by another business session. Thursday morning and afternoon there will be other business sessions, while in the evening theer will be a social gathering, probably preceded by a public meeting.

CUP BOAT ACTIVITIES.

Vanitie Passes Through Harbor and Past Long Wharf in Trial Spin.

Tuesday afternoon the Vanitie had a short trial spin to test her new clubtopsail spars. Captain Harry Haff took her up through the harbor and out past Long wharf, where she attracted much attention, with her clubtopsail towering far into the sky. It was probably the first time a yacht built for the cup defense or capture has gone through that channel since that evening in August, 1885, when the Genesta came sneaking through into the inner harbor, making her way along without a breath of air.

This morning on the 9 o'clock train the new gaff for the Vanitie arrived and was at once carted to the shipyard, where two men sent from the works began the work of fitting the cap and jaws and the cleats and battens. The stick must be varnished, and it will then be time to turn it.

The Resolute hoisted sail this afternoon, evidently preparing for a spin outside. There was no sign of life on the Defiance.

The yachts will race Thursday, Friday and Saturday under the Newport Yacht Racing Association, and probably on about the same terms as the races just held. No notice of the conditions has yet been posted, but it will be when Mr. C. L. F. Robinson arrives this evening.

CLOSE PLAY AT CASINO.

Mrs. Spencer and Miss Sands Win Final in Women's Doubles.

In the final match in the women's doubles handicap lawn tennis tournament at the Casino this morning Mrs. Lorillard Spencer, Jr., and Miss Anna Sands won in straight sets, defeating Miss Edna Barger and Miss Margaret H. Busk, 6-4, 7-5. Miss Barger and Miss Busk gave their opponents 15 and were unable to overcome this handicap, although the play was close at all times and the sets decided with only a small margin in each case. The net play of Miss Sands, and the back court work of Miss Barger were the features of the match, which was quite exciting throughout and was watched with interest by a large number of spectators.

ON THE PLAYGROUNDS.

Lenthal Tournament Events—A Marked Increase in Attendance.

The Lenthal playground was a scene of activity this morning when a tournament was held under the supervision of Director Wyllie. Entries were numerous and the shortness of the time required to complete the tournament testified to the interest of the competitors. The events and winners were as follows:

At quoits W. Harmon won from H. Murphy in the final round by the score of 21-7.

Eight teams entered in the volley ball contest and in the final round Steve Healy and T. Shea won from D. Murphy and Fournier. In the basket ball throwing contest G. Walsh won with 16 tallies in 25 tries; L. Healy was second and S. Healy third.

Then the contestants went down to Spring wharf for a swim, the use of the wharf being had through the courtesy of Caretaker Bliven. Plans are being made for a swimming meet with the King Park playground.

The Basin won its first league game at indoor base ball Tuesday afternoon, when it defeated Cranston, 6-3.

Figures for the attendances at the playgrounds about the city during the past week reached the high number of 3, 619, showing that a marked increase has taken place under the charge of Supervisor Kelley.

There will be a baby carriage parade at the Mary Street playfield Friday morning, when the girls will parade around the ground twice with their doll carriages, after which Miss Leddy, the instructor there, will pick the winner. Saturday afternoon at Aquidneck park there will be a much bigger parade, along the same lines, when judges will be selected to determie the winners.

Under the charge of Instructor Lee at King park Saturday morning there will be a combined athletic and swimming meet.

The interest in the raffia work at the playgrounds has been large, and the youngsters now are quite adept in making baskets, doll hats, mesh bags, ets., out of the straw.

Miss A. Peckham, the instructor at Aquidneck park, is making a schedule round of the various playfields, where she is instructing the children in folk dancing in preparation for a big exhibition to be held later.

Athletic meets will be held at most of the playgrounds every week, and at times two of the grounds will meet in dual matches. At the close of the season one big meet between all the playfields will take place, under the personal charge of Supervisor Kelley, assisted by the entire corps of instructors.

CLOSE AND SULTRY.

General Humidity Takes Possession and the Air Develops Heat.

The weather today is about the most sultry of the season—perhaps that word "about" should have been omitted. It looked good this morning. There had been a little rain during the night—.06 of an inch the Water Works man said—what wind there was came from the northeast and the sun was overcast. About 11 the sun burned through and at once General Humidity seemed to take possession and the air seemed to have suddenly developed a degree of heat not before known this season. About 1 o'clock a gentle and somewhat cooling breeze sprang up from the southeast and relieved the feeling somewhat; but it was still very close.

The best the News thermomoter could do was 79, but the one at fire department headquarters rose to the emergency and also to the 87 mark, the highest it has gone this year and hotter than the hot days of May and June. That is just the way it felt there, and anywhere else out of the breeze.

LIGHTING COULD NOT BE JUDGED.

The Old and New Lamps Show Their Rays at the Same Time.

Newport's Great White Way Receives a Somewhat Unsatisfactory Introduction.

Newport's Great White Way received a somewhat unsatisfactory introduction Tuesday evening, because no arrangements had been made for dousing the regular lamps, and so the old and the new showed their rays and the lighting of the street could not be judged. Newport is not likely to pay for as much light, for 20 or more lamps in such a short space is pretty extravagant. The company is giving the lighting of the 17 new ones and the old ones are provided for under a contract, so that before they are turned off there will need to be some formal agreement for the company to protect itself against what might be considered as a breach of contract. The aldermen may be called upon tonight to take up the matter and permit the old lights to be cut out, that it may be seen just what the new will do.

With so many lamps burning of course there was more light than there had been, and still some did not see such a great difference while others thought they did. The new were more comfortable to look at, being less glaring and throwing a diffused light which seemed to settle all around and cast little or no shadow. Their distribution is of course imperfec, fbecause they have been located on poles placed for a different purpose. Besides, to have them jutting out from wire-cluttered poles kills the effect so far as one who is familiar with lighting in other cities is concerned. The lights are in commission and all can now see for themselves what is meant by a Great White Way and form their own opinions. The lights will be maintained for a time sufficient for the people to become acquainted with them and prepared to say what they desire for Newport—the old or the new.

ROAD WORK.

Cinders Lacking for Sidewalks—Bellevue Avenue Incidents.

Street Commissioner Hamliton has gone as far as he proposes with the preparation for the Broadway concrete sidewalk, having decided that he will not attempt to determine the fate of the two trees which must be destroyed if he is to follow the strict letter of his instructions regarding an eight-foot walk. He feels that he would have others decide what is to be done with the trees, and if he is directed to go on with the walk he will do so.

He is again waiting for cinders, as the 10 carloads ordered last week from Taunton has not appeared, in consequence of which sidewalks in various parts of the city cannot be used, since they have been excavated. He is doing his best to find some way to have the railroad speed the needed material along. It seems to be much easier to order new walks than it is to obtain the material for constructing them.

The work of covering Bellevue avenue came to a stop this morning because of the dampness. The roadway was in fine condition after the heat of Sunday and good progress was made Monday, 1,100 running feet of road being covered. Satisfactory progress was also made Tuesday and at 3 o'clock the work had progressed beyond Webster street, so that vehicles could reach the avenue from that street. The roadway looks well after the surface coating has been laid.

There are some incidents in connection with the work. Some persons insist in crossing the road where the hot asphalt has been sprinkled, and then wonder how they can get the "tar," as they call it, off their shoes. A sparrow dropped down on the newly asphalted surface and became so smeared with the sticky stuff that it was necessary to kill it.

Only a few feet of the roadway in length is kept covered with the asphalt at a time and all the rest is available for travel. The road, of course, receives a thorough clean-up before the asphalt is laid. With the work advancing 1,100 feet a day, it is necessary to shift the melting outfit nightly; in fact, it would be well if it could be moved twice a day.

Officer McCormick is having his troubles trying to keep bicyclists from riding on the sidewalk. Some have regard for the rights of others, dismount from their wheels and walk past the work; but others ride right by, though they do not ride over that hot asphalt.

FARRELL ISSUES NOTICE.

Optional Agreement to be Exercised on or Before August 15.

AUBURN, N. Y., July 15.—Secretary John H. Farrell of the National Association of Professional Base Ball Leagues today gave out the following notice:

"All optional agreements must be exercised on or before August 15 by notifying and forwarding to the national secretary a check for the amount involved. The sale or the release of the services of players by national association clubs after August 26 is prohibited, or to a major league club within 20 days of the close of the season of the club disposing of the player."

Among decisions handed down by the national board of arbitration was the award of player Harrington to Fall River, Mass.

FIVE MILLIONS SET ASIDE.

New Bridge to Be Built Across the Ohio by Mobile & Ohio Road.

MOBILE, Ala., July 15.—Five million dollars has been set aside by the Mobile & Ohio railroad for the construction of a new bridge across the Ohio river at Cairo, Ill., according to an announcement by R. V. Taylor, president of the road today. President Taylor also said his road would spend $1,122,000 for new equipment.

HOW TO SCARE SATAN.

A careful mother, who always follows closely the teachings which her eight-year-old son receives at Sunday School, experienced a shock when, in response to the stereotyped question, "What did you learn today?" her young hopeful joyfully exclaimed: "I learnt how to scare Satan; you only have to climb into nis lap." Upon further investigation she discovered that the source of his information was the two lines of Cowper's hymn:

And Satan trembles when he sees
The weakest saint upon his knees.

RECEIVES A GOOD "HAND."

Quartet From Torpedo Station Still Pleasing in "The Man From Home."

The quartet from the Torpedo Station, which includes Messrs. Crowell, Morgan Weaver and Simpson is pleasing at every performance at ths Opera House this week, and always receives a good "hand." Few plays in recent years have made such a universal appeal to the American public as the drama by Booth Tarkington and Harry Wilson, "The Man from Home." The whole atmosphere abounds with the Italian suggestion, and in fact every scene is laid in that country, though the spirit of the play is purely American. The principal character, Daniel Vorhees Pike, a plain lawyer from Kokoma, Ind., is played by James Crane, the leading man of the Malley-Denison Company, whose interpretation of the part shows a type of the American man of business. Miss Blanche Shirley is also favorably impressing the audiences.

Next week's bill, "What Happened to Mary," is a play founded on the many stories which appeared in a magazine and excites interest in her adventures from the moment she goes to New York.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

Work of Young People's Service League of Second Baptist Church.

The annual meeting of the Young People's Service League of the Second Baptist Church was held Tuesday evening at the church. The reports of the officers showed that during the year 25 devotional meetings were held, there were four lecture evenings with addresses by Miss Mary F. Leavitt on China, Rev. John S. Kimber on Palestine, Mr. Philip Caswell on the Panama canal and Mrs. Alfred G. Langley on "Il Trovatore." Socials were also held and an outing is planned to take place during the summer. The League has raised approximately $130 during the year, of which $95 has been turned over to the piano fund. Officers were elected as follows:

President—Philip B. Case.
Vice President—Reginald S. Kimball.
Secretary—Miss Madge Stanley.
Treasurer—Miss Marian Manuel.

Seven members of the League—Misses Rowena MacLellan, Ella Sanford, Helen A. King, Marian Manuel and Helen Taylor and Messrs Reginald S. Kimball and Philip B. Case, will leave Saturday for East Greenwich, with Mrs. John P. Peckham, to attend the sessions of the Narragansett Assembly, an institute for Bible and mission study.

MOSQUITO CLEAN-UPS.

New Jersey's Prospective Loss of Pests Will be Regretted by None.

[New York Evening Post.]

Ireland's pride in the absence of snakes may yet, if we may believe Hudson county's board of mosquito exterminating commissioners, be eclipsed by New Jersey's in the disappearance of the mosquito. The announcement of that body's dinner in celebration of the clean-up of Hoboken, Jersey City, Bayonne and East Newark should be telegraphed to centres of magazine and vaudeville humor throughout the country. The achievement is representative of a similar but less thorough work in Passaic and other counties, and it is putting to shame Bergen and Essex communities, which when once roused will undoubtedly assist in the campaign.

The prospective loss of the state's traditional distinction, through the co-operation of freeholders and railways, will be regretted by none. History records but one occasion when the mosquitoes were a blessing in disguise; that being when the redoubtable Swedes, fortifying the post of Helsenburg, were driven from it by a swarm comparable to the plagues of Egypt, and sent by St. Nicholas himself—the Dutch burghers naming the dismantled post Myggenborg in remembrance. The commissioners' report makes it clear just how important to the comfort of a whole region may be the extermination of the insects in one locality, and what wonders may be worked by the expenditure of a few thousands on drainage and crude oil. Those expert in the guile of mosquitoes, however, will advise against premature boasting of their conquest.

A HORSELESS FIRE DEPARTMENT

[New York Tribune.]

Fire Commissioner Adamson has received the approval of the board of estimate for an issue of $200,000 bonds to replace 195 fire horses with tractors for fire engines. He expects before his term of office ends to have ousted the horse from the fire department and to have it equipped with motor engines only.

If he does, much of the picturesqueness of the department will have vanished with the splendid horses, which seem to know what is expected of them as well as the human members of the department do, and to enjoy going to a fire as if it were a frolic. The motor engines are doubtless more efficient and less costly in the long run. It is proving that way in mercantile establishments, where the motor trucks and delivery wagons are supplanting horse-drawn vehicles rapidly.

So the days of the fire horse here are doubtless numbered, along with his cousin, the ambulance horse. The fire department is not run for spectacular effect, but service. Nevertheless, a word of commendation and affection is due to the fire horses as they go. New York will long remember them.

dington cove, a place of rare beauty, especially at sunset.

The Ocean drive, about 11 miles long.—Skirts the southern shore along the ocean, and includes Bellevue ("the") avenue. Carriages take passengers around, from the beach, starting about noon. The life saving station is reached from this drive.

The parks are not so extensive as in some cites, but are pretty places. Morton park was given by Vice President Morton, a resident here. Aquidneck park, is the newest, the gift of a son of an old Newport family, George Gordon King. In this the public library is now located. Touro park was the gift of citizens, among them George T. Downing, a colored man. The Old Stone Mill is here, also a statue of William Ellery Channing, pioneer Unitarian, born here in 1780, and a statue of Commodore M. C. Perry, through whom Japan opened her ports to commerce. On Washington square, in front of his former residence, is the statue of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, the hero of Lake Erie, by Captain William G. Turner, a Civil War veteran and native of Newport. The Soldiers and Sailors monument is on Broadway, in front of the First Presbyterian Church.

FOR YOUNG WOMEN.

Association in Pawtucket and Central Falls Aided by Taunton Woman.

The greater part of an estate, estimated in the bond of the executor at more than $20,000, was left for the creation of a Young Women's Christian Association for the cities of Pawtucket and Central Falls, in the will of Sarah F. Grant, formerly of Central Falls, who died at Taunton, Mass., June 6. The will directs that the estate devised shall be used for general purposes and work among young women of Pawtucket and Central Falls as such associations are accustomed to carry on.

The deceased was born in Taunton, but lived most of her life in Central Falls, and in accordance with her desire to help in the formation of such an institution some time ago she gave outright to a Young Women's Christian Association which had been formed there her homestead on Broad street, over the line in Central Falls, and it is now being equipped, a charter having been granted last January.

The only living heir of the deceased is Bathsheba P. Briggs of Taunton, a cousin, who is not remembered in the will, and may contest it.

THE LIBRARY'S NEW HOME.

occupies. On the right is a new tablet in appreciation for all time of the name and generosity of him who gave the site and building, expressing briefly and beautifully the purpose of such a library, for all who may use it in the years to come. This is a richly designed Gorham bronze bearing the following inscription:

THIS HOUSE
THE HOME OF HIS CHILDHOOD
WAS GIVEN BY
GEORGE GORDON KING
TO
THE PEOPLE OF NEWPORT
to be a place where they might find companionship in joy
and solace in sorrow
in the friendship of books
CHRISTMAS 1912.

In this part of the building little change has been made, as the circular arches and broad staircase hall of the former dwelling-house were excellent examples of design, giving great dignity to the whole interior. These have been retained, and the white walls and finish and dark balustrade of the staircase produce a generous and spacious appearance which has fortunately been preserved as the centre of interest in the new Library.

The staircase hall, however, is now the delivery room, with the librarian's desk at the foot of the stairs, where it has full control of the rooms on either side.

At the left of the entrance is one of the most interesting parts of the building, the children's room, which is fitted up with dark oak bookcases and mantelpiece, a broad seat and low tables. The walls are of rich terra cotta or leather color. This sunny and cheerful room should make an attractive and home-like place for the entertainment and instruction of the children.

The pictures in the children's room are varied in subject, choice in composition and richly prepared, be they photographs or prints. Even their framing has been carefully studied, that they be in thorough keeping with the room. Mrs. Harold Brown is the donor of this part of the equipment.

The furnishings of the library are of a rich old Colonial type, in waxed oak, designed especially to be in keeping with the white interior. One design has been followed throughout in the furniture, for whatever room it may be intended.

On the opposite side of the hall is the reading room, 19 by 24 feet, which opens with wide folding doors into the reference room. These are finished in grey white and have reading tables and filing cabinets conveniently arranged for practical use.

Directly back of the reference room is the trustees' private room and the work room for the use of the librarian. Near this are the rear hall and entrance and rear staircase from the basement to the upper part of the building.

The most difficult part of the alteration was the arrangement of the large stack room. This is now a fireproof space which can be entirely cut off from the rest of the building and insure the safety of the large and valuable collection of books. This room is 54 feet in length, with an average width of 24 feet, and forms an uninterrupted open space from the first floor to the roof, which will accommodate four floors of Library stacks having a capacity of 100,000 volumes. To arrange this large space the old floors, partitions and walls were completely removed, a new fireproof concrete floor put in and supported upon steel beams and columns, and a new fireproof ceiling hung from steel girders. The floors from the hallway to the stack room are also protected by sliding fireproof doors, so that all can be closed and secured at night.

At present sufficient accommodation for the books is provided by two tiers of steel racks, and this can be enlarged by two additional stack floors whenever the growth of the Library requires this expansion. The stacks are well lighted in the day-time by the large windows and a complete system of electric lights and switches is installed for evening use.

The lighting system throughout the building has been thoroughly revised and abundant light provided for the reading tables, filing cases and other new fittings.

On the second floor the door at the head of the main staircase opens into a room 24 by 36 feet, to be used for public lectures. Special arrangements for stereopticons are provided. Near this lecture room is a large study room or quiet room for the use of students investigating special subjects.

In the basement a new steam boiler has been installed and a new piping and radiators have been placed throughout the building.

For the convenience of the public the trustees have also provided an enclosed storm porch at the main entrance. Steps and a wrought-iron sign post have been built on King street, affording a direct entrance to the Library from Bellevue avenue. These steps and the front entrance are also connected by a wide granolithic walk. A privet hedge has also been planted on the south and east sides of the Library lot.

In the spring of 1913 the alteration of the building was placed in the hands of Clarke, Howe & Homer, architects, but since the dissolution of that firm in June, 1913, the development and oversight of the entire problem has been carried on by Eleazer B. Homer, representing the former firm, and superintendence has been carried on from his Newport office.

The contract for the main part of the alteration was awarded to Kerr Brothers, the heating to James J. Lynch and the electric wiring to Edward P. Lake, all of Newport; the stacks were furnished by the Library Bureau, the electric fixtures by the Pettingell-Andrews Company of Boston, the furniture and part of the bookcases by the A. H. Davenport Company of Boston, the iron grills and wrought-iron sign post by the James H. Tower Iron Works of Providence, the storm porch and rear entrance steps by Robert W. Curry of Newport, the privet hedge by J. Edward Wilson of Middletown, and the granolithic walk by the Darling & Slade Construction Company of Newport.

WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS VISITED OFFICIALLY.

Lawton-Warren Women's Relief Corps received an official visit Tuesday evening from Mrs. Eliza Pollard, state president, and members of her staff. Mrs. Pollard and her officers, who arrived early in the day, were met by members of the local corps and escorted to the beach, where dinner was served. Later the party visited the Colonial Theatre and spent the remainder of the day in sight-seeing. Supper was served in Grand Army hall, followed by the official business of the visit of the state officers.

MISSION INCREASING.

Bishop Woodcock's Earnestness Renders Words Doubly Impressive.

The mission at Trinity Church is attracting larger congregations at every service, those Tuesday being particularly well attended. The missioner, Bishop Woodcock, is so manifestly in earnest and his manner is so sincere that his simple words are rendered doubly impressive.

The subject of the address in the afternoon was "The Sin of Evil Speaking" and the text Psalms CXLI: 3: "Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth; keep the door of my lips." Every one makes his own world and reveal and disgrace themselves more are not fit for Heaven now we are not fit for Heaven hereafter. We must be our own Heaven and be sweet enough to be strong, strong enough to be sweet, and sweet enough not to be queer.

Trust in our neighbors is one of our most sacred trusts. Those who are always looking for badness in others reveal and disgrace themselves more than they do their neighbors. No class of society is exempt from gossip and slanderers. If there were no gossip and slander there would be one half less misery in the world.

When tempted to repeat any slander said Bishop Woodcock, answer the following questions honestly and the probability is you will say nothing, and thereby never be sorry for things you never said: Is it true? Is it necessary for me to tell it? Am I the one to tell it? In conclusion the bishop urged his hearers to stop hearing as well as to stop telling gossip and to refuse to allow the badness of the bad to blind them to the goodness of the good.

In the evening Bishop Woodcock answered two questions which had been handed to him and read several prayers which had been requested. The subject of the sermon was "The Privilege of Repentance" and the texts were Acts III: 19, "Repent ye therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out" and Luke XV: 18 and 19: "I will arise and go to my father, and will say unto him: Father, I have sinned against Heaven and before thee, and am no more worthy to be called thy son; make me as one of thy hired servants."

So far as we know man is the only being that, knowing and breaking law, has the privilege of repentance. We have no record of the revival of an extinct specimen which has disobeyed law, or of a fallen angel who has been restored.

No man is too wicked for repentance. The door of mercy swings inward and God does not despise the sinful man, be he grossly vicious or selfishly indifferent. We all need repentance and God will absolutely blot out every sin. The Cross of Christ descends deeper than hell, reaches to Heaven and in its width includes the history of the race from the beginning. Repentance consists of sorrow for sin, confession and the peace which follows confession.

After the hymn, "O Jesus, Thou art standing outside the fast closed door," Bishop Woodcook made a striking appeal for the degree of repentance needed in each individual present and urged those who had not given their lives to God to do so at once.

Bishop Woodcock announced that in response to the request of those unable to attend a 7:30 service Friday morning it will be held in Kay Chapel at 6:30, when there will be a Holy Communion.

FOR ISLAND PARK.

Cottage Owners Organize Improvement Association and Elect Officers.

The cottage owners at Island Park met recently at the home of Commissioner Joseph A. Parks, "Lincoln Villa," and organized the Island Park Improvement Association with the following officers:

President—Benjamin F. Mullen
Secretary—Joseph A. Parks.
Treasurer—Thomas Barton.

The object of the Association is to secure needed improvements in the vicinity of the Park. The main questions discussed at the meeting, which was largely attended and enthusiastic, were the building of a sidewalk along Park avenue and the lighting of the avenue. Messrs. Parks, Barton, Barker and Mills were made a committee to appear before the town council to urge the necessity of building a sidewalk for the safety of the residents.

It was declared that many persons are charged unreasonable rates for electric lights, and Messrs. Kershaw and Parks were appointed to interview Superintendent Gosling relative to the grievances.

An assessment was laid upon the residents of Fountain avenue connected with the sewer, for the purposes of maintenance. Messrs. Wagstaff and Barton were engaged to look up some better system of taking care of the sewage in this vicinity.

The question of the danger of fires was discussed at considerable length, and all seemed to realize the importance of taking precaution to guard against fire. It was thought that every cottage should possess at least one extinguisher and it was voted that every cottager be appointed a committee of one to attend to the matter of fire protection in his own cottage.

Town Sergeant Luther Chase attended the meeting and promised to lend every assistance to keep order at the Park and its vicinity and said he would welcome any complaint.

The committee on sidewalks and lights were well received by the town council, who appeared much impressed with the necessity of a sidewalk.

LURTON'S BRIEF CAREER.

Chief Justice Entered Court at Advanced Age and in Poor Health.

Horace H. Lurton did not sit upon the Supreme Court bench long enough to get into the gallery of great Supreme Court justices. Time is essential in building up a reputation in that court. Most of the men who have exerted exceptional influence as chief justice and associate justices served terms of 25 years or over. In that category are Marshall, Taney, Story, Miller and Harlan. Mr. Lurton entered the court at an advanced age and in poor health and served but five years. His brief career recalls that of Howell E. Jackson, a fellow Tennessean, whom he succeeded as circuit judge. Jackson, a man of fine capacity, was also handicapped by illness, and died after a two years' service.

other purposes. We have also renewed the contract with the city for the care of advanced cases of tuberculosis, being reimbursed by the city for the actual cost of caring for these patients in their homes or in institutions, as may be advisable or possible in each instance. This method has been justly criticised, but nothing better has yet been suggested, and we are glad to continue a work which, whatever its defects may be, redieves so great an amount of suffering.

One endowed bed has been established, to be named the William Gordon Weld bed, by gift of $4,000.00 from Mrs. William Gordon Weld. A full list of all donations appears in the treasurer's report, and we wish to express our most sincere thanks and deep sense of obligation to all those, whether individuals, churches, or social or fraternal organizations, who have thus assisted in carrying on our work. We are grateful for the material help given and for their expressions of approval and encouragement.

BURIAL OF THOMAS R. SPENCER.

The body of Thomas R. Spencer, who died Sunday in Memphis, Tenn., was brought here Tuesday afternoon and interred in the Clifton family plot in the Old cemetery, beside that of his wife, Addie Clifton Spencer, who died a little more than a year ago. The funeral service was conducted in the Belmont Memorial Chapel by Rev. C. E. Silcox, pastor of the United Congregational Church. It was attended by members of the family from Pawtucket and Providence, friends in this city and members of the Royal Arcanum, of which the deceased was formerly grand regent of the Grand Council of Rhode Island.

FRENCH FOURTH OF JULY.

Temporary Newporters Celebrate With Dinner as Their Own Chefs.

Following their yearly custom, a number of Frenchmen who are temporarily Newporters through spending the summers here, celebrated the fourteenth of July, a date which in France is looked upon as the Fourth of July is in this country. The celebration took the form of a dinner at Cassim's restaurant, but unlike most dinners the participants were the caterers and chose the restaurant as a convenient place for having it served. The caterers are men who, because of their extensive knowledge of the art of cookery, are the chefs who preside over the kitchens in many of the most pretentious of Newport houses, and not a few of them have been coming to Newport regularly for more than a generation.

These artists and three or four of their local friends formed a party numbering about two dozen, who spent a pleasant evening in eating, songs and patriotic speeches. That the various dishes served marked the height of the culinary art it should be needless to say, but just why this date should be celebrated and how close the event thus noted is related to the history of Newport is possibly not realized by others than students of history.

France is today, like the United States, a republic, and the fourteenth of July, 1789, marks the fall of the Bastile and the beginning of the fight of the people of that country for liberty. Their fight was influenced by the United States declaring its independence from England and the establishment of a new government. The Bastile, originally built for a castle was used as a prison and within it horrible tortures were inflicted and the most influential opponents of the ruling powers were incarcerated. The people rose in evolution against the conditions to which they were subjected under the old rule, and like insane men made assault upon the Bastile, which in their eyes was something material on which to vent their feelings. The strong fortress-like construction literally fell, for the people did not rest until they had completely torn it down. Today the fine Fourteenth of July monument marks its site.

Louis XVI was then king and like many others who stood for the old reign was killed in the troublesome times which marked the birth of the new country. While he was a monarch at home, he listened to Lafayette, the friend of the American colonies, and thus France aided them in securing their liberty. Lafayette, while himself standing for freedom, was a member of the Louis XVI court, and became greatly disliked by his own people for trying to save the king's life after the revolutionists came into control. Newport boasts of having entertained Lafayette and also boasts of still having the headquarters of Count Rochambeau, another ally, in a good state of preservation and suitably marked by a tablet. Count Rochambeau was dispatched to this country with a fleet by Louis XVI and that fleet was located at Newport for quite a period.

Thus the little celebration Tuesday evening of a few visitors has a local significance, though probably those who saw the party dining, as they passed through Washington square, did not realize that the event was in any way connected with Newport's history.

GARRISON'S LETTER CONSIDERED

House Foreign Affairs Committee to Discuss Niagara Water Problems.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The House foreign affairs committee had before it today Secretary Garrison's letter urging removal of restrictions upon importation of electric power from Canada, and retention of the present limit of 15,600 cubic feet per second upon the amount of water diverted for power purposes from the Niagara river, above the falls on the American side. The committee had called a meeting for a general discussion of the Niagara water diversion problems today.

Secretary Garrison accompanied his letter with a report by Brigadier General Kingman, chief of engineers of the army, declaring that the enormous commerce on the Great Lakes probably would soon demand a ship canal between Lakes Erie and Ontario on American soil.

Stating that while the Burton Niagara river diversion law was in operation the average cost of administration was $4,690 a year, Secretary Garrison submitted an amendment to the proposed legislation so as to declare that the purpose is "to authorize such control and use of the waters of the Niagara river as shall be best adapted to conserve and utilize the water in the interests of navigation, full development of water power and other public purposes," and to appropriate $50,000 for examinations and investigations to carry out this general purpose.

COUNCIL'S PLANS BLASTED.

Piano on Which Foster Played to Remain at Carnegie Institute.

PITTSBURGH, July 15.—Plans of the city council committee in charge of the Stephen C. Foster memorial, to have installed in Foster's music room the handsome old piano on which he first played "The Swanee River" and "My Old Kentucky Home" were blasted today when the trustees of Carnegie Institute decided that the piano must remain in the Carnegie Institute. The piano was given to the institute Henry Butterfield of Boston, who gave the piano to the institute, wrote the trustees that because of the danger of fire he preferred to have it remain in the museum, a fire-proof building.

NEW YORK, July 15, Wall Street—The market opened with Amalgamated Copper 69½, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe 98¾, Baltimore & Ohio 87¾, Brooklyn Rapid Transit 91, Canadian Pacific 185⅞, Central Leather 36⅝, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul 98½, Erie 27¾, Missouri Pacific 11⅞, National Lead 57, New York Central 88, Northern Pacific 109⅞, Pennsylvania 111¾, Reading 162½, Rock Island Preferred 23⅝, Southern Railway 23, Union Pacific 155½, United States Steel 60⅜, United States Steel preferred 109½, Western Union 58⅝, Westinghouse Electric 78¼.

Foreign liquidation was again responsible for the heaviness in today's early dealings in the stock market. Cables from London reported selling there for Paris and Berlin account. The only stock of importance to register a substantial gain was Union Pacific, which soon rose 1⅜ on the decision of the court upholding the "extra dividend" distribution to common shareholders. Baltimore & Ohio Common and Preferred, which formed the greater part of this distribution, were correspondingly depressed, losing 2 and 2¾ points, respectively. Canadian Pacific lost 1⅝ and in the specialties Dry Goods Preferred fell 2. The leaders were lower at the outset, but evinced a rallying tendency, only to fall back again.

Noon—Such tendencies as the market might have shown to improve its early position were nullified by further weakness in New Haven, which fell 3½ points to 52, a new low record. Offerings were persistent and left little doubt of their liquidating character. Canadian Pacific also fell 3 points to a new low record on selling attributed to Canadian and foreign sources. Low records were made by Rock Island Common and Preferred and the collateral bonds. Dry Goods Preferred added four points to its initial fall. Heaviness in Baltimore & Ohio issues extended to other eastern roads and there was selling of the Goulds. Bonds were irregular. Call money, firmer, at 2. Mercantile paper, 3¾ @ 4½. Exchanges, $302,178,753; balances, $16,-938,334.

PURE WATER.

As far back as the time of our Civil War there was an apparatus called the McClellan filter, made to fit into the soldier's canteen and so arranged that it would strain and filter the water in the canteen. Army surgeons recognized the danger of impure water and with good reason for intestinal diseases claimed more victims than bullets did. Wherever numbers of people are gathered in camps there lurks the danger of infected water supply. Changes in manner of living, in food, etc., intensify this danger. If your boy or girl goes camping this summer see to it that a supply of absolutely pure drinking water is at hand. It is a simple precaution but a most important one and cannot be too carefully heeded.

OF INTEREST TO VISITORS.

Places Well Worth Including in Itinerary During a Stay in Newport.

Many Have Historic Significance, Others Connected With the More Modern City.

The Daily News publishes today a list of places of interest which visitors to Newport will find well worth including in their itinerary during their stay here. Many of these are of historic interest, having been intimately associated with early Colonial and Revolutionary days, and others connected with modern Newport, and several days' journeying about the city and the neighboring country will be necessary if visitors "take in" all the places mentioned.

Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association, Washington square.

Artillery armory, Clarke street.

Bailey's beach, end of "The Avenue."

Bannister's wharf (West Pelham street)—Newport "catboats" by the hour. Captain Tom Shea and other reliable skippers. Power boats also.

"The" beach, off the Avenue (1½ mile)—Bathing, good restaurant, clambakes, etc. Best way to walk is by Old Beach road, leaving the avenue opposite Touro park.

Bellevue ("the") avenue, from Touro and Kay streets 2½ miles south. Noted "cottages" both sides. The fashionable driving is about 4 p. m.

Block Island, 25 miles to sea—Beautiful sail (two hours each way).

"Bull House" Spring street—Ruins now standing after fire. It was built in 1639, and was the oldest house in Rhode Island.

Butts Hill, Portsmouth—Apex of Battle of Rhode Island, the "best fought battle of the Revolution." Either Providence or Fall River trolley car goes near. Take Fall River car out, pass Vanderbilt farms; views of East River. Return by Providence car, pass Prescott house, where the general was captured June 10, 1777, and taken off, under the guns of the British fleet. Just before reaching this pass the home of Julia Ward Howe.

Casino, Bellevue avenue—Tennis championship matches, horse shows, etc., take place here.

Cliff Walk—Along the shore, parallel to the Avenue, and around to Bailey's beach.

Emmanuel Church, lower Spring street—Beautiful edifice, fine organ, expensive parish house.

Fort Adams, off the Ocean drive, or reached by boat—no public conveyance)—A large fortification, with some modern mortars, etc.

Fort Greene, now a park, out Washington street—A pretty walk. From a public pier, foot of Elm street, the Fall River line boat is seen evenings, passing. Fort Greene built in 1798, on the site where, in 1776, a fort was thrown up in one night to give battle to British ship Scarborough.

Goat Island, now the United States Torpedo station, a large industry—Pirates were buried there in olden times. On its shores in July, 1769, British sloop Liberty was burned by the colonists, the first open act of rebellion.

Hanging Rocks, back of the Second beach—A short mile east of "the" beach, where Bishop Berkeley wrote the "Minute Philosopher" in the earlier part of the eighteenth century. He lived at Whitehall, a half mile up the valley (which is well named "Paradise"), and gave his home to Yale College, the present owner. Just before reaching Second beach, one may cross the field to "Purgatory," a sullen chasm in the rocky cliff.

Historic Rooms, Touro street—Many curios. Touro street is named for the Jewish family of pioneer philanthropists among whose gifts were large funds to the town of Newport in trust to care for the street, the Jewish Synagogue, cemetery, etc. One of them gave a large sum towards the completion of Bunker Hill monument, when work had ceased on it for lack of funds. Touro Park is named for similar reasons.

Honyman's Hill, in Middletown—A commanding view. Here Lafayette opposed the British.

Lawton's Valley, in Portsmouth, near the home of Julia Ward Howe—A beautiful glen, well wooded, with a stream running to a sandy shore near by.

Lime Rocks, in the inner harbor. Ida Lewis kept the light until she died. She saved about 18 lives, in the waters near by, where heavy storms sometimes rage.

Malbone, a fine stone mansion, out near "Tommony Hill"—An observatory crowns the hill (free to all). In 1766 the residence of Godfrey Malbone was accidentally burned while he was entertaining guests at dinner. He had the tables removed to the lawn that the dinner might go on—and it did. Beyond this hill is Cod-

FISH PACKING ON LONG WHARF.

Railroad and Steamship Lines Restrict Operations on the Dock.

Fisheries Company and Agents Must Use Some Other Place for Shipping Purposes.

A peculiar condition of affairs has developed at the west end of Long wharf, where for many years the fishermen have come in and packed their fish for shipment to various places. The agents have said it was the most convenient shipping point on the coast. Fish to go by boat were taken right off the pier by steamers and those going by train were trucked only a few feet to the cars.

The present season has been an abnormal one. The presence of thousands of barrels of small mackerel along the coast demoralized the regular shipments of scup and similar spring fish, and the large catches along the Jersey coast helped also to this end. Night after night big steamers would come in with small mackerel, which were discharged here but were not shipped, going either to cold storage or to the splitters. Of course many mackerel were shipped, but in comparison with former years the number was small. There was a good deal of talk on the dock and the agents worked to help have mackerel packed in which they were not interested, and did nothing for their houses.

The climax came late last week, when a notice was posted in the fish end of the freight shed reading as follows:

"Hereafter there is no fish to be packed, nut up or taken away from this dock except fish shipped via New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, New England Steamship Company or steamer New Shoreham. Fish shipped other than these must be packed and put up at some other dock."

There was also a note of the hours at which fish would be received, and the whole was signed by Charles C. Gardner, agent of the company.

Any one can see that the intent is to prevent the landing of fish intended to be disposed of otherwise than by shipping over the lines of the company, or to Providence on the New Shoreham, which lands at the dock. This would prevent the agents from selling fish which a local market desired to buy and would prevent the giving away of fish.

That such was the intent of the order was shown when Fred M. Harty bought three swordfish which he proposed shipping to Boston by Adams Express, the freight being a trifle late for the market. He was told he could not ship them by Adams. Of course Mr. Harty argued about the matter. He showed Mr. Gardner that the Adams Express is a big customer of the railroad and that the fish would go over the road; there was no other way. The fish did go over the road, and the Adams Express took them.

It is reported that the Newport Fisheries, Ice & Cold Storage Company has been notified that it cannot pack any more fish on Long wharf. The company has a dock of its own, where it has been landing fish for some days and carting them to the depot. Having its own teams this can be done more cheaply than it could by a concern which did not have carts; however, it is a matter of extra cost. The Fisheries Company is probably the largest customer in the fish line the railroad has.

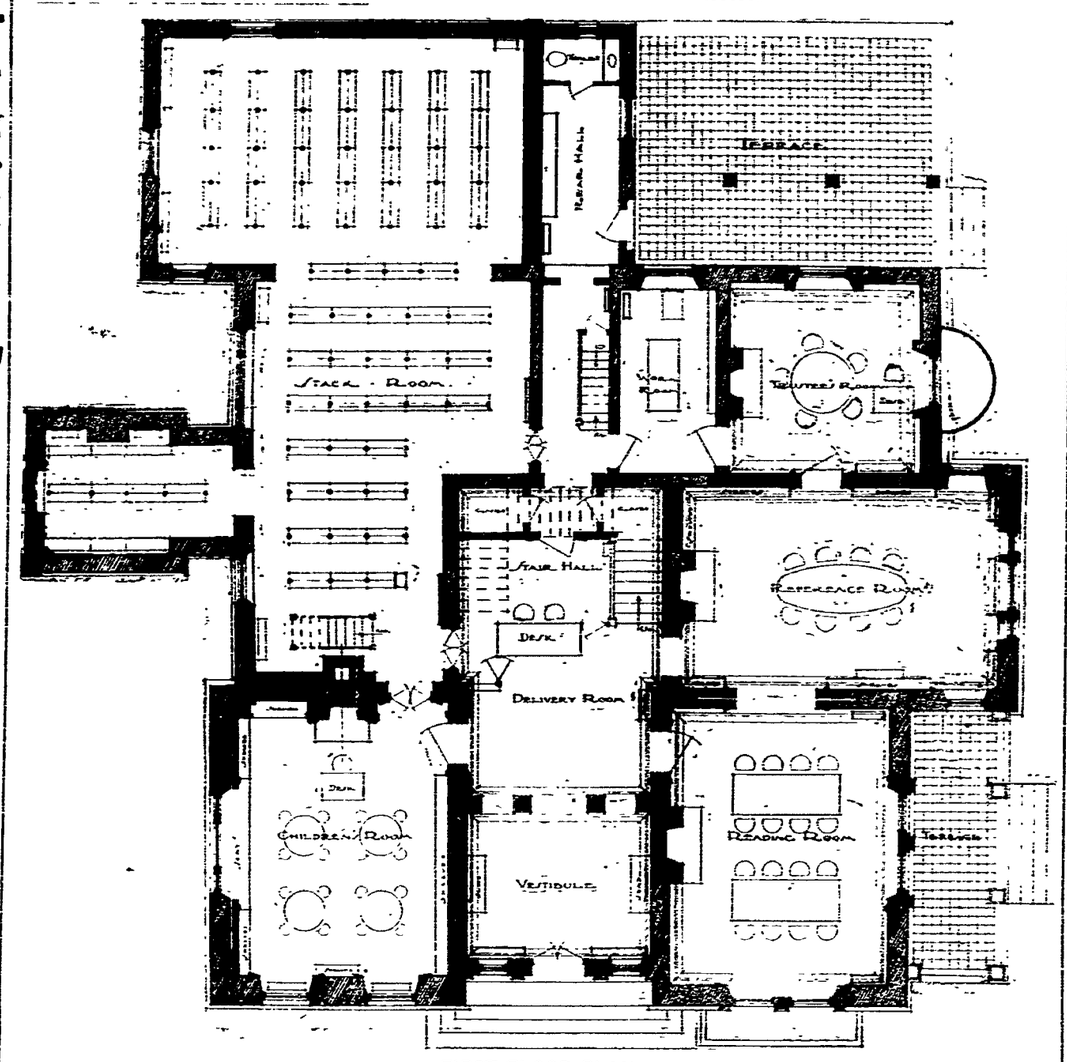

The trouble seems to be that the Fisheries Company has not given the railroad and steamboat lines exclusive rights in shipment. The other shippers do so except on fish shipped to New Bedford, where at times the steam road is too slow and they use the electric trolley express. The Fisheries Company, it is stated, has shipped

A MINE OF CURIOSITIES.

Collection of Old-Style Oil Paintings Found in Gables of Newport House.

Local Craft Included, Especially Whaling Bark in Which Lawton Coggeshall Sailed.

Up in the gables of a house on Bellevue avenue a Daily News reporter, after considerable effort, discovered recently a mine of curiosities, in the way of old marine pictures, among which connoisseurs would quickly seize upon this or that unusual specimen. It also came out that the owner of the collection might be willing to consider a few offers of the right sort for some of them. Once they were catalogued, but the edition is out of print. The collection was made by the late Lawton Coggeshall, and many of the pictures the older residents of Newport well recall as hanging on the walls of his office in his ship chandlery establishment on Commercial wharf a generation and more ago.

In the collection are many oil paintings—some ancient, some nearer modern—and photographs of large size which are not only of worth artistically, but also historically. One full-length painting is very interesting, as it is of a noted American, and is done in silk, having been executed in Yokohama, Japan, in 1859, especially for this collection. It is under glass and handsomely framed. The subject of the picture is Captain R. B. Randall, founder of the Sailors' Snug Harbor in New York. The face is strong, full of character, and doubtless like the photograph; yet the whole picture seems to have a faint touch of the atmosphere of the Orient, and the features, and perhaps even more the lower portion of the figure, seem to betray the eastern mind and temperament, just enough to be interesting.

Those who like old style oil paintings of shipwrecks, or of fires at sea, would revel in this collection. There is a remarkable amount of vigorous life, in all the paintings, and these are by no means exceptions. Then, too the sea, whether in calm or storm, is realistic. Often, it seems to the reporter (who does not of course pose as an art critic), paintings are so dark in effect that they lose practically all detail and all animation. This collection is remarkable for being just the opposite of this. Things stand out as if under a properly modulated calcium light. There are not many men on the deck, but those there are just as distinct—as they should be.

Here, for instance, is a picture of the Mayflower, in the icy and placid waters of Plymouth harbor. A perfect flood of real winter light suffuses the whole atmosphere and scene. It is merely a copy, but it deserves to be seen. Here is the caravel of Christopher Columbus, on the billowy ocean, with the other two ships following, in the distance. It makes things stand out strongly. For a change there is

Object of Military Lawn Party by the Army Relief Society.

At the military lawn party to be given at Fort Adams Thursday afternoon by the Army Relief Society, for the benefit of its funds, which are given to needy soldiers and members of their families, there will be a dress parade by the several companies of coast artillery at the post at 4:15 and dances by Mlle. Sontun at 5:30. Boats will leave Newport on the hour and half-hour, commencing at 3 o'clock, and conveyances will be at the dock to transport visitors to the grounds of the commanding officer's quarters, where the fete will be held. The boats returning to Newport at a quarter before and a quarter after the hour. If the day is not fair the dancing will be in the administration building.

EXTENSION OF BOWEN'S WHARF.

Lighter Archer is engaged on the extension of the pier at Bowen's wharf, which is being lengthened 90 feet for the Fort Adams launches. These have been homeless for some time and have put up at Sullivan's and Bowen's docks since they were forced away from the Government Landing. A contract has now been made with the Bowen heirs for dock space for the Captain Drum and the General Arnold to tie up for the night, and the extension is the result.

POLICE NOTES.

The police report this morning was brief and was largely due to army manoeuvres, it having been pay day at the forts. Tuesday. Two men for drunkenness were fined $2 and costs each; one paid and the other could not pay on account of a local stringency in money, and so went to jail. Three others have since been gathered in and will appear before the court later.

Last night a prowler was taken from a piazza of a house on Mary street, having been wandering about in the vicinity of Mary and Division streets. He will be sent home, as he is not needed here. He came here looking for work.

THE LIBRARY'S NEW HOME.

Structure in Aquidneck Park Opened to the People of Newport Today.

Changes in Former Residence of George Gordon King to Safeguard Valuable Collections.

For the last few weeks Newport has been without a free public library, a matter of necessity because of the change of the People's Library from Thames street, where it was so long established, to its new home in the King homestead in Aquidneck park. Thursday the Library will re-open for the service of the public, but today the structure will be given its introduction to the people. Invitations have been extended by card and advertisement, and those who do not have the opportunity to visit the rooms this afternoon may do so tonight.

The opening is to be entirely informal and there will be no speech-making. The lower floor of the structure will simply be thrown open during the designated hours for the public to wander about freely, that they may see just what a fine place the structure is and how well it has been adapted to meet the needs of the use to which it is to be put in the future. Thursday the doors will be thrown open again, but then as Newport's public library, to issue books for study or recreation, and as a place where those so inclined may go and read.

During the winter months the former residence of Mr. George Gordon King on Bowery and King streets has been extensively altered and rearranged as a new home for the Library. This gift came at a time when it was imperatively necessary that the location of the Library should be changed, and that a larger and more attractive building should be secured, if possible, for the institution, which had outgrown its facilites. While the trustees were wondering what steps to take to secure a proper place with larger opportunities, Mr. King offered the family homestead in Aquidneck park. This was beyond expectation and the gift was accepted with sincere gratitude.

As a result of the careful study and oversight of the trustees the building has been changed from a private dwelling house to a public building which will safeguard the valuable collections for many years to come.

Entering the front vestibule from the park, attention is attracted to two commemorative tablets. The one on the left is in memory of Mr. Christopher Townsend, the founder and patron of the Library. This was removed from the former building, and is appropriate in character and in inscription for the place it now

EMPEROR'S PHYSICIAN TO ATTEND RASPUTIN.

Woman Would-be Assassin Regrets Not Killing Him.

Anxious to Put End to Evils Wrought by Mystic Lay Monk.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 15.—The Emperor of Russia's court physician, Professor Sergius Petrovitch Federoff, and the empress lady in waiting, Mlle. Vyrubova, started today for Tyumen, Siberia, according to the Courier, to attend the mystic lay monk and imperial confident, Gregory Rasputin, who is suffering from a wound inflicted on him by a woman who tried to kill him.

In a newspaper interview today, Guseva, the would-be assassin, who is in jail, said she had long meditated killing Rasputin and thus "putting an end to the awful evil wrought by him in Russia by his impostures under the guise of a prophet." She declared "he had shaken Christianity, was sowing temptation, and was blasphemously mocking the most holy feelings of true believers," and she added that: "He enjoyed absolute immunity, and had openly and without conscience ruined the lives of young girls."

Guseva concluded: "I, as a simple Christian, could not suffer his abuse of the church. I wanted to kill him last year. I went to Yalta, but could not approach him, because he was so closely surrounded by aristocratic women followers. I regret that I failed to kill him. All the same, he will not live. The Russian people will not endure such a disgrace."

Rasputin, in an interview said: "It is all that cursed Heliodorus, student of Tsaritsyn, but to the confusion of himself and all my enemies I will live and they will have nooses put around their necks."

Heliodorus was a great rival of Rasputin in the Russian capital, whence he was recently banished owing to Rasputin's influence with the emperor.

Rasputin is recovering from his wound.

WHITNEY'S ENTRIES WIN.

Two Secure First Place and One Placed Second at New Market.

NEW MARKET, England, July 15.—Harry Payne Whitney had a good day with his horses at today's races here, two of them winning and one being placed second. His four-year-old Harmonicon won the principal event, the July handicap of $2,500 over a distance of six furlongs, and his two-year-old Sandusky carried of the two-year-old selling plate of $750 over a distance of five furlongs, while his three-year-old Sandman ran second in the Swaffham welter handicap of $1,000 over a distance of one mile. All were bred in the United States.

FORCED TO ABANDON.

Wolffe Starts on Tenth Attempt to Swim English Channel.

BOULOGNE, July 15.—Jabel Wolffe, English abatuer long distance swimmer, was forced by a rising wind and sea to abandon his attempt to swim across the English channel today. It was his tenth attempt. He entered the water at 4 o'clock in the morning at Cape Grisnez and had reached midchannel at 10:05. A caried pigeon sent up by his companions brought the information that Wolffe was then swimming strongly.

WAGE INCREASE REFUSED.

Box Makers at Two Plants in Lawrence Strike.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 15.—Forty box makers employed by the D. W. Pingree Lumber Company and 30 employes of George W. Dinsmore went out on a strike today when their demand for an 8 per cent increase in wages was refused. The box makers at the Lawrence Lumber Company, who have made a similar demand, remained at work, as there was no one in authority at the plant to refuse or grant the increase, the manager being out of town. The present scale is $12.50 per week.

FOR SALEM'S UNEMPLOYED.

Textile Mills and Shoe Factories May Offer Them Work.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Two hundred of the thousands of men and women thrown out of employment after the fire at Salem, Mass., may find work in textile mills and shoe factories in other sections of New England, according to information received today at the Department of Commerce. Secretary Wilson sent telegrams of inquiry yesterday throughout the eastern states asking about openings for Salem's unemployed.

NEW LOW RECORD REACHED.

Urgent Selling of New Haven Attended by Unsettlement Elsewhere...

NEW YORK, July 15.—Urgent selling of New Haven shares, which declined to a new low record on the Stock Exchange at 19¾ at mid-day, was attended by a considerable unsettlement elsewhere in the stock market. Offerings of New Haven came most in 100 and 200 share lots, suggesting that the liquidation came mainly from small investors who had become disheartened as a result of the report of the Interstate Commerce Commission concerning the former management of the property.

Commission houses, with New England connections, where New Haven shares were for years ruled as a sound investment, were among the principal sellers today, but the movement, according to rumor, was materially assisted by bear selling from Boston.

FEDERALS BEGIN TO LEAVE GUAYAMAS.

Embarkation of Horses and Cattle First Steps Taken.

Will Result in Opening Southern Pacific Shops at Empalm.

ON BOARD U. S. S. CALIFORNIA, Mazatlan, Mexico, July 15, via San Diego, July 15.—Evacuation of Guaymas by the Mexican Federal forces was begun today with the arrival of steamer Benito Juarez, according to reports made to Rear Admiral Howard. The first step preliminary to the general exodus of Federals began with the embarkation of horses and cattle.

Conferences between the Federal and Constitutionalist generals at Guaymas, relative to the exchange of prisoners, continued throughout the day and the arrangements have been practically completed, the Federal commander reserving the right to certain exceptions when the transfers are made.

The California and destroyer Preble departed today for La Paz, Lower California, where it is expected that the Federals and insurgents will agree on the joint support of Carranza.

Colonel Gomez, a Zapata officer who has been taking charge of Acapulco in the name of the Constitutionalists, has promised protection to all foreigners. His forces there consist of 2,000 men. This evacuation of Guaymas by the Federals will have the effect of re-opening the large Southern Pacific railroad shops at Empalme, on the outskirts, and in the restoration of through service between Nogales, Arizona and Tuple.

HUERTA MAY LEAVE TODAY.

Some Believe is Preparing a Final Desperate Stand.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—With Huerta's family and several close friends in flight today from Mexico City, the resignation of the dictator is expected to take place at any time by the State Department and members of the diplomatic corps in Washington. Despatches from Mexico City state that Huerta and his minister of war, General Blanquet, may follow their families to Vera Cruz today.

In some quarters however, the view is expressed that Huerta may hold out longer and that the departure of his relatives only means that he is preparing to make a final desperate stand against the advancing Constitutionalists, commanding his troops in person. Some administration officials say they are not convinced that Huerta is ready to quit, while Querido Moheney, former minister of commerce in the Federal cabinet, is quoted as declaring that "Huerta will not leave Mexico so easily as is generally thought."

Nevertheless, diplomats in Washington are directing their efforts to avert fighting in the Federal capital and arranging some means of transferring power to the Constitutionalists without further loss of life.

Carranza's forces continued preparation today to press their campaign against Mexico City. Villa's army, gathered in Chihuahua, is ready for the movement southward, while General Obregon's forces, flushed with their recent victory at Guadalajara, soon will be in condition, it is said, to resume their campaign.

That the Constitutionalists will be in Mexico City within a few weeks, regardless of the action of the Huerta government is the belief expressed by some officials.

No word of the movement or intentions of General Huerta was contained in the early official despatches today. The only official communication from Mexico City was a message from the Brazilian legation there, the contents of which had evidently been censored until nothing but a mere list of routine formal announcements was made.

TAKE SUPPLIES FOR CAMPAIGN.

Constitutionalist Troop Trains Leave Monterey for the South.

MONTERREY, Mexico, July 15.—Forty Constitutionalist troop trains left here yesterday for the south, with men and supplies for use in the campaigns against San Luis Potosi and Aguas Calientes. General Pablo Gonzales, commander of the division of the northeast, is expected to leave Saltillo today to take personal command in the attacks.

In a statement issued by General Carranza yesterday, the "first chief" states that he will not treat with the Federals except in the event of their unconditional surrender. A request from American mine owners and others of Sonora that they be allowed to pay back taxes in Hermosillo has been granted by General Carranza. Under the Mexican law the holders of mining property who fail to pay taxes lose title to the land.

CRUDE OIL REDUCED.

Corning and Ragland Unchanged at Opening of Market.

PITTSBURGH, July 15.—Further reduction in the price of crude oil was announced here at the opening of the market today. Pennsylvania grade $1.50, Mercer black $1.27, New Castle $1.27, Cabell $1.22, Somerset $1.02. The reduction in Pennsylvania was five cents a barrel and other grades three cents. Corning and Ragland were unchanged at $1 and 70 cents, respectively.

REFINED PETROLEUM LOWER.

Standard Oil Company of New York Reduces All Grades.

NEW YORK, July 15.—The Standard Oil Company of New York today announced a reduction of 15 points on all grades of refined petroleum for export, making cases 10.75 cents per gallon, tanks 4.75c and f.o.b. at New York and Philadelphia 8.25c.

SHAMROCK IV TO LEAVE THIS WEEK.

Designer Says She Has Done All Required of Her.

Crew to Take Turns Luxuriating on the Erin on the Trip Across.

GOSPORT, England, July 15.—Everything is ready for the departure July 18 for the United States of Shamrock IV, Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger for the America's cup. Her compasses have been adjusted, her coach rig fitted, and steam yacht Erin, also belonging to Sir Thomas, is waiting to convoy her across the Atlantic.

"Shamrock IV has done all that has been asked of her," is the final word of Charles E. Nicholson, the designer. He admits, however, that the trial boat was in no way satisfactory as the type of opponent which would enable yachtsmen accurately to gauge Shamrock IV's chances of lifting the America's cup.

Underwriters at Lloyds are not so optomistic as Mr. Nicholson concerning the Shamrock IV's chances. Their estimate today was, roughly, 3 to 1 against the challenger. In other words, they are issuing policies at a premium of 25 per cent to pay the total loss, if Shamrock IV should prove successful. A similar task in connection with an aeroplane flight across the Atlantic during the present year is being covered at eight per cent. The crew of the Shamrock IV, numbering more than 30 men, is to be divided during the voyage across, half of the sailors luxuriating on board the Erin as far as the Azores and then relieving their shipmates for the remainder of the journey.

CLOSE RESULTS EXPECTED.

Vote on Nomination of Jones to Reserve Board Likely Last of Week.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—After a night of constant effort to line up administration Senators for President Wilson's nomination of Thomas D. Jones of Chicago for the federal reserve board, the whips reported to the White House today that a vote probably would not be reached before Friday or Saturday, and the results, while a victory for the President, would be very close.

Six Democratic Senators were reported at the White House as unalterably opposed to the confirmation. Senators regarded as doubtful went to the White House for conferences with the President. Officials said the President was taking no part in the preliminary fight for a vote in open session.

LEGISLATION DISCUSSED.

Grand Lodge of Elks to Consider Adding Music to Ritual of the Order.

DENVER, Col., July 15.—The official decks swept clean of contests for officers and the 1915 reunion date and place selected, the golden jubilee session of the Grand Lodge, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks entered upon the discussion of legislation today. One of the most radical innovations the grand lodge has been asked to consider is that of adding vocal music to the ritual of the order. The Minneapolis Glee Club, a subordinate lodge, is sponsor for the innovation. For an hour yesterday, in the heat of the election contests, the grand lodge deviated from its program and listened to a song accompaniment to the ritual presented by the Minneapolis singers.

GENERAL HOLIDAY IN ST. JOHN.

City Celebrates Landing of the Duke of Connaught.

ST. JOHN, Newfoundland, July 15.—Today was observed as a general holiday here in honor of the landing of the Duke of Connaught, governor general of Canada, after his voyage on warship Essex along the coasts of Newfoundland. All vessels in port were decorated and in the city flags were flying everywhere. It was arranged that the duke should be received by the governor of Newfoundland, Sir Walter Davidson, Premier Sir Edward Morris, and members of the cabinet, pastors of churches and foreign consuls.

A visit to the King George V Institute, devoted to the interests of seamen and fishermen, was to be followed by a review of cadet brigades on St. George's field. The duke also planned to open Bowring Park, an eight-acre tract given to the city by a large fishing firm, and to lay the corner stone of a tuberculosis sanatorium.

TWO MILITANTS ARRESTED.

Right Hon. Thomas Wood Struck With Heavy Horse Whips.

LONDON, July 15.—Two militant suffragettes today made a violent attack on the Right Hon. Thomas McKinnon Wood, secretary of state for Scotland, as he was leaving his residence. The women were armed with heavy horse whips, with which they struck Mr. Wood several times across the shoulders. Both were arrested.

ROOSEVELT AT HEADQUARTERS.

To Lunch at Colony Club With Prominent Women Workers.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Colonel Roosevelt came to New York today for his weekly visit to Progressive national headquarters. A number of state Progressive leaders again met the colonel and pressed him to reconsider his determination not to run for governor of New York. The colonel had a luncheon engagement at the Colony Club with a group of women identified with the social service work of the Progressive party.

REVIEW OF HOSPITAL YEAR.

Resources Severely Tested and Increasing Emergency of Some Specific Needs.

Corporation Holds Forty-First Annual Meeting, Hears Reports and Elects Officers.

The corporation of the Newport Hospital held its forty-first annual meeting Tuesday afternoon, when the annual reports of the trustees and other officers were presented, and the following officers were elected for the year:

President—William P. Buffum.
Vice President—James A. Swan.
Secretary—Henry G. Wilks.
Treasurer—Thomas B. Congdon.
Auditing Committee—Thomas P. Peckham, Edwin S. Burdick.
Trustees, for three years—James Andrews Swan, Bradford Norman, Dr. Charles A. Brackett.

Mr. William P. Buffum, president of the Hospital, read the following annual report of the board of trustees:

The board of trustees of the Newport Hospital herewith respectfully present to the corporation their forty-first annual report.

In a review of the Hospital year ending May 31, 1914, the most noteworthy and striking features are: The continuance of the large number of patients treated, the year being practically a repetition of the last as to the amount of work done; an increase of more than $7,000 in current expenses, an increase in the amount received from paying patients nearly sufficient to meet this increase; a period of many weeks during which the resources of the Hospital were severely tested, through being suddenly called on to care for a large number of typhoid patients, and the increasing emergency of some specific needs of the Hospital.

We say that the amount of work done is as great as that of last year, although from the statistical report it will be seen that the number of patients has been 1,302 as against 1,381 of last year. But the number of patients in the contagious wards has been only 388 against 599 last year, so that outside the contagious wards there has been an increase of 42 patients. Taking into account the fact that the patients in the contagious wards require on an average less care than those in other departments, it is fair to say that the work of the year has not varied materially in amount from that of the preceding year. This is worthy of mention when it is remembered that last year we reported a gain over the preceding year of about 30 per cent. and some doubt was felt as to this increase being kept up. At present there is every indication that it will be.

The current expenses have been $59,539.95 or $7,417.92 more than last year. Fortunately the receipts have also increased, being $56,166.86 or $5,677.03 more than last year, leaving a deficit of $3,373.09. The most important item of increase in our income has been in the amount received for paying patients, this being $30,626.81 or $5,855.46 more than last year. There is also due and unpaid for the care of private patients more than $2,000. If this had been received the deficit would have been less than last year. There has been expended for free treatment during the year $21,465.22.

Newport suffered more than any other part of the state from the outbreak of typhoid fever among those who attended the Perry Centennial exercises at Put-in-Bay. Twenty-three cases were reported in rapid succession and every patient was at once admitted to the Hospital. The other patients in the Littlefield ward were temporarily removed to the Carey ward, and all the typhoid patients except those in private rooms were placed there. Many of these patients were very ill and the strength of our nursing staff was severely taxed for many weeks. The number of patients thus cared for far exceeded the normal capacity of the Hospital, but the work was accepted as a part of our obligation to the public, and we think the results justified our action. Only one died, and there was no spreading of the epidemic in the city. Were it not for the prompt removal of all cases to the Hospital it is hardly possible that a considerable spread of the disease could have been avoided especially in the families of those infected, but not a single such case occurred.

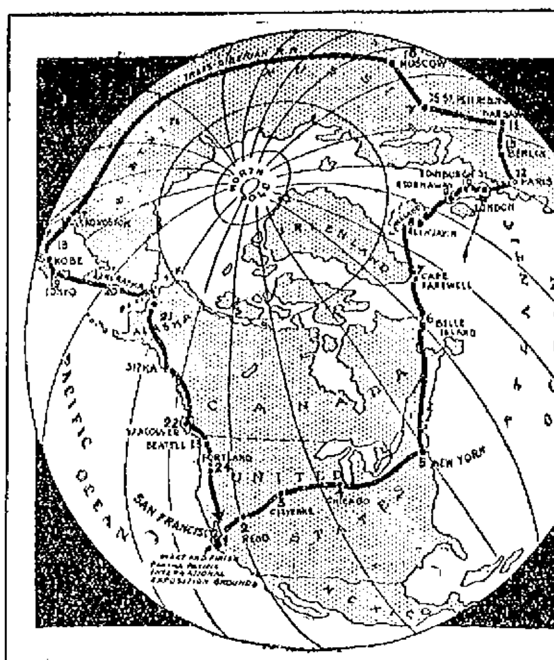

There are certain definite needs of the Hospital which have been urgent for several years, and which the experience of the past year has made more evident than ever. We have spoken of these in former reports, but their importance makes it imperative that they should be kept constantly in mind. The kitchen, diet kitchen and nurses' dining room are far too small, and the accommodations for employes are not sufficient for the number of servants now necessary, and many of these have to lodge outside the Hospital, a practice which greatly interferes with the satisfactory conduct of this department. An equally urgent need and one perhaps more glaringly work is an adequate X-ray equipment. bearing on our medical and surgical work is an adequate X-ray equipment. Our present apparatus was considered good in its day, but is now not only obsolete but worn out and nearly useless. X-ray apparatus is considered a necessity in all hospitals, and we cannot do justice to our patients without it.

The outpatient departments all show an increased attendance. The orthopedic department, which has completed its first full year's work, reports the largest number of patients, having treated 597 during the year. The total number treated in the three departments, eye, ear, nose and throat, and orthopedic is 1,539.

The district nursing service has now become very extensive. During the year, 9,553 visits were made, an increase over the preceding year of 1,201. We wish to again express to the Women's Aid Association our appreciation of their generosity in continuing to assume the financial responsibility for this work. The social service department, also supported by this Association, has continued its efficient work and has now become an indispensable adjunct of the Hospital.

We have renewed the contract with the city of Newport for the care of its sick on slightly modified terms. We receive 60 cents per day for each patient till the maximum sum of $7,500.00 has been paid, after which all city patients are treated free of charge; the number of cases of scarlet fever not to exceed 30, or of diphtheria 20, at one time. This contract involves a considerable financial loss to the hospital, which we are willing to assume provided we are able to do so. It is evident, however, that its renewal from year to year must in each case depend upon the amount of work it will involve, and the demands upon our resources for

AIRSHIPS WILL RACE AROUND THE GLOBE FROM SAN FRANCISCO IN 1915.

AERONAUTS from all the civilized nations of the globe with every standard type of air craft driven by motors will participate in an aerial race around the world, which will be a feature of the sporting events to be held during the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco in 1915.

The race will start from the grounds of the Exposition in May, 1915, and will end there. Three hundred thousand dollars has been hung up in prizes for this stupendous world girdling contest. A number of the world's greatest aviators have signified their intention of entering the races. The recent flight of Stoeffler, ending at Mulhausen, Germany, in which he covered 1,375 miles, convinces aviators that long flights are a matter of adequate supply stations. The above photograph shows the route around the world and the various supply stations.

A MINE OF CURIOSITIES.

the old wooden ship Minnesota, of the United States navy, which the guide said was in Japan when the ports of the Hermit Nation were opened to the world, at the request of Commodore M. C. Perry of Newport. Still more of a change is seen in a large framed photograph of Admiral J. G. Walker's "white squadron." The Chicago is large in the foreground, the Yorktown, Boston and Atlanta trailing off into the dim distance.

A large difference is noted in coming to some pictures (oils) of moonlight on the ocean, one being of a calm, another of a violent sea. One of the best is of an old square-rigger in a partial moonlight. There is a graphic painting of an old-time bark of 1855, rated highly by critics of its day. Here is ship "Yankee Doodle" in a storm at sea, and here a vessel bottom upwards, with men clinging to her keel. One of the strikingly lighted oils is of the old whaling bark (1824) Tamerlane of New Bedford, battling with a squall; and there sails the long, rakish, handsome white clipper ship Paul Jones of Portsmouth, built as late as 1877 and burned 10 years later on the Australian coast.

Under a bright blue sky, is a yacht scene of 1889, with the steamboat and old square-rigger in the distance for an effective background. A view of the packet ship Isaac Webb, Captain James M. Bryer, is not only a good bit of ocean painting but also recalls old Newport people. Here is the fastest ocean steamer of her day (1889), the City of Paris, 582 feet long; and here the big four-masted ship Frederick Billings, one of the finest in the world.

Off Boston Light in a snowstorm (1869) is so graphic that one might imagine he tasted the mingled snow and brine. The sea is running so high that the little tugboat seems in danger of being thrown up into the yards of the James E. Brett. The peculiar light is noticeable. In a very different sort of battle the old United States is seen with the dismantled Macedonian. There is also a picture of the Constitution.

Local craft and scenes are included, as for instance the old frigate stranded on the Newport beach in 1836, the old whaling bark Mechanic, Captain Thomas Cory, in which Lawton Coggeshall of Newport went whaling in 1855 (and ever after remembered the "whale's one bill of fare").

Two of the largest canvases are the packet ship New World, the biggest wonder of her day (1846) for size and capacity, 1417 tons, and the old ship Horatio, "the ship that could sail when clippers had to heave to," Captain Ben Palmer of Newport sailed her several times to China and back. Ship L. Schepp in a typhoon, August, 1888, is unusually full of life. There are other smaller works, including some good photographs of interest.

A NEW CONTENDER.

Josephine Leads the Stranger in Rhode Island Yacht Club Racing.

There was a new contender in the second day's racing at the Rhode Island Yacht Club horse Tuesday, Addison G. Hanan's P class Josephine. She did what she had done before in other places, walked right away with the rest, beating the Stranger by 5 minutes 21 seconds, the latter being 5 minutes 30 seconds ahead of the Joyant. In the Q class there was a real race between the Quakeress, sailed by Sam Wetherill of Jamestown, and the Medry II, the former winning by 20 seconds elapsed time. The Rowdy was five minutes behind and the Press last. The Quakeress received so much allowance that on corrected time she was 10.14 ahead of the Medric. It looks as if B. C. Hirst, Jr., of Jamestown had arrived to sail the Rat, for she led the I class by 41½ minutes, with the Wanderer VII, the Flat boat, second; the Dorothy, the Wood boat, third; the Moose Fourth and the Bandit last. In all the classes 26 boats started. The wind held steady and the racing was good.

FOR MEN AT VERA CRUZ.

The Delaware Carries Many Good Things for All the Bluejackets.

When battleship Delaware left Norfolk a few days ago for Mexico she carried more provisions than any other American warship which ever left a home port in time of peace. Besides her own supply, sufficient to feed 1,000 men for 35 days, she had goods for all the ships now at Vera Cruz. These included large quantities of candies, cakes and confections, cigars, cigarettes and corncob pipes, soaps, grape juice, dental creams, brushes and razors.

The provisions in fresh state were 34,000 pounds of Irish potatoes, 1,500 pounds of sweet potatoes, 1,500 pounds of cabbage, 1,530 pounds of beets and 3,000 pounds of onions. Her refrigerators contained 5,100 pounds of beef shoulders, 9,150 pounds of beef quarters, 2,500 pounds of beef rounds, 1,500 pounds of liver, 650 pounds of mutton, 1,500 pounds of pork loin, 1,670 pounds of veal, 2,500 pounds of sugar cured hams, 2,100 dozen eggs, 600 pounds of bologna, 500 pounds of chicken, 850 pounds of turkey, 1,000 pounds of cheese, 600 pounds of luncheon meat, 1,250 pounds of butter, 1,200 pounds of frankfurters and 2,000 pounds of Vienna sausage.

The largest item was flour, of which there were 110,000 pounds on board. Next came sugar, 37,500 pounds being stored away in the provision chambers. Six thousand pounds of coffee and 1,000 pounds of tea was also on board.

CELEBRATING A BIRTHDAY.

A jolly party assembled Tuesday evening to help Mr. Ira Oliver celebrate his eighteenth birthday, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Oliver, on Spring street. In the gathering were the members of the Men's Union of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, of which Mr. Oliver is a member, and other friends. The host was the recipient of a handsome gift from the club, besides other presents, and a feature of the evening was a large birthday cake, adorned with 18 candles, the gift of Mr. Spencer of the Franklin Bakery. Music and games filled the evening, and ice cream and cake were served. It was not only a jolly party but it had a jolly time.

NO DECISION MADE.

Bids for Furnishings of the Coggeshall School Addition Opened.

Out-of-Town Firm Lowest for Desks and Seats, Titus Company for Whole List.

The committee on the Coggeshall School addition met Tuesday evening, for the second time this week, and opened bids for the furnishings of the building. There were two bids for the entire list of furniture and supplies called for, and three others for furniture proper. No decision was made, as it was understood that the bidders wished to show their desks and chairs so that the committee might know on what they were bidding. This will be done at another meeting, to be held next Tuesday evening. On this showing much will depend. There are some material differences in price, but the showing of the desks and seats may decide that.

On desks and seats, the main part of the furnishings, H. J. Harwood's Sons were the lowest bidders. On the whole list there were but two bidders, Walsh Brothers and the A. C. Titus Company, the former bidding on everything on the list but the shower baths and shades, and not on the latter because the dimensions were not known, and the Titus Company bidding on all but the shower baths. The Titus Company was the lowest of these. As the list shows, many of the articles are not carried by the bidders, but belong more to stationery and school supply places.

Following is a list of the articles called for and the total of the bids made for them. To save space the names of the bidders are abbreviated—W for Walsh Brothers, T for the A. C. REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE.

Mutual Insurance.

We have always maintained that Mutual Insurance should be judged by its weakest link. In other words, that should a conflagration take place where it has the most insured, almost invariably in its home town, it should have enough surplus to look after its losses and plenty besides.

The Holyoke Mutual commenced business in 1843 in Salem, but its business is so well divided through New England that while it suffered a loss of $225,000 in the late conflagration, it will still have left a surplus of $450,000 and had the whole city of Salem burned, the Holyoke would still have had a good surplus.

The Quincy, another Mutual which we can recommend, suffered but $7,500 loss in Salem. Its surplus January 1st, 1914, over all liabilities was $549,809.77.

AMERICANIZING CANADA.

A Silent But Effectual Work Being Done by United States Magazines.

England Can Offer no Substitute But Is Still Keeping the Imperial Feeling Alive.

[New York Evening Post.]

It is less than three years since the people of Canada, by rejecting reciprocity and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, defeated our insidious attempt to annex them, but already another American scare is taking shape—at least in the columns of the London Times. That paper has been much concerned with the forces working for the "Americanization" of the Dominion, if not in a political sense, then a cultural sense. A process of "pacific penetration" is under way which may not threaten the absorption of Canada by the United States, but does threaten the integrity of the empire by loosening the bonds of a common outlook and common tastes with the mother country. Is it certain, asks the Times correspondent, that the people of Canada will never be attracted "by the vision of an independent Canadian republic?" American immigration into the western provinces is bringing American tastes and connections. Canadian labor organizations are branches of international organizations with headquarters in the United States. American manufacturers have branch factories in Canada manned largely by American workmen. The newspaper syndicates recognize no forty ninth degree of latitude. English news, intended primarily for consumption in the United States and reflecting the American attitude to English problems, is retailed to Canadian newspapers, on the apparent assumption that Alberta or Saskatchewan feels about the House of Lords or Ulster as Iowa or Massachusetts does.

A striking example of how unconsciously the Canadian journalist drops into un-imperialist modes of thinking is pointed out in a letter by the head of the Canadian branch of Macmillans:

Much, if not most, of our syndicated material for newspapers comes from New York and Chicago, and only recently a large Winnipeg paper in its Sunday edition had a page story of, "How We Develop Our Navy." The account was all concerned with the American navy, and eulogized "Our great Admiral Farragut," for his victory over "the British Navy" in Lake Erie. It may be remarked that a victory by Farragut over the British on Lake Erie rather represents a Canadization of American history.] There are daily syndicated articles in most of our papers, in which "we Americans" and "our starry flag" and "our United States" and "our trouble with Mexico" figure just as freely as, if not more freely than, generalities about Great Britain.

Not to mention the waning of cricket and lacrosse before American base ball.

But, in particular, it is the cheaper American magazines that are undermining Imperialist sentiment in Canada. "For every English weekly or monthly publication one sees here 10 American." The evil effects are not merely sentimental. More pernicious even than the reading matter in the American magazines are the advertising pages, with their highly artistic and psychological appeal. The influx of American magazines thus means an influx of American trade, which in turn binds the two countries more closely together and so completes the vicious circle. One imagines that this American trade invasion comes nearer home to Englishmen than the ultimate peril of Canadian separation. And yet how is the danger to be averted? Favorable postal rates by the British government are advocated as one way of checking the invasion of American periodicals. But it is not likely that anything short of a prohibitive rate on American periodicals would show results. For it is plain that not only is there in Canada a demand for our magazines, but there is in England no rival supply. It has become a commonplace that in Great Britain, for obvious geographical reasons, the newspapers play the part which our own vast distances—and Canada's—have reserved for the weekly and monthly magazines. England has its high-class political and literary reviews of comparatively limited appeal. But its cheap magazines stand far below our own. They concentrate on fiction and diverting matters of a distinctly elementary nature. They are not in the least concerned with the social and political questions which, no matter how free-and-easy their treatment, have nevertheless given our own magazines their enormous vogue. If American magazines were to be excluded from Canada, that country would have to develop a substitute. England has hardly one to offer.

To the extent that the "Americanization" of Canada is a fact, the sole cause is not to be found in mere geographical contiguity, though that, of course, counts greatly. It is the similarity of conditions on either side of the border that works for a similarity in reading tastes. One might keep American magazines out of Canada; one might even keep American farmers out of Canada, and yet tastes and habits of thought would gravitate to the same level on both sides of the boundary. We have spoken of geographical distances. The enormous prairies of western Canada, with a well-scattered farming population, reproduce our own West as a market for for periodical as opposed to the metropolitan newspaper. Canada's farming population is bound to develop—and, for that matter, has already developed—much the same interest as our own in the problem of railroads, and express companies and trusts, and ultimately in the questions of conversation and the relation between government control and private ownership—in other words, those social-political questos to which our own magazines devote so much attention.

And yet it is doubtful if Imperial interests are as seriously endangered in Canada as the Time imagines in its pessimistic moods. The points of contact between us and Canada are many, but, after all, there are differences which might be emphasized. It is not necessary to go into detail. It is enough that Americans, when they enter Canada, especially the older provinces, do feel that there is a difference—a difference in the pace of life, in the higher cultural interests, in the importance of class and caste. These differences from us and resemblances to England are of sufficient vitality to keep the Imperial feeling alive for some time to come.

Two Suits.

The model at the left is of navy blue mohair and worsted mixture, with trimming of black pussy willow taffeta in moire effect. The reticule is also of this moire taffeta and a black hat with a pompon accompanies the costume.

At the right is a suit of mahogany red serge, accompanied by white embroidered silk gloves, buttoned boots and one of the new, tiny sailor hats trimmed on the crown.

FISH PACKING ON LONG WHARF.

fish by the electric express when it was more convenient or quicker to do so, even though the fish had been packed on Long wharf.

Of course the fish taken to cold storage or split are still a matter for shipment, for they are stored or salted to be sold and will almost all be sold away; they must be shipped out by one of the roads and with the exception of what goes by trolley all must go by one of the ways mentioned in Mr. Gardner's notice. Apparently all these fish were landed on the company's property without results to the company, but they will get them yet. These salt mackerel are going in hundred-barrel lots, or even larger, and either by boat or train.

ITS TENTH SEASON.

Newport Social Index a Complete Directory of Newport and Vicinity.

The Newport Social Index makes its appearance for the tenth season. Each year there has been improvement in the book, and this is no exception. The Index is the only complete directory of social matters in Newport and vicinity, and contains a large amount of information concerning the summer residents not only of Newport but of Jamestown and Narragansett Pier. It gives a list of these residents, with their winter addresses, members of their families and their clubs; an alphabetical list of the names of cottages, with their occupants; the officers of Newport summer resident clubs and societies, officers of the army and navy stationed in this vicinity, members of the diplomatic corps located in Newport and vessels of the New York Yacht Club in commission. The Index is handsomely printed on heavy enameled paper and has several pictures of Newport summer residences. It is published, as usual, by the Newport Social Index Association.

APPROACH.

[Gladys Cromwell, in the Century.]

Apparelled in a mask of joy till now,
I knew thee not. Asleep, I see thy face
More simply. Sorrow's leisure lets me trace
The nicer lines. Thy sealed lids, thy brow,
Thy lasting posture, purposes avow.
In thy spent form resides a moveless grace.
A pageant was thy life, and in its place
I find a truth to feel and to endow
My heart. Thy wonted mask of joy belied
The meaning death's bare attitude makes clear.
From living gesture thought went often wide.
And I, wagging interpreter, but here,
Where it would seem our thoughts anew divide,
The steady silence draws thy spirit near.

FANCIES.

The feminine highbrow
Is so out of style now
No lady would dare to look wise;
She must draw her locks low
And take care not show
Any head rising over her eyes.

The lady whose passion
Enslaves her to fashion
Covers also her cheeks with her hair;
But how she would grumble
And blushingly mumble
If it really and truly grew there!

CRUSADE ON POISON IVY.

So many cases of ivy poisoning have occurred in Summit, N. J., during the past few weeks that residents are planning a fight and trying to organize a society similar to the Hay Fever Association. Every householder will be asked to inspect his property and destroy all poison ivy. Hundreds of people are afflicted. In the south end whole families and neighborhoods have been infected.

FEAR OF REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR GROUNDLESS

Thousands of women now regularly remove every trace of unbeautiful hair growths from their faces and bodies. It is totally unnecessary nowadays to have such disfigurements. While medical science knows of no chemical agent which will eradicate hair permanently without serious injury, it is an established scientific fact that El Rado will remove hair for a very long time; its action is perfectly harmless, simple and thorough. When the hair finally does reappear, it is finer instead of coarser, and can be instantly removed again for a still longer period than at first. A few drops of El Rado, a simple application, and in a moment the hair vanishes—it is dissolved, the skin is left smooth, velvety, and even whiter than before.

El Rado is now practically regarded as an indispensable toilet necessity. Innumerable women use it. You need have no more hesitation, therefore, in calling for it than in asking for a toilet powder. Test El Rado on your arm; prove for yourself that it will do everything claimed. Your money back if you are not entirely satisfied. 50c and $1.00 size bottles at all leading drug and department stores, or direct from the Pilerine Mfg. Co., New York. Valuable information sent on request. In this city, El Rado is sold and recommended by:

THE WORK OF THE HOSPITAL.

The annual report of the trustees of the Newport Hospital shows a growing appreciation of its service throughout the community, which is gratifying to friends of the institution. The financial statement indicates a steadily increasing use of the Hospital, and while the expenses are advancing there is a corresponding gain in its revenues, so that the deficit is less than in many former years and would have been considerably smaller if all private patients had paid their bills within the fiscal year.

That the Hospital has expended for free treatment during the year more than $21,000 shows conclusively the benefit of the institution from a humanitarian point of view and its desire to care for all who are brought to its doors, regardless of whether or not they are able to re-pay the service rendered. Each new patient adds one at least to its friends, and there are now few in Newport and the surrounding towns who have not had some occasion to share the benefits which the hospital has afforded to them or their friends, every year adding many to those who realize, from personal experience, what the institution is doing. It is hoped that another year it will be able to run within its revenues, and thus be better fitted to serve the community.

A WOMEN'S AGE.

No one can read the newspapers and not realize that this is indeed a women's age. Every day fresh evidence of this fact is to be found in the pages of the press, as it is shown how wide are the activities and how varied the interests and achievements of women. Much of this new development is due to the women's clubs and the work they have done and are doing to advance their own welfare and to make the world better. Not all of it is to be credited to them, however, for there are many women not attached to clubs who are doing their full share in furthering the interests of the sex.

Some items of recent date, showing things which women's clubs have accomplished, are undertaking or are proposing to do, may be mentioned. Federated women's clubs of New Jersey are preparing to establish a college to train women as artisans and citizens. Club women of Kentucky have been asked by the state secretary of agriculture to co-operate in work for women on farms. Arkansas club women have an endowment fund of $5,000, by which two scholarships are given to the state university each year, one for a boy and one for a girl. Florida club women are asking that state to establish an industrial school for girls. The Thomasville, Ga., Study Club has a committee devoted to the organization and direction of women's clubs for farmers' wives and daughters. Minnesota club women are working for the improvement of country roads. A civic federation has been formed in Greeley, Col., as a result of the activity of the W. T. K. Club. These are certainly enough to indicate clearly that the women's clubs of the country are finding plenty of work to do which is of value, and that they are doing it with an enthusiasm which promises success.

A few things which women have already done show that they are able to accomplish much of importance in community, state and nation. A woman will replace the man grand master of the Queen Street Ladies' College, Edinburgh, Scotland, and 26 have applied for the position. A school of training for women organizers has been established by the Women's Trade Union League. Half the wage earners in Germany are women, says the official census.

The influence which women are exerting in regard to the study and practice of domestic science is revealed in these items: The teaching of domestic science is compulsory in Indiana. Plans are under way for the construction of a $200,000 school of domestic science in Punxsutawawaney, Pa., funds for its establishment being left by a citizen.

Some other lines in which the activities of women have been exerted with good results are: Illinois women have spent $10,000 in building six Park Ridge cottage homes in Springfield for girls not delinquents. Women of Manchester, N. H., edited an 88 page special women's edition of the Manchester Union and realized $1,700 for club work.

This is indeed a women's age, and for the most part satisfaction is taken by both sexes in the achievements by women all over the world and the widened horizon given them because of their many and varied activities. They are showing that they have capacities equal to those displayed by men, and there is little talk in these days about the weaker sex or intimation of superiority of man over woman. Women deserve to be given credit for all that they are and all they are doing, and it cannot reasonably be questioned that they are doing more for the betterment of the world than in any previous age.

Yet, after all, it is pleasing occasionally to hear about the home life of women and their unchallenged sphere as wives and mothers. Consequently satisfaction is to be gained from the following item of news: More than $5,000 has been raised by school children and social and other organizations for a monument to motherhood in San Francisco.

THE AUTOMOBILE ON THE FARM.

Some time ago an ex-governor of Maryland, known as the farmer governor, declared that the automobile was interfering with agriculture; the farmer was neglecting his fields to go joy-riding with his family. Perhaps that is a good thing. He and his family are having more fun than the farmers of a generation ago did. They are not raising as much food in proportion to the population, and prices are rising, but of course the farmer is not under obligations to stay at home and raise truck for city people if he has the means of going off with his family on an automobile excursion.

From Kansas we hear of farmers who take their families to the circus in automobiles, and no one can go out in the country in the East without seeing farmers' machines chasing each other up and down the roads. The farmers may complain of their hard work and small profits, but a singularly large proportion of them are able to run automobiles, though it must be recognized that some of the road work in the country can be done more economically by machines than by teams. Yet on the whole the fact is that horses are doing the farm work and the automobile is a pleasure vehicle.

Some humorous instances of the rural passion for machines are given by a dealer in Winsted, Conn., who says he had a letter from one farmer who wished to swap a fertilizer spreader for a car, another desired to give a mowing machine in good condition for a car, and a third offered a mule, sound and kind, for a modern car little used.

It is easy to moralize over these instances, and it is quite possible that the fertilizer spreader, the mowing machine and the sound mule are of more use on the farm than the cars would be. Still, we might as well take it for granted that the farmers have other appliances and animals, and that they can afford to trade off some of their second-hand implements and superfluous animals for the fascinating machines which enable them to scoot around the country at from 15 to 40 miles an hour. Farming is a pretty good business, and many of the men who carry it on live very comfortably—as they are well entitled to do.

RESERVE BOARD NOMINATIONS.

The real issue in the question of confirming the President's nominations for the Federal Reserve Board is whether connection with the great business enterprises of the country shall be regarded as a disqualification for office. For 20 years or more the Populistic elements have been aggressive in the Democratic party. Those elements are hostile to banking and big corporations of any sort. Big business is to them a sort of piracy, and rich men are presumptive rascals.

The country has defeated the Populists over and over again; it will defeat them again. If the Democratic party is dominated by them it will go out of power at the first opportunity. The Democrats carried the Congressional election of 1910 mainly because the country was dissatisfied with the moderate reduction made by the Payne-Aldrich tariff. They carried the House elections three times out of four for 26 years between 1874 and 1894; then silverism put the party out of the running for several years. That was in great measure forgotten or overlooked four years ago and it was easy to rally the voters against a very high tariff.

Two years ago the Democrats carried the national election only because the Republicans were divided between Taft and Roosevelt. Now the country has had several months of rather sluggish business and the tariff is not an issue, because it cannot be changed without changing both branches of Congress and the President, and the country is thinking calmly of the promotion of business.

A Senate committee has rejected the nomination of Mr. Jones because he is a director of the Harvester combine, and the opposition to Mr. Warburg is based on his position in the domain of corporate finance. It will not encourage business to have the Senate reject these two nominations, and a continuance of uncertainty and timidity in business will not help the Democrats in the Congressional elections. In fact, the defeat of these two nominations would be very likely to defeat the Democrats. The country will not keep a Populistic party in power.

Charles Sumner Bird, who has led the Progressive ticket in Massachusetts in two gubernatorial elections, has put his foot down hard, declaring that he will not be a candidate for governor next autumn. Colonel Roosevelt has been asked to try to persuade him to re-consider, but the colonel is in the same position in New York. Neither wishes to run, but the leaders are insistent that they shall. Mr. Bird has proved a popular candidate in Massachusetts and his withdrawal seriously affects the Progressive cause in that state, as Colonel Roosevelt's refusal would do in New York.

According to anticipations, the House of Representatives has abandoned its plan for mileage reform and agreed with the Senate in retaining the present allowance of 20 cents a mile each way, each session, for Senators and Representatives. As the railroads generally charge only two cents a mile for travel, members net a considerable sum, at the rate of 18 cents a mile, for tips, extras and pocket money, in addition to their salaries.

The British House of Lords having finally amended the Irish home rule bill has sent it back to the Commons. Several of the government leaders say the amendments have so changed the character of the bill that the Lords might as well have rejected it. Others are hopeful that an ultimate settlement will be reached.

THE STARCHED COLLAR.

Badge of Civilization Gives Moral Support and Re-Inforces Character.

[Life.]

The papers report that a league has been formed in France to "emancipate man from the starched collar."

Nonsense! Man does not need any such emancipation except on some extra hot days in summer, and then he emancipates himself.

There is more moral support, more re-inforcement of character, in a starched collar than can be had in any other form for the same money. The starched collar is the badge of European civilization. Asia never developed it. Neither did Africa. The Chinese have had civilization for a thousand years, but no starched collar. Where is their civilization now? It has gone to the laundry.

The Hindus are kind to animals and a thoughtful people, but they have never taken to starched collars. Where are they now? Trying to land in British Columbia, trying to stay in South Africa, and being shooed away by collar wearers.

The Persians are on the run. The Japanese, the liveliest people in Asia, when they accepted western civilization, accepted starched collars with both hands. The American negroes wear the tallest and stiffest collars to be had. There is hope for them.

The starched collar is the palladium of respectability. It is the token of the victory over self. Talk about abolishing it is bosh. Abolish trousers if necessary; nations have become great without them; but stick to the collar and stick to the starch.

A FAITHFUL JUDGE.

Justice Lurton's Appointment Had a Touch of Historical Romance.

Justice Lurton was retiring, conscientious and modest. He did his work steadily and thoroughly under adverse circumstances and will be remembered as an efficient and faithful judge. There was a touch of historical romance in his appointment by a Republican President. As a youth he had been one of Morgan's raiders, and was taken prisoner when Morgan invaded Indiana and Ohio. His health was poor then, as well as later in life, and his mother got through the lines and personally requested President Lincoln to allow her to take her son home on parole. Lincoln released him from prison. More than 40 years later he was named by a Republican President as a member of the highest federal court.

THE INSECT WORLD.

Aristocrats, Philosophers and "Hoboes" Described by David Fairchild.

Many Peculiar Habits and Remarkable Achievements Noted by Plant Explorer.

[Washington Star.]

The Rip Van Winkles, the Jekylls and Hydes, the aristocrats, the philosophers and the "hoboes" of the insect world are described in a communication to the National Geographic Society by David Fairchild, the plant explorer, who has scoured the world for plants of economic value and introduced them into the United States.

In describing the peculiar habits and remarkable achievements of insects, he says, the champion aeronaut is the king grasshopper, which has the ability to jump 100 times its length. It can also sail for 1,000 miles before the wind. These grasshoppers sometimes go in such numbers that they make a cloud 2,000 square miles in extent. "Its great front lip hides a pair of jaws as effective as a hay chopper, and it has an appetite as voracious as that of a hippopotamus," writes Mr. Fairchild. "A young chick finds itself shut inside the eggshell and must work its way out alone, but the young grasshoppers find themselves—the whole nestful—shut in a hardened case in the ground made by their mother, and it takes a half-dozen of them working together to dislodge the lid which shuts them in.

"The carrying power of the song of the cricket is extraordinary; there are species whose strident notes can be heard for a mile, although their little bodies are scarcely more than an inch in length. The males alone are musical, and it is reasonable to suppose, since the females have ears in their fore legs, that they are singing to their mates and not to mankind. As one listens to their friendly song it is hard to appreciate what fighters they are among themselves, the larger ones even turning cannibals when food is scarce.

"Of all creatures of our houses, the cockroach is the most detested. Housewives may be surprised to learn that a cockroach can live five years and that it takes a year to develop to maturity. The female lays her eggs in a horny capsule like a spectacle case, which she carries about with her until she is ready to deposit it in some suitable place. Later she returns to help her baby cockroaches out of their shells.

"The song of the cicada is the noisiest in the insect world. The 17-year cicada has been called the Rip Van Winkle of the insect world. From its tiny eggs there issues a creature with soft white body and mole-like front legs. It hurries to the ground and disappears beneath its surface sometimes to a depth of 20 feet. For 17 years it digs its way around in absolute darkness and then comes to the surface to join in a marriage revelry of a few brief weeks. It is a full-fledged creature of the air, though incased still in grave clothes of parchment; but it soon splits these up the back, pulls itself out, dries its powerful wings and flies away with the whirr of an aerodrome to live but a few brief weeks.

"The social organization of the ants has been the admiration of human beings from the earlier times, because the interest of the individual is merged so completely into that of the colony. Theirs is an organization of females. The workers are females, the soldiers are females, the nurses are females, and there is one queen mother for them all, who lays all the eggs of the colony. The males of any colony are but mates for the young queens. Together with them they leave the nest on their marriage day and together make their marriage flight, but as soon as this is over they die and the colony goes on easily without them.

"The Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde is so complete between the butterfly and the velvety green worm that it is no wonder that for centuries no connection between the two careers of these creatures was suspected. In general it is true that no moth or butterfly is injurious to plants except in its larval stage, and herein has laid the clever deception which has doubtless protected these gay mating creatures of the air from the systematic attacks of man until quite recent times.

"The spider world has a vagrant which builds no nest or web, being content to use her marvelous silk in the construction only of a sac in which to lay her eggs. It does not grow to be more than half an inch in length, but it is among the most active of all spiders, and in the United States alone there are nearly a score of species of these little soldiers of fortune living nowhere and roaming the damp fields in search of prey."

INDIAN LOVE SONGS.

Reception, Dance by a Number of Young Women and a Band Concert.

Interesting Program for Open-Air Fete for Benefit of the Newport Historical Society.

An interesting program has been arranged for the Indian exhibition and open-air fete for the benefit of the Newport Historical Society, to be held Saturday on the grounds of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Gillespie on Bellevue avenue. There will be a reception from 3 to 6 p. m., the committee in charge being Roy Roderick Terry, D. D., Mrs. French Vanderbilt and Mrs Gillespie.

Beginning at 4:30 Miss Mabel Simpson will give a series of songs of Indian life and Indian love songs. The first will be "The Weaver," with words by William Feltter and music by Thurlow Lieurance. The poem is Indian in nature, with a Crow tobacco dance melody. The planting of tobacco in the spring is a religious ceremony attended by songs. The melody was sung by Felix Bear, In the Cloud and Sitting Earle and recorded by the author in January, 1912, on the Crow reservation near the Custer battlefield. The second selection will be "Love Songs," from the Red Willow Pueblos, with words by Edna Dean Proctor and music by Thurlow Lieurance. The melody is one of the Red Willow ceremonial songs and the words are from an Omaha legend. When the young Indian feels the spring of love dawn he mounts the hill overlooking the valley where the camp is located and calls upon the flute to his love. The love songs are played upon the Indian flute, which is made of two pieces of cedar, glued together with the pitch from the pine tree.

At 5 o'clock there will be a dance by a number of young women, under the direction of Mrs. Lorillard Spencer Jr., and with Miss Sontum as teacher and solo dancer. The young women are Miss Eleanor T. Darlington, Mrs. Roland Dickson of Paris, Mrs. John Borland, Miss Anita Grosvenor, Miss Edith M. Hunter, Miss Annie Powel, Miss Mildred Rives and Miss Elizabeth S. Sands.

From 2 to 6 o'clock there will be a concert by the Seventh band, coast artillery corps, from Fort Adams, under the direction of H. H. Short conductor, the program being as follows:

March, "Tannhauser" R. Wagner
Overture to "Wilhelm Tell," Rossini

(b) "Dein Eigen" Gavotte

DAVIS CUP CONTESTANTS.

McLoughlin, Bundy and Williams Probable, Fourth Man a Puzzler.

Speculation as to the make-up of the Davis Cup team occupied the minds of the tennis stars gathered at Sea Bright Tuesday to take part in the trials, but were prevented from doing so by the rain. All agreed that Maurice E. McLoughlin, of San Francisco, who arrived from the coast, would be the first choice. Thomas C. Bundy, who came along with his old partner in the doubles, is very likely to have a place, too, for it is not probable that McLoughlin will be willing to pair up with any one else for the doubles. It is the intention of the two to play together in several tournaments where their winning means permanent possession of trophies. As they will be playing together until almost the time of the Davis cup matches, the impression prevails that it scarcely would be a wise thing to make any shift in the combination.

R. Norris Williams, 2d, is counted upon as the most probable third man on the team, but the problem over the fourth is the real puzzler. With Williams and McLoughlin playing singles and the two Californians in the doubles, though, there will not be much need for a fourth man. There is a chance that William J. Clothier, who was the national champion in 1906, may show enough of his old form before the date for the selection committee to make its choice to be picked even ahead of Williams. That, of course, is one of the rather wild guesses, and is based largely on the hard time Williams had to beat Merrill Hall in the first round at Sea Bright.

McLoughlin looked a trifle heavier than he did while here last August, but said his game is better than ever. He expressed confidence in the Americans retaining the trophy. Bundy said he is playing the game of his life.

McLoughlin said he was anxious to play match tennis until he is tuned up on the turf. It is not likely that McLoughlin and Bundy will play in the doubles at Sea Bright until Thursday. They are drawn in the second round against Touchard and Washburn.

Cage from the Naval Training Station and ordering him to the Asiatic station, sailing from San Francisco on the army transport September 5. Lieutenant Commander Evans will succeed Lieutenant Commander Cage as executive officer of the Naval Training Station the latter part of July.

—"Mutt" Waters of this city caught for New Haven in the Eastern Association game Tuesday afternoon at New Haven, when Hartford won one of the greatest pitching duels ever seen in that city, by the close score of 2-1 after 23 innings of play. Of the 14 hits by New Haven Pope, the short stop, made six, and out of the 69 put-outs by the same team, Miller, the first baseman, had 28. Both teams finished the game with the pitchers who started.

CLARK NEVER CONSULTED.

Speaker's Power Not so Great as That of Majority Leader Underwood.

George Fred Williams Served With Bryan—Borah in Demand for Campaign Speaker.

(Washington correspondence of the News.)

WASHINGTON, July 14.—"I wish he would consult the Speaker," was the remark of a prominent Democrat of the House in referring to President Wilson. "He always consults Underwood and other members, but does not seem to realize that the Speaker holds the second position of power in the country."

Probably the President realizes, as many other people have come to realize, that when the Speaker was shorn of his power by the new methods adopted by the Democrats, when they took control of the House, he is not so influential as he was in former years. No doubt the President consults Underwood in preference to Clark because he knows the majority leader is in closer touch with the members of the House than the Speaker. It is the leader who practically names the committees—that is what gives him his control—and Underwood is the kind of a man who can keep control.

George Fred Williams, who, as minister to Greece, has caused talk in and outside of diplomatic circles, was a pronounced anti-Wilson man in the preliminary campaign of 1912, so much so that he prepared extracts from Wilson's speeches and writings to show that Wilson could not be elected. That he was given a foreign appointment was rather surprising, but not to those who remembered that Williams and Bryan entered the House together back in the Fifty-second Congress and became warm friends. Williams was one of the most earnest supporters of Bryan from his first campaign and ever afterward.

The Senate spent several days discussing free seeds when the agricultural bill was under consideration. Finally by a roll call the free seed proposition was eliminated. But the House conferees would not accept the change. And they did not have to stand firm. Almost without question the Senate receded. Free seeds will be distributed as heretofore.

Quite a number of Republicans, candidates for re-election, have been making inquiries about campaign speakers in their districts and find there is a great demand for Senator Borah of Idaho. As these Republicans have talked matters over they are saying it is a pity that Borah is from such a far Western state with comparatively small population. "If he were from Ohio or Indiana or any other big state there would be no question about his looming large as a Presidential quantity," is a remark quite frequently heard.

Soon after the report was noised about that James Hamilton Lewis had determined to drop the "James" and hereafter be known as Hamilton he was called into the cloakroom on the Democratic side.

Big Ollie James arose and, pointing to other members of the group, said, "James Hamilton Lewis, you see before you James Clarke, James O'Gorman, James Martine, James Reed, James Vardaman and James Brady, all members of the Senate, while I am James by surname."

"It almost gives me the jimjams," murmured Lewis, but Ollie went on:

"We understand you have discarded the name 'James,' and we call you to account for it. James is an honorable name, borne by many worthy men. The best you can say of Hamilton is that he was the sire of many noted horses, but that is no reason why you should prefer that name to James or shirk your full responsibility as one of the 'Jims' of this honorable body."

Lewis apologized and asserted that he only put the James in the discard once in order to accommodate the length of a card to mark a desk.

No doubt it is much cheaper to maintain armies in Mexico than it would be to maintain the same number of fighting men in other countries, but even in the Mexican way it must take a deal of money. Naturally the question is asked, "Who is financing the warring factions?"

The answer usually has been that large interests in Mexico are behind these factions, but even that is not quite satisfactory. It is doubtful whether the stake can possibly warrant the outlay. A civil war such as has torn Mexico for three years would have bankrupted almost any other country.

When Speaker Reed counted a quorum in the House more than 20 years ago he raised a riot. Now the Speaker counts to determine the presence of a quorum day after day. Vice President Marshall found one day that 45 Senators had voted on a proposition, just one short of a quorum. "We might just as well settle this question now as any other time," he announced and proceeded to count three Senators who had announced their pairs and declined to vote as making a quorum. There was an appeal and a great deal of argument. Then the morning hour expired, and the question was shunted into the limbo of things never decided. But some day Vice President Marshall will establish his precedent on this subject, upsetting all that has gone before.

Congressman Levy of New York is a man of convictions who is not afraid to express them. He was the only man in the Democratic caucus who dared to rise and offer a resolution in opposition to the program of the President. He was bold enough to offer a resolution to adjourn Congress the middle of this month. While nine tenths of the members are with him, they do not so declare themselves.

The dozen or more Senators who are opposing the rivers and harbors bill are putting up a real fight. They mean to defeat the big bill if they can. While the friends of the measure are confident, they are at the same time somewhat disturbed by the persistency of the opponents.

Henry, the Misses Lewisohn, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lewisohn, Judge David Lentritt and a few other personal friends. Mr. and Mrs. Vogel left for the continent later in the day on their honeymoon trip. They intend to return to the United States about the middle of August.

Disturber IV is said to be the most powerful boat ever built in America for an international contest. While the boat is equipped with two 12-cylinder engines, a third full engine also goes abroad with her, in order that a full engine or part may be replaced.

The rainfall was 3.4 inches in one hour, the greatest here in 26 years. Parts of the city were still under water this morning.

PIMPLES ON NECK CHEST AND BACK

14 Holmes St., Rockland, Me.—"About a year and a half ago I would occasionally have a small pimple come out on my face and I would scratch it all the time. In doing so I began to have more until about a year later my face was a sight. Then they came on my neck and later on my chest and back. They were large, red and sore and in a very short time became festered.

"I put on two or three things but they did not seem to help am much. One night before going to bed I washed my face in as hot water as I could bear and Cuticura Soap, then applied the Cuticura Ointment. The next morning I felt better. In a month my recovery was complete." (Signed) Paul H. Locke, Apr. 4, 1914.

INNOVATION AT BEACH.

Cabaret Supper to be Served and Music, Singing and Dancing Provided.

Thursday evening is to be a big one at the beach. An innovation is to be tried, a cabaret supper being served from 5 to 8 at a popular price. The tables in the restaurant will be spread for this in true New York form and there will be music, singing and dancing, with cabaret artists brought here for the occasion. It is believed that Newport people will take well to this modern idea as soon as they become fully acquainted with it and the idea of the management is to provide it at prices which can be reached by all.

The palm garden in the space between the convention hall and the dance pavilion will be in full form, as the complete equipment will be in position by this time, making it a "bower of beauty." Here tables will be laid, refreshments served and the cabaret will be continued, this time for the benefit of the patrons of the dance hall. A view of this scene will of course be obtainable from the board walk.

For those who do not patronize the dance there will be the two attractions on the beach, the flying of Ruth Law in the electrically outlined biplane and the exhibition by the Marriot troupe, on the stage prepared in front of the walk.

ON THE DEATH ROLL.

Chief Machinist's Mate Sullivan Here, Robert H. Gardiner in Wakefield.

Chief Machinist's Mate James F. Sullivan (retired) died at his home on William street early Tuesday evening, after a month of ill health, having spent a year after his retirement in January, 1913, in the naval hospital. He was 55 years of age, a native of Cork, Ireland, and leaves a widow and two sons, Thomas H. and Paul J. Sullivan, who are employed at the Torpedo Station. He was a member of Newport Council, Knights of Columbus. Sunday he was taken with a hemorrhage of the stomach.

His naval career extended over a period of 30 years, beginning in 1883, with three years of service on the Trenton under Rear Admiral R. C. Bradford. His other duty was on the Constellation, torpedo boat Morris, the Raleigh, Buffalo, Columbia, Hull and last on the Montgomery.

Eminent Commander J. Irving Shepley of Washington Commandery, Knights Templar, has received news of the death in Wakefield, of Robert H. Gardiner, a member of that organization. Mr. Gardiner formerly lived in Newport, having joined Washington Commandery in 1891. He had been only an occasional visitor to the body, having been here in June, when the Commandery celebrated its one hundredth anniversary. He had resided in Wakefield for many years.

IN EXCELLENT FORM.

Trojan Players Ready to Face Worcester New England League Club.

The Trojan base ball team expects to give a good account of itself when it faces the Worcester New England League Club Sunday, as it has shown excellent form in its recent games. In Sheehan the Trojans have a pitcher who has faced New England League clubs before, and it took Lowell 12 innings to beat him, 2-1, last season, when Lowell had just won the league championship. This season Sheehan, while pitching for Villa Nova College, defeated the Wilmington Tri-State League team, which is in a class higher than the New England League. He was never better than at present, and should do his part toward making Worcester hustle to win.

"Mack" Harris the Trojans' hard working catcher, who by his ginger work keeps the team continually on their toes, has had a good deal of experience, having caught for Brown as well as in the Colonial League. He has a great whip and will work to the limit to secure a win over the leaguers.

Dukette, the first baseman, is a finished base ball player and the easy manner in which he takes care of hard chances shows his ability. He is always encouraging the boys along and keeps the team going at top speed. He has had two years of experience on the Brown team, is a fine hitter and fast on the bases.

"Bill" West is having a great year at second, and is going better than ever before. His work on the bases and at the bat is exceptionally good and few second stickers in semi-professional ranks can act as pivot in double plays as well as the Trojans' captain.

"Jimmy" Murphy, the third sacker, has proved a good man for the hot corner. He is fast on bunts, handles ground ball cleverly and is a rapid man on the bases. He is the comedian of the team and a big favorite with the fans.

"Flerry" Harvey is playing a great fielding game and his steadiness is a help to the whole infield. Harvey has a good arm and his fielding and sharp throwing cause many an out at first which other short stops would not make. He has not been hitting up to his usual form, for in the past he has been one of the Trojans' best stickers, but is about due for a brace.

"Billy" Martin, the fast left fielder can catch anything which it is possible to gather in. He makes so many spectacular catches that it has come to be a habit. He is hitting well and is fast on the bases.

"George" Doyle, in centre, is going better with every game. He is a clever fielder and can gather in the hard ones with the best of them. Doyle is hitting in good form and is fast on the bases.

"Dode" Arnold is coming along well in right field and hitting strongly. He can play anywhere on the diamond, and is a handy man for the Trojans.

FISH SITUATION INACTIVE.

The fish situation today is far from active. The Seaconet River Oyster Company which has the only trap outside had just two barrels of fish to ship, the Reliance had five swordfish and the Wood and Mack three. C. B. Anderson has taken out his trap and his men are now busy skivering menhaden, of which he received 150 barrels Tuesday. This skivering will keep the men busy as long as the fish last.

J. O. Proctor has finished his work at Dugan's dock and expects to return, perhaps in August, when he has hopes there will be more mackerel. He has about 500 barrels of salt mackerel stored here, which Mr. Dugan will ship as he orders.

SONS OF TEMPERANCE HERE.

Seventieth Annual Session Opens at the First Baptist Church.

Party to Witness Drill at Training Station—Boy Scouts Guiding Delegates About.

About 100 members and visitors were present at the opening of the seventieth annual session of the Sons of Temperance, National Division of North America, at the First Baptist Church this morning, when the reports of various committees were read and adopted. Representatives were present from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maine, Rhode Island, New

REV. ALFRED NOON,
Most Worthy Patriarch, Sons of Temperance.

Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Ontario. The party will go to the Training Station this afternoon to witness the battalion drill, having received special courtesies in the way of reserved seats.

Most Worthy Patriarch Rev. Alfred Noon of Lunenburg, Mass., was the presiding officer. Other officers present were Fred C. Ward, most worthy associate, from Ontario; Ross Slack, most worthy scribe, from Pennsylvania; M. M. Stevenson, most worthy treasurer, from New Jersey; Rev. R. H. Stavert, most worthy chaplain, from New Brunswick; Nelson Muggah, most worthy conductor, from Nova Scotia, and W. P. Pratt, most worthy sentinel, from Maine. The new officer elected was Miss Mary Clegg Suffa, assistant most worthy scribe, from Providence.

The pages, or Newport assistants, were Misses Lena King, Ruth Hildreth, Catherine Kaull, Irma Richardson and Gladys Delangie. Arthur D. Smith was also a page. The Boy Scouts guiding the Sons of Temperance about the city are Julius Prinz, Hanschen Merker, Archie Mitchell, Lawrence Barker, Arthur Olsson, Benton Decker and Allerton Edes.

This evening the delegation will attend at the First Baptist Church the weekly prayer meeting, which will be followed by another business session. Thursday morning and afternoon there will be other business sessions, while in the evening there will be a social gathering, probably preceded by a public meeting.

CUP BOAT ACTIVITIES.

Vanitie Passes Through Harbor and Past Long Wharf in Trial Spin.

Tuesday afternoon the Vanitie had a short trial spin to test her new clubtopsail spars. Captain Harry Haff took her up through the harbor and out past Long wharf, where she attracted much attention, with her clubtopsail towering far into the sky. It was probably the first time a yacht built for the cup defense or capture has gone through that channel since that evening in August, 1885, when the Genesta came sneaking through into the inner harbor, making her way along without a breath of air.

This morning on the 9 o'clock train the new gaff for the Vanitie arrived and was at once carted to the shipyard, where two men sent from the works began the work of fitting the cap and jaws and the cleats and battens. The stick must be varnished, and it will then be time to turn it.

The Resolute hoisted sail this afternoon, evidently preparing for a spin outside. There was no sign of life on the Defiance.

The yachts will race Thursday, Friday and Saturday under the Newport Yacht Racing Association, and probably on about the same terms as the races just held. No notice of the conditions has yet been posted, but it will be when Mr. C. L. F. Robinson arrives this evening.

CLOSE PLAY AT CASINO.

Mrs. Spencer and Miss Sands Win Final in Women's Doubles.

In the final match in the women's doubles handicap lawn tennis tournament at the Casino this morning Mrs. Lorillard Spencer, Jr., and Miss Anna Sands won in straight sets, defeating Miss Edna Barger and Miss Margaret H. Rusk, 6-4, 7-5. Miss Barger and Miss Rusk gave their opponents 15 and were unable to overcome this handicap, although the play was close at all times and the sets decided with only a small margin in each case. The net play of Miss Sands, and the back court work of Miss Barger were the features of the match, which was quite exciting throughout and was watched with interest by a large number of spectators.

ON THE PLAYGROUNDS.

Lenthal Tournament Events—A Marked Increase in Attendance.

The Lenthal playground was a scene of activity this morning, when a tournament was held under the supervision of Director Wyllie. Entries were numerous and the shortness of the time required to complete the tournament testified to the interest of the competitors. The events and winners were as follows:

At quoits W. Harmon won from H. Murphy in the final round by the score of 21-7.

Eight teams entered in the volley ball contest and in the final round Steve Healy and T. Shea won from D. Murphy and Fournier. In the basket ball throwing contest G. Walsh won with 16 talkes in 25 tries; I. Healy was second and S. Healy third.

Then the contestants went down to Spring wharf for a swim, the use of the wharf being had through the courtesy of Caretaker Bliven. Plans are being made for a swimming meet with the King Park playground.

The Basin won its first league game at indoor base ball Tuesday afternoon, when it defeated Cranston, 6-3.

Figures for the attendances at the playgrounds about the city during the past week reached the high number of 3,610, showing that a marked increase has taken place under the charge of Supervisor Kelley.

There will be a baby carriage parade at the Mary Street playfield Friday morning, when the girls will parade around the ground twice with their doll carriages, after which Miss Leddy, the instructor there, will pick the winner. Saturday afternoon at Aquidneck park there will be a much bigger parade, along the same lines, when judges will be selected to determie the winners.

Under the charge of Instructor Lee at King park Saturday morning there will be a combined athletic and swimming meet.

The interest in the raffia work at the playgrounds has been large, and the youngsters now are quite adept in making baskets, doll hats, mesh bags, etc., out of the straw.

Miss A. Peckham, the instructor at Aquidneck park, is making a schedule round of the various playfields, where she is instructing the children in folk dancing in preparation for a big exhibition to be held later.

Athletic meets will be held at most of the playgrounds every week, and at times two of the grounds will meet in dual contests. At the close of the season one big meet between all the playfields will take place, under the personal charge of Supervisor Kelley, assisted by the entire corps of instructors.

Men and Boys Show Great Interest in Y. M. C. A. Tournaments.

The tournaments at the Young Men's Christian Association are progressing rapidly, the interest shown by the men and boys surpassing that of any tournament ever held in the summer at he Association. MORE FLIGHTS.

Ruth Law, in Lighted Aeroplane, Continues to Cause Wonder.

Ruth Law made another flight Tuesday evening in her electric lighted aeroplane and continues to cause wonder and gratify the desires of those who are looking for unusual sights. People on Spring street report having seen the flight by night, which was made about 8:45. A man who has been seeking attractions for a New Hampshire fair for 30 years, and was at the beach during the flight, passed favorable comment upon it as an attraction and at once signed a contract for her to fly at the fair e represents. Se made a daylight flight Tuesday afternoon and another early this afternoon.

CLOSE AND SULTRY.

General Humidity Takes Possession and the Air Develops Heat.

The weather today is about the most sultry of the season—perhaps that word "about" should have been omitted. It looked good this morning. There had been a little rain during the night—.06 of an inch the Water Works man said—what wind there was came from the northeast and the sun was overcast. About 11 the sun burned through and at once General Humidity seemed to take possession and the air seemed to have suddenly developed a degree of heat not before known this season. About 1 o'clock a gentle and somewhat cooling breeze sprang up from the southeast and relieved the feeling somewhat; but it was still very close.

The best the News thermometer could do was 79, but the one at fire department headquarters rose to the emergency and also to the 87 mark, the highest it has gone this year and hotter than the hot days of May and June. That is just the way it felt there, and anywhere else off of the breeze.

LIGHTING COULD NOT BE JUDGED.

The Old and New Lamps Show Their Rays at the Same Time.

Newport's Great White Way Receives a Somewhat Unsatisfactory Introduction.

Newport's Great White Way received a somewhat unsatisfactory introduction Tuesday evening, because no arrangements had been made for dousing the regular lamps, and so the old and the new showed their rays and the lighting of the street could not be judged. Newport is not likely to pay for as much light, for 20 or more lamps in such a short space is pretty extravagant. The company is giving the lighting of the 17 new ones and the old ones are provided for under a contract, so that before they are turned off there will need to be some formal agreement for the company to protect itself against what might be considered as a breach of contract. The aldermen may be called upon tonight to take up the matter and permit the old lights to be cut out, that it may be seen just what the new will do.

With so many lamps burning of course there was more light than there had been, and still some did not see such a great difference while others thought they did. The new were more comfortable to look at, being less glaring and throwing a diffused light which seemed to settle all around and cast little or no shadow. Their distribution is of course imperfect, because they have been located on poles placed for a different purpose. Besides, to have them jutting out from wire-cluttered poles kills the effect so far as one who is familiar with lighting in other cities is concerned. The lights are in commission and all can now see for themselves what is meant by a Great White Way and form their own opinions. The lights will be maintained for a time sufficient for the people to become acquainted with them and prepared to say what they desire for Newport—the old or the new.

ROAD WORK.

Cinders Lacking for Sidewalks—Bellevue Avenue Incidents.

Street Commissioner Hamilton has gone as far as he proposes with the preparation for the Broadway concrete sidewalk, having decided that he will not attempt to determine the fate of the two trees which must be destroyed if he is to follow the strict letter of his instructions regarding an eight-foot walk. He feels that he would have others decide what is to be done with the trees, and if he is directed to go on with the walk he will do so.

He is again waiting for cinders, as the 10 carloads ordered last week from Taunton has not appeared, in consequence of which sidewalks in various parts of the city cannot be used, since they have been excavated. He is doing his best to find some way to have the railroad speed the needed material along. It seems to be much easier to order new walks than it is to obtain the material for constructing them.

The work of covering Bellevue avenue came to a stop this morning because of the dampness. The roadway was in fine condition after the heat of Sunday and good progress was made Monday, 1,100 running feet of road being covered. Satisfactory progress was also made Tuesday and at 3 o'clock the work had progressed beyond Webster street, so that vehicles could reach the avenue from that street. The roadway looks well after the surface coating has been laid.

There are some incidents in connection with the work. Some persons insist in crossing the road where the hot asphalt has been sprinkled, and then wonder how they can get the "tar," as they call it, off their shoes. A sparrow dropped down on the newly asphalted surface and became so smeared with the sticky stuff that it was necessary to kill it.

Only a few feet of the roadway in length is kept covered with the asphalt at a time and all the rest is available for travel. The road, of course, receives a thorough clean-up before the asphalt is laid. With the work advancing 1,100 feet a day, it is necessary to shift the melting outfit nightly; in fact, it would be well if it could be moved twice a day.

Officer McCormick is having his troubles trying to keep bicyclists from riding on the sidewalk. Some have regard for the rights of others, dismount from their wheels and walk past the work; but others ride right by, though they do not ride over that hot asphalt.

FARRELL ISSUES NOTICE.

Optional Agreement to be Exercised on or Before August 15.

AUBURN, N. Y., July 15.—Secretary John H. Farrell of the National Association of Professional Base Ball Leagues today gave out the following notice:

"All optional agreements must be exercised on or before August 15 by notifying and forwarding to the national secretary a check for the amount involved. The sale or the release of the services of players by national association clubs after August 26 is prohibited, or to a major league club within 20 days of the close of the season of the club disposing of the player."

Among decisions handed down by the national board of arbitration was the award of player Harrington to Fall River, Mass.

FIVE MILLIONS SET ASIDE.

New Bridge to Be Built Across the Ohio by Mobile & Ohio Road.

MOBILE, Ala., July 15.—Five million dollars has been set aside by the Mobile & Ohio railroad for the construction of a new bridge across the Ohio river at Cairo, Ill., according to an announcement by R. V. Taylor, president of the road today. President Taylor also said his road would spend $1,122,000 for new equipment.

HOW TO SCARE SATAN.

A careful mother, who always follows closely the teachings which her eight-year-old son receives at Sunday School, experienced a shock when, in response to the stereotyped question, "What did you learn today?" her young hopeful joyfully exclaimed: "I learnt how to scare Satan; you only have to climb into his lap." Upon further investigation she discovered that the source of his information was the two lines of Cowper's hymn:

And Satan trembles when he sees
The weakest saint upon his knees.

Quartet From Torpedo Station Still Pleasing in "The Man From Home."

The quartet from the Torpedo Station, which includes Messrs. Crowell, Horgan Weaver and Simpson is pleasing at every performance at the Opera House this week, and always receives a good "hand." Few plays in recent years have made such a universal appeal to the American public as the drama by Booth Tarkington and Harry Wilson, "The Man from Home." The whole atmosphere abounds with the Italian suggestion, and in fact every scene is laid in that country, though the spirit of the play is purely American. The principal character, Daniel Voulnes Pike, a plain lawyer from Kokoma, Ind., is played by James Crane, the leading man of the Malley-Denison Company, whose interpretation of the part shows a type of the American man of business. Miss Blanche Shirley is also favorably impressing the audiences.

Next week's bill, "What Happened to Mary?" is a play founded on the many stories which appeared in a magazine and excites interest in her adventures from the moment she goes to New York.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

Work of Young People's Service League of Second Baptist Church.

The annual meeting of the Young People's Service League of the Second Baptist Church was held Tuesday evening at the church. The reports of the officers showed that during the year 27 devotional meetings were held, there were four lecture evenings with addresses by Miss Mary F. Leavitt on China, Rev. John S. Kinker on Palestine, Mr. Philip Caswell on the Panama canal and Mrs. Alfred G. Langley on "Il Trovatore." Socials were also held and an outing is planned to take place during the summer. The League has raised approximately $120 during the year, of which $95 has been turned over to the piano fund. Officers were elected as follows:

President—Philip B. Case.
Vice President—Reginald S. Kimball.
Secretary—Miss Madge Stanley.
Treasurer—Miss Marian Mannel.

Seven members of the League—Misses Rowena MacLellan, Ella Sanford, Helen A. King, Marian Mannel and Helen Taylor and Messrs Reginald S. Kimball and Philip B. Case, will leave Saturday for East Greenwich, with Mrs. John P. Peckham, to attend the sessions of the Narragansett Assembly, an institute for Bible and mission study.

MOSQUITO CLEAN-UPS.

New Jersey's Prospective Loss of Pests Will be Regretted by None.

[New York Evening Post.]

Ireland's pride in the absence of snakes may yet, if we may believe Hudson county's board of mosquito exterminating commissioners, be eclipsed by New Jersey's in the disappearance of the mosquito. The announcement of that body's dinner in celebration of the clean-up of Hoboken, Jersey City, Bayonne and East Newark should be telegraphed to centres of magazine and vaudeville humor throughout the country. The achievement is representative of a similar but less thorough work in Passaic and other counties, and it is putting to shame Bergen and Essex communities, which when once roused will undoubtedly assist in the campaign.

The prospective loss of the state's traditional distinction, through the co-operation of freeholders and railways, will be regretted by none. History records but one occasion when the mosquitoes were a blessing in disguise; that being when the redoubtable Swedes, fortifying the post of Helsenburg, were driven from it by a swarm comparable to the plagues of Egypt, and sent by St. Nicholas himself—the Dutch burghers naming the dismantled post Myggenborg in remembrance. The commissioners' report makes it clear just how important to the comfort of a whole region may be the extermination of the insects in one locality, and what wonders may be worked by the expenditure of a few thousands on drainage and crude oil. Those expert in the guile of mosquitoes, however, will advise against premature boasting of their conquest.

A HORSELESS FIRE DEPARTMENT

[New York Tribune.]

Fire Commissioner Adamson has received the approval of the board of estimate for an issue of $200,000 bonds to replace 195 fire horses with tractors for fire engines. He expects before his term of office ends to have ousted the horse from the fire department and to have it equipped with motor engines only.

If he does, much of the picturesqueness of the department will have vanished with the splendid horses, which seem to know what is expected of them as well as the human members of the department do, and to enjoy going to a fire as if it were a frolic. The motor engines are doubtless more efficient and less costly in the long run. It is proving that way in mercantile establishments, where the motor trucks and delivery wagons are supplanting horse-drawn vehicles rapidly.

So the days of the fire horse here are doubtless numbered, along with his cousin, the ambulance horse. The fire department is not run for spectacular effect, but service. Nevertheless, a word of commendation and affection is due to the fire horses as they go. New York will long remember them.

The Ocean drive, about 11 miles long—Skirts the southern shore along the ocean, and includes Bellevue (Ches') avenue. Carriages take passengers around, from the beach, starting about noon. The life saving station is reached from this drive.

The parks are not so extensive as in some cities, but are pretty places. Morton park was given by Vice President Morton, a resident here. Aquidneck park, is the newest, the gift of a son of an old Newport family, George Gordon King. In this the public library is now located. Touro park was the gift of citizens, among them George T. Downing, a colored man. The Old Stone Mill is here, also a statue of William Ellery Channing, pioneer Unitarian, born here in 1780, and a statue of Commodore M. C. Perry, through whom Japan opened her ports to commerce. On Washington square, in front of his former residence, is the statue of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, the hero of Lake Erie, by Captain William G. Turner, a Civil War veteran and native of Newport. FOR YOUNG WOMEN.

Association in Pawtucket and Central Falls Aided by Taunton Woman.

The greater part of an estate, estimated in the bond of the executor at more than $20,000, was left for the creation of a Young Women's Christian Association for the cities of Pawtucket and Central Falls, in the will of Sarah P. Grant, formerly of Central Falls, who died at Taunton, Mass., June 6. The will directs that the estate devised shall be used for general purposes and work among young women of Pawtucket and Central Falls as such associations are accustomed to carry on.

The deceased was born in Taunton, but lived most of her life in Central Falls, and in accordance with her desire to help in the formation of such an institution some time ago she gave outright to a Young Women's Christian Association which had been formed there her homestead on Broad street, over the line in Central Falls, and it is now being equipped, a charter having been granted last January.

The only living heir of the deceased is Bathsheba P. Briggs of Taunton, a cousin, who is not remembered in the will, and may contest it.

THE LIBRARY'S NEW HOME.

occupies. On the right is a new tablet in appreciation for all time of the name and generosity of him who gave the site and building, expressing briefly and beautifully the purpose of such a library, for all who may use it in the years to come. This is a richly designed Gorham bronze bearing the following inscription:

THIS HOUSE
THE HOME OF HIS CHILDHOOD
WAS GIVEN BY
GEORGE GORDON KING
TO
THE PEOPLE OF NEWPORT
to be a place where they might find companionship in joy
and solace in sorrow
in the friendship of books
CHRISTMAS 1912.

In this part of the building little change has been made, as the circular arches and broad staircase hall of the former dwelling-house were excellent examples of design, giving great dignity to the whole interior. These have been retained, and the white walls and finish and dark balustrade of the staircase produce a generous and spacious appearance which has fortunately been preserved as the centre of interest in the new Library.

The staircase hall, however, is now the delivery room, with the librarian's desk at the foot of the stairs, where it has full control of the rooms on either side.

At the left of the entrance is one of the most interesting parts of the building, the children's room, which is fitted up with dark oak bookcases and mantelpiece, a broad seat and low tables. The walls are of rich terra cotta or leather color. This sunny and cheerful room should make an attractive and home-like place for the entertainment and instruction of the children.

The pictures in the children's room are varied in subject, choice in composition and richly prepared, be they photogravures or prints. Even their framing has been carefully studied, that they be in thorough keeping with the room. Mrs. Harold Brown is the donor of this part of the equipment.

The furnishings of the library are of a rich old Colonial type, in waxed oak, designed especially to be in keeping with the white interior. One design has been followed throughout in the furniture, for whatever room it may be intended.

On the opposite side of the hall is the reading room, 19 by 24 feet, which opens with wide folding doors into the reference room. These are finished in grey white and have reading tables and filing cabinets conveniently arranged for practical use.

Directly back of the reference room is the trustees' private room and the work room for the use of the librarian. Near this are the rear hall and entrance and rear staircase from the basement to the upper part of the building.

The most difficult part of the alteration was the arrangement of the large stack room. This is now a fireproof space which can be entirely cut off from the rest of the building and insure the safety of the large and valuable collection of books. This room is 54 feet in length, with an average width of 24 feet, and forms an uninterrupted open space from the first floor to the roof, which will accommodate four floors of library stacks having a capacity of 100,000 volumes. To arrange this large space the old floors, partitions and walls were completely removed, a new fireproof concrete floor put in and supported upon steel beams and columns, and a new fireproof ceiling hung from steel girders. The entrance from the hallway to the stack room are also protected by sliding fireproof doors, so that all can be closed and secured at night.

At present sufficient accommodation for the books is provided by two tiers of steel racks, and this can be enlarged by two additional stack floors whenever the growth of the library requires this expansion. The stacks are well lighted in the day-time by the large windows and a complete system of electric lights and switches is installed for evening use.

The lighting system throughout the building has been thoroughly revised and abundant light provided for the reading tables, filing cases and other new fittings.

On the second floor the door at the head of the main staircase opens into a room 24 by 36 feet, to be used for public lectures. Special arrangements for stereopticons are provided. Near this lecture room is a large study room or quiet room for the use of students investigating special subjects.

In the basement a new steam boiler has been installed and a new piping and radiators have been placed throughout the building.

For the convenience of the public the trustees have also provided an enclosed storm porch at the main entrance. Steps and a wrought-iron sign post have been built on King street, affording a direct entrance to the Library from Bellevue avenue. These steps and the front entrance are also connected by a wide granolithic walk. A privet hedge has also been planted on the south and east sides of the Library lot.

In the spring of 1912 the alteration of the building was placed in the hands of Clarke, Howe & Homer, architects, but since the dissolution of that firm in June, 1913, the development and oversight of the entire problem has been carried on by Eleazer B. Homer, representing the former firm, and superintendence has been carried on from his Newport office.

The contract for the main part of the alteration was awarded to Kerr Brothers, the heating to James J. Lynch and the electric wiring to Edward P. Lake, all of Newport; the stacks were furnished by the Library Bureau, the electric fixtures by the Pettingell-Andrews Company of Boston, the furniture and part of the bookcases by the A. H. Davenport Company of Boston, the iron grills and wrought-iron sign post by the James H. Tower Iron Works of Providence, the storm porch and rear entrance steps by Robert W. Curry of Newport, the privet hedge by J. Edward Wilson of Middletown, and the granolithic walk by the Darling & Slade Construction Company of Newport.

WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS VISITED OFFICIALLY.

Lawton-Warren Women's Relief Corps received an official visit Tuesday evening from Mrs. Eliza Pollard, state president, and members of her staff. Mrs. Pollard and her officers, who arrived early in the day, were met by members of the local corps and escorted to the beach, where dinner was served. Later the party visited the Colonial Theatre and spent the remainder of the day in sight-seeing. Supper was served in Grand Army hall, followed by the official business of the visit of the state officials.

MISSION INCREASING.

Bishop Woodcock's Earnestness Renders Words Doubly Impressive.

The mission at Trinity Church is attracting larger congregations at every service, those Tuesday being particularly well attended. The missioner, Bishop Woodcock, is so manifestly in earnest and his manner is so sincere that his simple words are rendered doubly impressive.

The subject of the address in the afternoon was "The Sin of Evil Speaking" and the text Psalms CXLI: 3: "Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth; keep the door of my lips." Every one makes his own world and reveal and disgrace themselves more are not fit for Heaven now we are not fit for Heaven hereafter. We must be our own Heaven and be sweet enough to be strong, strong enough to be sweet, and sweet enough not to be queer.

Trust in our neighbors is one of our most sacred trusts. Those who are always looking for badness in others reveal and illustrate themselves more than they do their neighbors. No class of society is exempt from gossip and slanderers. If there were no gossip and slander there would be one half less misery in the world.

When tempted to repeat any slander said Bishop Woodcock, answer the following questions honestly and the probability is you will say nothing, and thereby never be sorry for things you never said: Is it true? Is it necessary for me to tell it? Am I the one to tell it? In conclusion the bishop urged his hearers to stop hearing as well as to stop telling gossip and to refuse to allow the badness of the bad to blind them to the goodness of the good.

In the evening Bishop Woodcock answered two questions which had been handed to him and read several prayers which had been requested. The subject of the sermon was "The Privilege of Repentance" and the texts were Acts III: 19, "Repent ye therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out" and Luke XV: 18 and 19: "I will arise and go to my father, and will say unto him: Father, I have sinned against Heaven and before thee, and am no more worthy to be called thy son; make me as one of thy hired servants."

So far as we know man is the only being that, knowing and breaking law, has the privilege of repentance. We have no record of the revival of an extinct specimen which has disobeyed law, or of a fallen angel who has been restored.

No man is too wicked for repentance. The door of mercy swings inward and God does not despise the sinful man, be he grossly vicious or selfishly indifferent. We all need repentance and God will absolutely blot out every sin. The Cross of Christ descends deeper than hell, reaches to Heaven and in its width includes the history of the race from the beginning. Repentance consists of sorrow for sin, confession and the peace which follows confession.

After the hymn, "O Jesus, Thou art standing outside the fast closed door," Bishop Woodcock made a striking appeal for the degree of repentance needed in each individual present and urged those who had not given their lives to God to do so at once.

Bishop Woodcock announced that in response to the request of those unable to attend a 7:30 service Friday morning it will be held in Kay Chapel at 6:30 p. m. when those will be Holy Communion.

FOR ISLAND PARK.

Cottage Owners Organize Improvement Association and Elect Officers.

The cottage owners at Island Park met recently at the home of Commissioner Joseph A. Parks, "Lincoln Villa," and organized the Island Park Improvement Association with the following officers:

President—Benjamin F. Muller.
Secretary—Joseph A. Parks.
Treasurer—Thomas Barton.

The object of the Association is to secure needed improvements in the vicinity of the Park. The main questions discussed at the meeting, which was largely attended and enthusiastic, were the building of a sidewalk along Park avenue and the lighting of the avenue. Messrs. Parks, Barton, Barker and Mills were made a committee to appear before the town council to urge the necessity of building a sidewalk for the safety of the residents.

It was declared that many persons are charged unreasonable rates for electric lights, and Messrs. Kershaw and Parks were appointed to interview Superintendent Gosling relative to the grievances.

An assessment was laid upon the residents of Fountain avenue connected with the sewer, for the purposes of maintenance. Messrs. Wagstaff and Barton were engaged to look up some better system of taking care of the sewage in this vicinity.

The quo-tion of the danger of fires was discussed at considerable length, and all seemed to realize the importance of taking precaution to guard against fire. It was thought that every cottage should possess at least one extinguisher and it was voted that every cottager be appointed a committee of one to attend to the matter of fire protection in his own cottage.

Town Sergeant Luther Chase attended the meeting and promised to lend every assistance to keep order at the Park and its vicinity and said he would welcome any complaint.

The committee on sidewalks and lights were well received by the town council, who appeared much impressed with the necessity of a sidewalk.

LURTON'S BRIEF CAREER.

Chief Justice Entered Court at Advanced Age and in Poor Health.

Horace H. Lurton did not sit upon the Supreme Court bench long enough to get into the gallery of great Supreme Court justices. Time is essential in building up a reputation in that court. Most of the men who have created exceptional influence as chief justice and associate justices served terms of 20 years or over in that category are Marshall, Taney, Story, Miller and Harlan. Mr. Lurton entered the court in advanced age and in poor health and served but five years. His brief career recalls that of Howell E. Jackson, a fellow Tennessean, whom he succeeded as circuit judge. Jackson, a man of fine capacity, was also handicapped by illness, and died after a two years' service.

other purposes. We have also renewed the contract with the city for the care of advanced cases of tuberculosis, being reimbursed by the city for the actual cost of caring for these patients in their homes or in institutions, as may be advisable or possible in each instance. This method has been justly criticised, but nothing better has yet been suggested, and we are glad to continue a work which, whatever its defects may be, relieves so great an amount of suffering.

One endowed bed has been established, to be named the William Gordon Weld bed, by gift of $1,000.00 from Mrs. William Gordon Weld. A full list of all donations appears in the treasurer's report, and we wish to express our most sincere thanks and deep sense of obligation to all those, whether individuals, churches, or social or fraternal organizations, who have thus assisted in carrying on our work. We are grateful for the material help given and for their expressions of approval and encouragement.

BURIAL OF THOMAS R. SPENCER.

The body of Thomas R. Spencer, who died Sunday in Memphis, Tenn., was brought here Tuesday afternoon and interred in the Clifton family plot in the Old cemetery, beside that of his wife, Abbie Clifton Spencer, who died a little more than a year ago. The funeral services was conducted in the Belmont Memorial Chapel by Rev. C. E. Silcox, pastor of the United Congregational Church. It was attended by members of the family from Pawtucket and Providence, friends in this city and members of the Royal Arcanum, of which the deceased was formerly grand regent of the Grand Council of Rhode Island.

FRENCH FOURTH OF JULY.

Temporary Newporters Celebrate With Dinner as Their Own Chefs.

Following their yearly custom, a number of Frenchmen who are temporarily Newporters through spending the summers here, celebrated the fourteenth of July, a date which in France is looked upon as the Fourth of July is in this country. The celebration took the form of a dinner at Cassin's restaurant, but unlike most dinners the participants were the caterers and chose the restaurant as a convenient place for having it served. The caterers are men who, because of their extensive knowledge of the art of cookery, are the chefs who preside over the kitchens in many of the most pretentious of Newport houses, and not a few of them have been coming to Newport regularly for more than a generation.

These artists and three or four of their local friends formed a party numbering about two dozen, who spent a pleasant evening in eating, songs and patriotic speeches. That the various dishes served marked the height of the culinary art it should be needless to say, but just why this date should be celebrated and how close the event thus noted is related to the history of Newport is possibly not realized by others than students of history.

France is today, like the United States, a republic, and the fourteenth of July, 1789, marks the fall of the Bastille and the beginning of the fight of the people of that country for liberty. Their fight was influenced by the United States declaring its independence from England and the establishment of a new government. The Bastille, originally built for a castle, was used as a prison and within it horrible tortures were inflicted and the most influential opponents of the ruling powers were incarcerated. The people rose in evolution against the conditions to which they were subjected under the old rule, and like insane men made assault upon the Bastile, which in their eyes was something material on which to vent their feelings. The strong fortress-like construction literally fell, for the people did not rest until they had completely torn it down. Today the fine Fourteenth of July monument marks its site.

Louis XVI was then king and like many others who stood for the old reign was killed in the troublesome times which marked the birth of the new country. While he was a monarch at home, he listened to Lafayette, the friend of the American colonies, and thus France aided them in securing their liberty. Lafayette, while himself standing for freedom, was a member of the Louis XVI court, and became greatly disliked by his own people for trying to save the king's life after the revolutionists came into control. Newport boasts of having entertained Lafayette and also boasts of still having the headquarters of Count Rochambeau, another ally, in a good state of preservation and suitably marked by a tablet. Count Rochambeau was dispatched to this country with a fleet by Louis XVI and that fleet was located at Newport for quite a period.

Thus the little celebration Tuesday evening of a few visitors has a local significance, though probably those who saw the party dining, as they passed through Washington square, did not realize that the event was in any way connected with Newport's history.

MEDICAL

STRAIGHTFORWARD TESTIMONY.

Many Newport Citizens Have Profited By It

If you have backache, urinary troubles, days of dizziness, headaches or nervousness, strike at the seat of the trouble. These are often the symptoms of weak kidneys and there is grave danger in delay. Doan's Kidney Pills are especially prepared for kidney ailments—are endorsed by over 30,000 people. Your neighbors recommend this remedy—have proved its merit in many tests. Newport readers should take fresh courage in the straightforward testimony of a Newport citizen.

Seth Swinburne, 19 Second St., Newport, says: "I had pains in the small of my back and my kidneys were disordered. Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me. I like to keep them in the house, as we use them off and on for kidney disorders. Doan's Kidney Pills are certainly all that is claimed for them."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Swinburne had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

GARRISON'S LETTER CONSIDERED

House Foreign Affairs Committee to Discuss Niagara Water Problems.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The House foreign affairs committee had before it today Secretary Garrison's letter urging removal of restrictions upon importation of electric power from Canada, and retention of the present limit of 15,600 cubic feet per second upon the amount of water diverted for power purposes from the Niagara river, above the falls on the American side. The committee had called a meeting for a general discussion of the Niagara water diversion problems today.

Secretary Garrison accompanied his letter with a report by Brigadier General Kingman, chief of engineers of the army, declaring that the enormous commerce on the Great Lakes probably would soon demand a ship canal between Lakes Erie and Ontario on American soil.

Stating that while the Burton Niagara river diversion law was in operation the average cost of administration was $1,600 a year, Secretary Garrison submitted an amendment to the proposed legislation so as to declare that the purpose is "to authorize such control and use of the waters of the Niagara river as shall be best adapted to conserve and utilize the water in the interests of navigation, full development of water power and other public purposes," and to appropriate $25,000 for examinations and investigations to carry out this general purpose.

NEW YORK, July 15, Wall Street.—The market opened with Amalgamated Copper 69½, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe 98⅜, Baltimore & Ohio 87¾, Brooklyn Rapid Transit 91, Canadian Pacific 165⅞, Central Leather 36⅝, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul 98½, Erie 27⅞, Missouri Pacific 11¾, National Lead 57, New York Central 88, Northern Pacific 110⅝, Pennsylvania 114¾, Reading 162½, Rock Island Preferred 2⅜, Southern Railway 23, Union Pacific 155½, United States Steel 69⅜, United States Steel preferred 120½, Western Union 88⅝, Westinghouse Electric 78¼.

Foreign liquidation was again responsible for the heaviness in today's early dealings in the stock market. Cables from London reported selling there for Paris and Berlin account. The only stock of importance to register a substantial gain was Union Pacific, which soon rose 1⅝ on the decision of the court upholding the "extra dividend" distribution to common shareholders. Baltimore & Ohio Common and Preferred, which formed the greater part of this distribution, were correspondingly depressed, losing 2 and 2½ points, respectively. Canadian Pacific lost 1⅞ and in the specialties Dry Goods Preferred fell 2. The leaders were lower at the outset, but evinced a rallying tendency, only to fall back again.

Noon—Such tendencies as the market might have shown to improve its early position were nullified by further weakness in New Haven, which fell 3½ points to 52, a new low record. Offerings were persistent and left little doubt of their liquidating character. Canadian Pacific also fell 3 points to a new low record on selling attributed to Canadian and foreign sources. Low records were made by Rock Island Common and Preferred and the collateral bonds. Dry Goods Preferred added four points to its initial fall. Heaviness in Baltimore & Ohio issues extended to other eastern roads and there was selling of the Gould's. Bonds were irregular. Call money, firmer, at 2. Mercantile paper, 3¾ @ 4½. Exchanges, $3,278,754; balances, $16,938,334.

PURE WATER.

As far back as the time of our Civil War there was an apparatus called the McClellan filter, made to fit into the soldier's canteen and so arranged that it would strain and filter the water in the canteen. Army surgeons recognized the danger of impure water and with good reason for intestinal diseases claimed more victims than bullets did. Wherever numbers of people are gathered in camps there lurks the dangers of infected water supply. Changes in manner of living, in food, etc., intensify this danger. If your boy or girl goes camping this summer see to it that a supply of absolutely pure drinking water is at hand. It is a simple precaution but a most important one and cannot be too carefully heeded.

OF INTEREST TO VISITORS.

Places Well Worth Including in Itinerary During a Stay in Newport.

Many Have Historic Significance, Others Connected With the More Modern City.

The Daily News publishes today a list of places of interest which visitors to Newport will find well worth including in their itinerary during their stay here. Many of these are of historic interest, having been intimately associated with early Colonial and Revolutionary days, and others connected with modern Newport, and several days' journeying about the city and the neighboring country will be necessary if visitors "take in" all the places mentioned.

Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association, Washington square.

Artillery armory, Clarke street.

Bailey's beach, end of "The Avenue."

Bannister's wharf (West Pelham street)—Newport "catboats" by the hour. Captain Tom Shea and other reliable skippers. Power boats also.

"The" beach, off the Avenue (1½ miles)—Bathing, good restaurant, clambakes, etc. Best way to walk is by Old Beach road, leaving the avenue opposite Touro park.

Bellevue ("the") avenue, from Touro and Kay streets 2½ miles south. Noted "cottages" both sides. The fashionable driving is about 4 p. m.

Block Island, 25 miles to sea—Beautiful sail (two hours each way).

"Bull House" Spring street—Ruins now standing after fire. It was built in 1639, and was the oldest house in Rhode Island.

Butts Hill, Portsmouth—Apex of Battle of Rhode Island, the "best fought battle of the Revolution." Either Providence or Fall River trolley car goes near. Take Fall River car out, pass Vanderbilt farms; views of East River. Return by Providence car, pass Prescott house, where the general was captured June 10, 1777, and taken off, under the guns of the British fleet. Just before reaching this pass the home of Julia Ward Howe.

Casino, Bellevue avenue—Tennis championship matches, horse shows, etc., take place here.

Cliff Walk—Along the shore, parallel to the Avenue, and around to Bailey's beach.

Emmanuel Church, lower Spring street—Beautiful edifice, fine organ, expensive parish house.

Fort Adams, off the Ocean drive, or reached by boat(no public conveyance)—A large fortification, with some modern mortars, etc.

Fort Greene, now a park, out Washington street—A pretty walk. From a public pier, foot of Elm street, the Fall River line boat is seen evenings, passing. Fort Greene built in 1798, on the site where, in 1776, a fort was thrown up in one night to give battle to British ship Scarborough.

Goat Island, now the United States Torpedo station, a large industry—Pirates were buried there in olden times. On its shores in July, 1769, British sloop Liberty was burned by the colonists, the first open act of rebellion.

Hanging Rocks, back of the Second beach—A short mile east of "the" beach, where Bishop Berkeley wrote the "Minute Philosopher" in the earlier part of the eighteenth century. He lived at Whitehall, a half mile up the valley (which is well named "Paradise"), and gave his home to Yale College, the present owner. Just before reaching Second beach, one may cross the field to "Purgatory," a sullen chasm in the rocky cliff.

Historical Rooms, Touro street—Many curios. Touro street is named for the Jewish family of pioneer philanthropists among whose gifts were large funds to the town of Newport in trust to care for the street, the Jewish Synagogue, cemetery, etc. One of them gave a large sum towards the completion of Bunker Hill monument, when work had ceased on it for lack of funds. Touro Park is named for similar reasons.

Honyman's Hill, in Middletown—A commanding view. Here Lafayette opposed the British.

Lawton's Valley, in Portsmouth, near the home of Julia Ward Howe—A beautiful glen, well wooded, with a stream running to the sea, ... near by.

Lime Rocks, in the inner harbor, Ida Lewis kept the light here ... She saved about 18 lives, in the waters near by, where heavy storms sometimes rage.

Malbone, a fine stone mansion out near "Tommony Hill." An observatory crowns the hill (free to all). In 1766 the residence of Col. Malbone was accidentally burned while he was entertaining guests at dinner. He had the tables removed to the lawn, that the dinner might go on, and it did. Beyond this hill is "Paradise" ...

FISH PACKING ON LONG WHARF.

Railroad and Steamship Lines Restrict Operations on the Dock.

Fisheries Company and Agents Must Use Some Other Place for Shipping Purposes.

A peculiar condition of affairs has developed at the west end of Long wharf, where for many years the fishermen have come in and packed their fish for shipment to various places. The agents have said it was the most convenient shipping point on the coast. Fish to go by boat were taken right off the pier by steamers and those going by train were trucked only a few feet to the cars.

The present season has been an abnormal one. The presence of thousands of barrels of small mackerel along the coast demoralized the regular shipments of scup and similar spring fish, and the large catches along the Jersey coast helped also to this end. Night after night big steamers would come in with small mackerel, which were discharged here but were not shipped, going either to cold storage or to the splitters. Of course many mackerel were shipped, but in comparison with former years the number was small. There was a good deal of talk on the dock and the agents worked to help have mackerel packed in which they were not interested and did nothing for their houses.

The climax came late last week, when a notice was posted in the fish end of the freight shed reading as follows:

"Hereafter there is no fish to be packed, put up or taken away from this dock except fish shipped via New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, New England Steamship Company or steamer New Shoreham. Fish shipped other than these must be packed and put up at some other dock."

There was also a note of the hours at which fish would be received, and the whole was signed by Charles C. Gardner, agent of the company.

Any one can see that the intent is to prevent the landing of fish intended to be disposed of otherwise than by shipping over the lines of the company, or to Providence on the New Shoreham, which lands at the dock. This would prevent the agents from selling fish which a local market desired to buy and would prevent the giving away of fish.

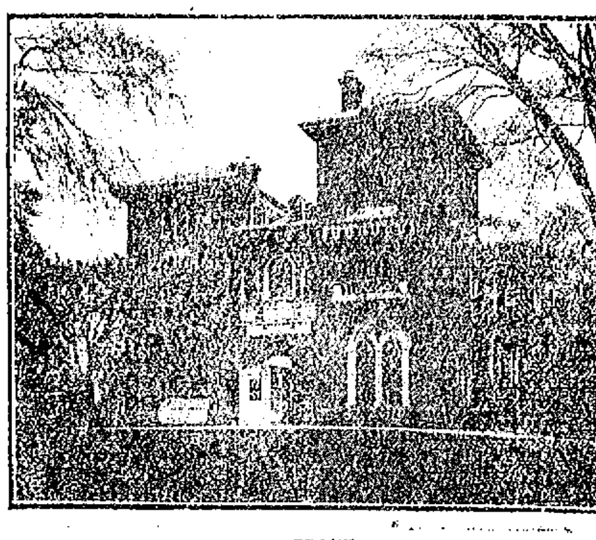

That such was the intent of the order was shown when Fred M. Harty bought three swordfish, which he proposed shipping to Boston by Adams Express, the freight being a trifle late for the market. He was told he could not ship them by Adams. Of course Mr. Harty argued about the matter. He showed Mr. Gardner that the Adams Express is a big customer of the railroad and that the fish would go over the road; there was no other way. The fish did go over the road, and the Adams Express took them.

It is reported that the Newport Fisheries, Ice & Cold Storage Company has been notified that it cannot truck any more fish on Long wharf. The company has a dock of its own, where it has been landing fish for some days and carting them to the depot. Having its own teams this can be done more cheaply than it could by a concern which did not have carts; however, it is a matter of extra cost. The Fisheries Company is probably the largest customer in the fish line the railroad has.

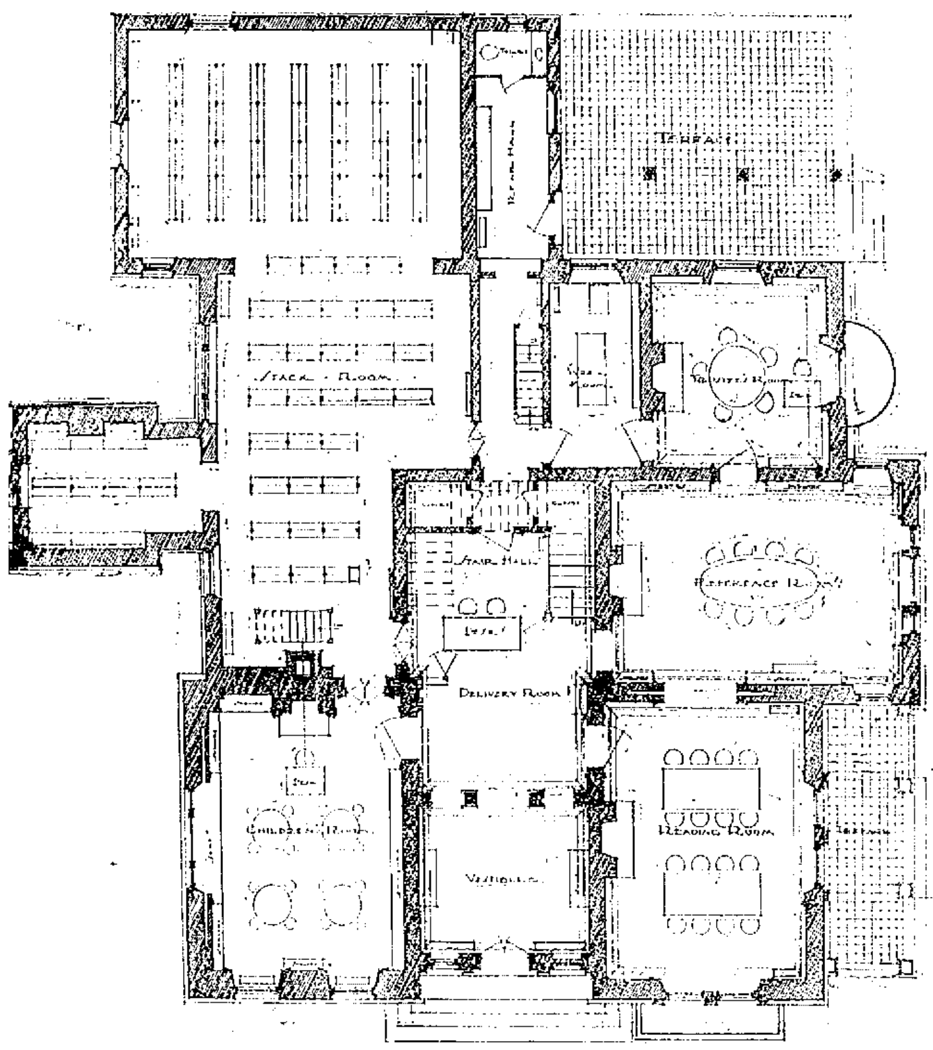

The trouble seems to be that the Fisheries Company has not given the railroad and steamboat lines exclusive rights in shipment. The other shippers do so except on fish shipped to New Bedford, where at times the steam road is too slow and they use the electric trolley express. The Fisheries Company, it is stated, has shipped ...

THE NEW PEOPLE'S LIBRARY.

FRONT.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN.

THE LIBRARY'S NEW HOME.

Structure In Aquidneck Park Opened to the People of Newport Today.

Changes in Former Residence of George Gordon King to Safeguard Valuable Collections.

For the past few weeks Newport has been without a free public library, a matter of necessity because of the change of the People's Library from Thames street, where it was so long established, to its new home in the King homestead in Aquidneck park. Thursday the Library will re-open for the service of the public, but today the structure will be given its introduction to the people. Invitations have been extended by card and advertisement, and those who do not have the opportunity to visit the rooms this afternoon may do so tonight.

The opening is to be entirely informal and there will be no speech-making. The lower floor of the structure will simply be thrown open during the designated hours for the public to wander about freely, that they may see just what a fine place the structure is and how well it has been adapted to meet the needs of the use to which it is to be put in the future. Thursday the doors will be thrown open again, but then as Newport's public library, to issue books for study or recreation, and as a place where those so inclined may go and read.

During the winter months the former residence of Mr. George Gordon King on Bowery and King streets has been extensively altered and rearranged as a new home for the Library. This gift came at a time when it was imperatively necessary that the location of the Library should be changed, and that a larger and more attractive building should be secured, if possible, for the institution, which had outgrown its facilites. While the trustees were wonderng what steps to take to secure a proper place with larger opportunities, Mr. King offered the family homestead in Aquidneck park. This was beyond expectation and the gift was accepted with sincere gratitude.

As a result of the careful study and oversight of the trustees the building has been changed from a private dwelling house to a public building which will safeguard the valuable collections for many years to come.

Entering the front vestibule from the park, attention is attracted to two commemorative tablets. The one on the left is in memory of Mr. Christopher Townsend, the founder and patron of the Library. This was removed from the former building, and is appropriate in character and in inscription for the place it now

A MINE OF CURIOSITIES.

Collection of Old-Style Oil Paintings Found in Gables of Newport House.

Local Craft Included, Especially Whaling Bark in Which Lawton Coggeshall Sailed.

Up in the gables of a house on Bellevue avenue a Daily News reporter, after considerable effort, discovered recently a mine of curiosities in the way of old marine pictures, among which connoisseurs would quickly seize upon this or that unusual specimen. It also came out that the owner of the collection might be willing to consider a few offers of the right sort for some of them. Once they were catalogued, but the edition is out of print. The collection was made by the late Lawton Coggeshall, and many of the pictures the older residents of Newport well recall as hanging on the walls of his office in his ship chandlery establishment on Commercial wharf a generation and more ago.

In the collection are many oil paintings—some ancient, some modern—and photographs of large size which are not only of worth artistically, but also historically. One full-length painting is very interesting, as it is of a noted American, and is done in silk, having been executed in Yokohama, Japan, in 1861, especially for this collection. It is under glass and handsomely framed. The subject of the picture is Captain R. B. Kimball, founder of the Sailors' Snug Harbor in New York. The face is strong, full of character, and doubtless like the photograph; yet the whole picture seems to have a faint touch of the atmosphere of the Orient, and the features and perhaps even more the lower portion of the figure, seem to betray the eastern mind and temperament, just enough to be interesting.

Those who love old style oil paintings of shipwrecks, or of fires at sea, would revel in this collection. There is a remarkable amount of vigorous life, in all the paintings, and these are by no means exceptions. Then, too the sea, whether in calm or storm, is realistic. Often, it seems to the reporter (who does not of course pose as an art critic), paintings are so dark in effect that they are practically all detail, and all animation. This collection is remarkable for being just the opposite of this. Things stand out as if under a properly modulated calcium light. There are not many men on the deck, but those there are just as distinct as they should be.

Here, for instance, is a picture of the Mayflower, in the ... and ... waters of Plymouth harbor. A perfect flood of soft winter light suffuses the whole atmosphere and scene. It is merely a copy, but it deserves to be seen. Here is the caravel of Christopher Columbus, on the billowy ocean, with the other two ships following, ... For a ... there is

FOR NEEDY SOLDIERS.

Object of Military Lawn Party by the Army Relief Society.

At the military lawn party to be given at Fort Adams Thursday afternoon by the Army Relief Society, for the benefit of its funds, which are given to needy soldiers and members of their families, there will be a dress parade by the several companies of coast artillery at the post at 4:15 and dances by Mlle. Sontun at 5:30. Boats will leave Newport on the hour and half-hour, commencing at 3 o'clock, and conveyances will be at the dock to transport visitors to the grounds of the commanding officer's quarters, where the fete will be held, the boats returning to Newport at a quarter before and a quarter after the hour. If the day is not fair the dancing will be in the administration building.

EXTENSION OF BOWEN'S WHARF.

Lighter Archer is engaged on the extension of the pier at Bowen's wharf, which is being lengthened 50 feet for the Fort Adams launches. These have been homeless for some time and have put up at Sullivan's and Bowen's docks since they were forced away from the Government Landing. A contract has now been made with the Bowen heirs for dock space for the Captain Drum and the General Arnold to tie up for the night, and the extension is the result.

POLICE NOTES.

The police report this morning was brief and was largely due to army manoeuvres, it having been pay day at the forts Tuesday. Two men for drunkenness were fined $2 and costs each; one paid and the other could not pay on account of a local stringency in money, and so went to jail. Three others have since been gathered in and will appear before the court later.

Last night a prowler was taken from a piazza of a house on Mary street, having been wandering about in the vicinity of Mary and Division streets. He will be sent home, as he is not needed here. He was here looking for work.
